Count Ilya Tolstoi.
Ivan's Library.
The Blind Story Teller.
Burton and Fannie Hurst

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

COUNT ILYA TOLSTOI, son of the great Russian, would interest you.

He is tall, with wide shoulders, his eyes deep set, blue; rarely smiles. Serious subjects occupy him. A flowing white beard and all his features suggest the noble face of his father, rugged, earnest. The history of Russia, with its centuries of suffering and earnest thought, are written in that face.

You get from him no commonplace answer even to commonplace questions.

What became of Voltaire's library that Catherine the Second bought and took to Russia?

"Ah, that you would probably find in the Hermitage."

A more important question is:

"What became of the library of Ivan the Terrible?"

The Shah of Persia gave it to him, with all that remained of the great library of Alexandria, three times burned.

"Who knows what treasures were in that library, what Greek manuscripts that we thought lost forever?

"Some think it is hidden away under the floor of the Kremlin, with a vast Ivan treasure. The Bolsheviks are probably looking for both now."

THE SON of Tolstoi, who preached against violence, loathes Bolshevism, believes that it is drawing to a close because the peasants will rise against it.

He agrees that Ivan the Terrible made an Asiatic nation of Russia, Peter the Great changed Asiatic Russia to a European nation, and now Stalin is trying overnight to make an industrial nation of peasants that know and want only agriculture.

He calls Ivan, Peter, Stalin, all three Bolshevists. He does not like men that interfere with others and impose their will.

He asks:

"But why call Ivan 'the terrible' when you have Stalin? Bolshevism has killed five millions. Ivan personally ordered perhaps fifty thousand killed.

"He carried with him a little book in which were names of the five thousand most important men that he put to death. Every night with his book he knelt in his chapel to pray, saying, 'God, I am here to pray for five thousand that I have killed. Thou, God, knowest their names.'"

Strange is belief that the souls of five thousand murdered would be helped by the prayers of the murderer.

YOU ASK who was Rasputin, suddenly forced upon American consciousness by the three Barrymores, and this answer comes:

"Well, Rasputin was a remarkable man. Like his father he was a horse thief and a drunkard. Occasionally he would sober up, go into the forest, and become inspired. Then he would visit monasteries and become religious.

"He exercised great power, was a remarkable man, considering that he was a horse thief and a drunkard, son of a horse thief and a drunkard."

COUNT TOLSTOI knew Maxim Gorky, and told this story which should encourage young people of talent not yet recognized. Gorky, destined to be a famous writer, and Chaliapin, now a great operatic singer, were both penniless, almost starving.

They entered a great Russian church and asked the priest to let them sing in the choir. He hired Gorky to sing, sent Chaliapin away, telling him he had no voice.

HOW DID it happen that Count Tolstoi's father, a soldier, member of the aristocracy, very rich, with vast estates, took so early and earnestly to writing?

"Because the mother of my father, a Russian princess, was always deeply interested in stories and told them constantly to my father from his babyhood."

As the twig is bent the tree is inclined. You are reminded of Goethe's saying that from his father he got his height and earnest nature, from his mother his gay disposition, and lust zu fabulieren "love of telling stories."

Hear this story of old Russia:

"My grandmother was so fond of hearing stories that she bought a blind man who was a famous story teller. How do I mean that she BOUGHT him? Well, he was a serf, and she bought him as she would buy any other serf.

"She picked out a blind man because he could sit in a corner of her bedroom and tell stories while she undressed and went to bed. He couldn't see anything, so it was quite correct. At her leisure she undressed, while the blind man droned on.

"She then got into her bed, beside a sacred ikon, with a little oil lamp forever burning near it. My grandmother was very religious.

"The blind man would go on with his stories, until he knew that my grandmother was asleep, and then steal softly from the room, without disturbing her.

"How could he tell that she was asleep? His ears knew, Mr. Brisbane. That blind man had wonderful hearing. He could hear the little mouse licking the oil from the lamp that burned beside the ikon.

"THEY ARE treating my father's estates in Russia well. My sister under Bolshevism made a school of my father's great house. Bolshevists fixed the roofs, made the repairs that my sister could not do. She made them do that. The

HITLER HINTS NEW DRIVE ON JEWS

Will Order Campaign If 'Propaganda' Does Not Cease

International News Service.

MUNICH, March 27.—Acting on the decision of Chancellor Adolf Hitler to "fight fire with fire," the Nazi party is prepairing to launch a definite anti-Jewish campaign "unless the criminal and treasonable propaganda of Jews in foreign countries ceases," it was reported today.

The campaign would be designed at calling attention of the whole German people to the Jewish problem and would include a sweeping boycott of Jewish stores and other similar measures, the reports said.

HITLER DRAFTS PLANS

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, March 27. — (INS.) — Drastic measures to stem the tide of "anti-German propaganda" with regard to alleged mistreatment of Jews were weighed by Chancellor Adolph Hitler today.

In the seclusion of his tiny mountain cottage in the Bavarian Alps, near here, the Nazi dictator drew up plans to curb "untrue stories of Jewish massacres emanating from obscure sources."

Abandoning his original plans to spend at least another day in absolute rest and repose before launching into his self-appointed four-year task of German "rehabilitation," Chancellor Hitler summoned Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, his minister of propaganda, to the mountain retreat overlooking Obersalzburg.

Hitler and Goebbels discussed at great length the foreign reaction to reports of Jewish persecution in this country, with particular emphasis in the nation-wide protest meetings scheduled for today and tonight in the United States.

There was every indication that the Chancellor decided to "fight fire with fire."

'COUNTER-OFFENSIVE'

A reliable spokesman informed International News Service that unless "Jewish anti-German propaganda" in Great Britain and the United States is abandoned, the German government will take no steps to oppose a "counter-offensive" against Jewish propaganists which Hitler believes is inevitable.

As the spokesman put it, the government will take "an indifferent attitude toward a spontane-

Will Shun Germany, Einstein Reiterates

LONDON, March 27.—(INS.)—Prof. Albert Einstein, world-renowned scientist, repeated his declaration he will not return to Germany while Chancellor Hitler remains in power, upon arriving at Southampton from the United States, the London Daily Express said today. It quoted Einstein as saying:

"I cannot go back to Germany, where freedom of word and opinion has been abolished."

Mathay's Shooting Found Accidental

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—(INS.)—The death of State Representative Jacob Mathay, a member of the Legislature from Philadelphia since 1922, which friends at first believed was suicidal, was found by a Coroner's jury today to have resulted from a "gunshot wound of the head, accidentally inflicted."

Mathay was found shot to death in the bathroom of his home March 17.

Charleroi, Monessen Give Teachers Scrip

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 27.—(AP.)—Teachers in Charleroi and Monessen will receive scrip for their February and March salaries.

The school boards have voted to pay them with negotiable promissory notes dated April 1 and payable October 1.

Lay Killing To Jig Saw 'Kibitizing'

A jig saw puzzle quarrel led to the killing of a man whose body was found in a field at Blawnox a week ago, county detectives said they learned from a man and a woman today.

Baffled by the circumstances of the death of Joseph Szparkowski, 40, whose body was found in a field near Oak street, Blawnox, at 2:30 a. m., March 19, the detectives succeeded only today in obtaining evidence he was murdered, they said. Detectives John Duderstadt and Harry Barker said they expected to arrest two men this afternoon.

Assistant Detective Chief Robert McMillen declined to make public the names of the man and woman from whom the statements were obtained, pending the anticipated arrests. The detectives said the couple were witnesses to the quarrel that led to the killing.

Szparkowski was said to have gone to a house where the woman and three men were drinking together. The woman was attempting to solve a jig saw puzzle when Szparkowski became a "kibitzer," the detectives said they were told. Two of the men resented Szparkowski's action, according to the statements, and took him to a field and fought.

Szparkowski was found in the field with a fractured jaw. He died a few hours later in St. Margaret's Hospital. The detectives said his wife lives at 142 Forty-sixth street.

LONDON, PARIS GIVE U. S. VIEWS

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP.)—Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said today he would ask the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Wednesday to report out the resolution providing for American adherence to the World Court.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP.)—Simultaneously the English and French views on economics, which the Roosevelt administration considers is closely linked with European debts, were presented today to the President and his Secretary of State.

While President Roosevelt was engaged in a discussion of the French attitude with Ambassador Claudel and Jacques Stern, vice chairman of the finance committee of the French Chamber of Deputies, Secretary Hull was talking for a second time with Ambassador Lindsay of Great Britain.

After their talk with the President, Claudel said they had discussed the forthcoming world economic conference and that the French favored holding it as soon as possible.

A little later, Secretary Hull issued a statement saying his conversation with Lindsay, which lasted an hour and a half, was confined to topics contained in the program for the world economic conference.

STORE BEER PLAN GAINS DRYS' AID

Pinchot - Organization Project Gets Backing Of Rural Districts

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 27.—Representatives of dry organizations, the American Legion, the State Federation of Labor and anti-prohibition groups at a conference today with Gov. Pinchot agreed in principle with his proposed beer bill which would license the sale of the newly-legalized beverage in groceries and other mercantile establishments, as well as restaurants and hotels.

There was general agreement that the tax raised on beer, through a stamp tax on bottled goods and a similar impost on beer by the barrel, should go to the state, while all money raised through licenses should revert to the counties in which the licenses are procured.

PINCHOT'S COMMENT

The Governor said, in commenting on the conferences:

"In addition to those who talked over the situation today, I have conferred with representatives of the Republican state organization and the Democratic membership of the Legislature, and expect to have further conferences. The bill to be drafted by Attorney General William A. Schnader, probably for introduction Wednesday, should be known as a coalition measure."

Included among those who saw the Governor today were John A. Phillips, president of the State Federation of Labor; Commander Paul A. Griffith, Uniontown, of the American Legion; Dr. W. Homer Tope, superintendent of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League; Mrs. Mary M. Wolf, Laurelton, representing the W. C. T. U.; N. H. Sanner, Pittsburgh; the Rev. W. J. McMichael, Greensburg; the Rev. Noah E. Yieser, Erie; Mrs. Herbert Clark, of the Allied Prohibition Reform Organization, and Joseph Sill Clark, Philadelphia, head of the Crusaders, a wet organization.

Policeman-Boxer, Autoist Trade Blows

H. D. Piel, 61, of Aspinwall, was arrested on a reckless driving charge today after his car smashed into the rear of an automobile driven by Patrolman Francis Boyle, of Morals Court, at Bigelow boulevard and Washington street, the latter reported. Boyle, 53, a former lightweight boxer, said he traded blows with Piel when the latter struck him on the nose.

Reed to Make 3-Day State Speaking Trip

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP.)—Senator Reed will leave tomorrow for a three-day speaking trip in Pennsylvania.

Tomorrow night he is to give an address at the Philadelphia Union League; Wednesday, in Reading; Thursday noon, in Harrisburg; Thursday night, in Carlisle.

Police Seek 500 Women In Beauty Shop Slaying

CHICAGO, March 27.—(INS.)—Five hundred women, whose names appeared on a list as patrons of the two beauty shops owned by Frank Interlande, 33, affluent young bachelor, were being rounded up today as police sought a solution to the "ride" murder of Interlande.

Interlande was found murdered at dawn yesterday. His body, shot through the head, was found in a roadside ditch on the southern outskirts of the city.

In the young bachelor's pockets were found lists containing 500 names, presumably of women patrons of his two downtown beauty parlors. Interlande employed 50 women operators in his shops.

After examining the lengthy list of women, police decided that somewhere in that catalog of names may be found a clue to Interlande's killers. According to his sister, Mary Interlande, who was associated in business with the victim, he had set out for a party Saturday night.

Police were inclined to pass up the theory at first advanced that Interlande may have been murdered by racketeers in their efforts to "muscle" into the beauty parlor business. They preferred instead to concentrate their efforts on the possibility that somewhere in his dealings with the hundreds of patrons, some of them wealthy, he had made a bitter enemy who was moved to revenge.

CHARLES HOWARD KLINE . . . RESIGNING TO ESCAPE JAIL

California Teacher Wins Chemical Prize

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(INS.)—Prof. Frank H. Spedding, instructor at the University of California, today possessed the $1,000 award of the American Chemical Society as that body opened its eighty-fifth annual meeting.

The award was made for Dr. Spedding's use of light reflected or otherwise emitted by solids, as rock or minerals, to reveal their "lattice" structure. Dr. Spedding graduated from the University of Minchigan in 1926.

Davis Lottery Trial Off Indefinitely

NEW YORK, March 27.—(INS.)—The second trial of United States Senator James J. Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, was indefinitely postponed today.

Davis, charged with violation of the national lottery law, is recovering from an appendicitis operation.

French Thugs Steal Million in Stamps

STRASBOURG, France, March 27.—(INS.)—Executing a daring postoffice holdup, robbers escaped today with a haul valued at $1,200,000 in postage stamps.

According to police, the suspected gang has specialized in postoffice robberies throughout France. Today's haul was described as one of the biggest on record of its kind.

Son of Alfonso Reported Married

MADRID, March 27.—(AP.)—It was reported in Monarchist circles today that the Prince of the Asturias, eldest son of former King Alfonso, was married secretly in France on Saturday to Senorita Edelmira Sampedro y Robato, the Cuban girl to whom he was reported engaged some time ago.

RESIGNATION PRODUCED IN COURT; PAY $5,000 FINE, JUDGE ORDERS

By WILLIAM PFARR
Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—Mayor Charles H. Kline today won his battle to escape jail.

Judge Thomas D. Finletter, accepting the verdict of six physicians that a six-months term behind bars would endanger the Mayor's life, wiped out the imprisonment part of the sentence.

The Mayor's ouster from office and a fine of $5,000, imposed by Finletter at Butler following the Mayor's conviction on one malfeasance count will stand.

Kline's resignation will be presented to Council tomorrow, his counsel, Edward G. Coll, announced.

Coll showed the resignation to Judge Finletter as an evidence of good faith.

Kline's withdrawal automatically will place President of Council John S. Herron in the mayoralty office for 20 days.

Judge Finletter modified his sentence after he had talked in his chambers with District Attorney Andrew T. Park and Attorney Coll.

Emerging from Finletter's office, the prosecutor said:

"Well, I'm glad this is over."

The text of Judge Finletter's order:

"And now, March 27, in consideration of the report of six physicians appointed to examine into the physical condition of the defendant, with the approval of the District Attorney, the sentence imposed heretofore on March 1, is modified so as to read as follows:

"That the defendant be ousted and removed from office of Mayor of the City of Pittsburgh and that he pay a fine of $5,000 for the use of the Commonwealth and that he stand committed until this sentence is complied with."

DELAYED BY APPEAL

While the order carries immediate ouster of the Mayor, this is held in abeyance by his appeal to the Supreme Court from sentence imposed. There is no likelihood that this appeal will be heard.

Park gave the judge the reports of six physicians, all of whom agreed that the Mayor was too sick to go to jail. Three of them—Dr. William O'Neill Sherman, Dr. James D. Heard, Dr. A. H. Colwell, the Mayor's physicians—agreed that the Mayor probably wouldn't live a jail term.

The three appointed by Park—Dr. J. S. Logan, Dr. C. H. Henninger, Dr. H. G. Schleiter—concurred substantially in this opinion after examining the Mayor for three days in Allegheny General Hospital last week.

Friends of Bertram L. Succop, former supplies director, convicted along with the Mayor at the Butler trial, are already making plans to have him paroled from jail, where he is serving a one-year sentence. Action is expected as soon as the Kline case is disposed of.

The story of the Mayor's indictment goes back two years.

GROCER'S CHARGES

John D. Houston, wholesale grocer, created much consternation when he charged before Council that the law was being ignored in the distribution of city business by Succop. Houston, whose firm had lost many contracts to the L. H. Parke Company, accused Succop's department of favoritism.

This precipitated an investigation—in fact, two investigations, one by the city, another by a citizens' committee. These audits

Autoist Dies After Collapse at Wheel

State police reported to Deputy Coroner R. D. Newman today the death of John Horan, 35, of 24 South Fourth street, Duquesne, in West Penn Hospital, followed his collapse at the wheel of his automobile shortly after he had picked up two women hitch hikers near a road house in North Versailles Township late yesterday. An autopsy revealed Horan suffered a cerebral hemorrhage. The police report said the man lost control of the automobile and it hit a grease rack at a gasoline station. The women, the police said, summoned aid. Horan was a Carnegie Steel Company clerk.

KLINE AT WORK, SEEMS BETTER

Quicker of step and seemingly in a better frame of mind than he has been since he was sentenced to serve a jail term, Mayor Charles H. Kline returned to his office today—possibly for the last time.

Having left Allegheny General Hospital Saturday after examination by physicians to determine his physical condition, the Mayor came back to his office in the City-County building at 10:10 a. m. His usual dapper self, he answered newspapermen's questions abruptly.

He was asked:

"When are you going to issue your resignation, Mayor?"

He said:

"I have nothing to say. I can't tell you."

With that he walked into his office.

Possibly because of the rest he obtained at the hospital while the physicians were examining him for District Attorney Andrew T. Park, the Mayor's physical condition seemed improved.

MOONEY DARES OLD ENEMIES TO ATTEMPT TO HANG HIM

CHALLENGE HITS PROSECUTORS AND JUDGE

Prove Murder Charges Or Admit Frameup, Convict Insists

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—(AP.)—Tom Mooney today dared his former prosecutors to again prove him guilty of the Preparedness Day parade bombing here in 1916, and, if possible, hang him.

The dare was contained in a statement given newspapers by Mooney's defense committee, which for more than 15 years has sought a pardon for Mooney.

The statement was based upon action of Superior Judge Louis H. Ward in ordering trial of Mooney on the remaining murder indictment against him—an indictment left on the court records all these years, and resurrected by the Mooney defense with the hope an acquittal would provide a moral wedge for Mooney's release from his life term in San Quentin Prison.

TRIAL SET APRIL 26

Judge Ward set the new trial for April 26, and left prosecution to State Attorney General U. S. Webb. District Attorney Matthew Brady withdrew from the prosecution, saying he did not believe Mooney could be convicted again.

Mooney, in his statement, said:

"This is a marvelous opportunity for Fickert, Cunha and Sullivan to come forward and fill the breach left by the withdrawal of the District Attorney's office from the case."

Charles M. Fickert, district attorney in 1916, now is in private practice in Los Angeles.

Edward A. Cunha, San Francisco attorney, was special prosecutor for the trials of Mooney and Warren K. Billings, also convicted and serving a life term at Folsom Prison.

FORMER CHIEF JUSTICE

Matt I. Sullivan, former chief justice of the California Supreme Court, was head of the commission which investigated the Mooney case last year for Gov. James Rolph, Jr., and returned a report that Mooney and Billings were guilty and properly convicted.

Plans for Mooney's new prosecution were still unannounced today. No responsible official had come forward to say what would be done.

Ten persons were killed and two score injured in the bombing of the Preparedness parade. Mooney and Billings have consistently declared their innocence and refused to accept paroles lest the latter be construed as admissions of guilt. All requests for pardons, however, have been denied.

SOVIET REFUSES BRITISHERS BAIL

MOSCOW, March 27.—(AP.)—The public prosecutor has reversed his previous offer to release three British subjects still held prisoners on charges of sabotage.

He refused a request by the Metropolitan-Vickers Company of Manchester, England, that bail be granted the three men and 25 other employes of the company, all Russians, because the company made "entirely unacceptable and unwarranted expressions of opinion that the accused men were innocent and of disapproval of their trial."

It was disclosed yesterday that Allan Monkhouse, Moscow director for the British company, and two other British subjects who had been released under orders to report daily to police were still under accusation. The three still in jail were W. H. Thornton, John Cushny and an electrical fitter named Gregory.

Stunt Flight Kills Vet Pilot, Student

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—(AP.)—Slade Hulbert, veteran acrobatic flier, and Andrew C. Carr, service station operator and sportsman pilot, were killed near the municipal airport yesterday when they leaped from a spinning biplane and plunged to their deaths without opening their parachutes.

Airport officials were at a loss to explain the cause of the accident, other than venturing the opinion that Hulbert had been giving Carr instruction in spinning the small sport aircraft.

DRYS AIDING BEER PLAN

MAY BE LAW APRIL 7

The bill may be given two readings this week, that it may come up for final passage next Monday night. If its progress through the Assembly is unhindered it can become law by April 7, preventing the indiscriminate sale of beer.

Without this legislation there will be no regulation whatever, and the state will lose for a time whatever revenue may accrue from licenses.

The group backing the bill being drawn by Schnader is opposed to the legislation introduced last week by Representative Clinton Sowers, of Philadelphia. They assert the Sowers system would throw down the barriers against the return of the old saloon.

Under the bill to be introduced Wednesday, any place serving food could procure a license. This might lead to the introduction of the "indestructible" sandwich with unlimited "mileage," but it is believed to provide greater safeguards than would the tap room.

Big Beer Rush on Here, Thousands Place Orders

The rush for beer was in full swing today, exceeding the expectations of brewers here.

One brewing company reported thousands of orders have been received in the past few days, and the other two located in Pittsburgh said they were too busy to give an accurate estimate, but said there were hundreds.

The orders are being placed for home consumption, and most of them are for one and two cases. Some, however, have ordered from five to 25 cases.

There can be no deliveries until April 7, the date on which the new 3.2 brew becomes legal.

First Beer to Be Flown to Roosevelt

John A. Friday, head of the Independent Brewing Company, first company here to receive its brewery license, announced yesterday that the first case of beer made by his company will be sent by airplane to President Roosevelt. The plane will leave Pittsburgh at 12:01 a. m. April 7.

15 PCT. FEDERAL PAY CUT SEEN

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP.)—Indications that a 15 per cent salary cut for Federal employes would be imposed by President Roosevelt, effective April 1, were given today following presentation of a survey by the Labor Department that the cost of living had fallen 23 per cent over the country since 1928.

The President was empowered by the economy bill to reduce salaries up to 15 per cent based upon the reduction in living costs.

After a special survey, the Labor Department's Bureau of Statistics reported the following drops in costs between 1928 and December, 1932:

Foods, 37 per cent; clothing, 25 per cent; rent, 24 per cent; fuel and lights, 13 per cent; house furnishings, 26 per cent; miscellaneous, including doctors, medicines, street car fares, moving pictures, newspapers, telephones, laundry, toilet artices and tobacco, four tenths of 1 per cent.

The costs of living in the District of Columbia, where thousands of government employes live, was placed at 21 per cent less.

Barbecue Murder Suspect on Trial

Charged with the murder of William Weddell, in February, 1930, Louis Scoratow went on trial before Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County, after the picking of a jury in Criminal Court this morning.

With two companions, Scoratow is alleged to have staged a hold-up at the Weddell Brothers barbecue stand, near McKeesport, February 14, 1930, when William Weddell was shot dead and his brother, Charles, wounded.

Post Plans Globe Flight With Robot as Co-Pilot

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 27.—With a mechanical man as co-pilot, Wiley Post, of Oklahoma City, internationally famous aviator, is planning a round-the-world flight in an effort to smash the record of eight days 15 hours and 51 minutes which he and Harold Gatty, of Los Angeles, established in June, 1931.

The "take off" date has not been determined. Post is in Mexico testing the robot under varied conditions, such as low altitudes over water and high altitudes over mountains.

Every indication is that the robot will perform 100 per cent, lending a new science to the art of flying.

Post has drawn his general flight plan and started grooming the Winnie Mae, speedy Lockheed Vega, for the new trip. The robot has been installed, synchronized to the plane's individual movements.

All Post has to do to make the robot fly the ship is to shift a knob, as one would operate his radio. The designer of the robot flyer is Bert Carlson, of the Sperry Company. It is not a commercial production.

The secret of the machine's superhuman touch is the governing of the ship's controls by the robot through hydraulic oil pressure. Two small gyros, according to Carlson, operate the jets which open or close the hydraulic lines. A sensitive diaphragm governs the pressure on the lines, keeping the designated altitude.

Downtown Diners Vote 11 to 1 For Beer

Persons who daily lunch at Stouffer's, on Smithfield street, today got a chance to vote on whether or not they wanted beer and wines served there when these beverages become legal.

And the vote—as far as it was counted at 1 o'clock, was announced by Manager Richard Stienberg as follows:

For beer and wines, 335; against, 29.

Customers found at their plate a card which read as follows:

"If the service of light wines and beer are made legal in this state, would you be favorable to Stouffer's supplying this service to its guests in a quiet, dignified manner?"

RELIEF PROBER SLAIN IN FIGHT

BENTON, Ill., March 27.—(AP.)—John Ward, a member of the West Frankfort Relief Committee active in prosecuting 25 persons receiving aid, was shot and killed and two members of the United Mine Workers of America, Elmer Donaldson and Clarence Cooper, both of Eldorado, Ill., were wounded in a gun fight at West Frankfort today.

Officers said there were no witnesses to the shooting and they were unable to learn the details of the fracas. They said Ward was reputed to be a member of the Progressive Miners' faction.

Cooper was critically wounded and was taken to a hospital for an immediate operation. He was shot in the side. A revolver was found lying in the street at the scene of the shooting.

STILLMAN SUIT AWAITS REPLY

NEW YORK, March 27.—(INS.)—James A. Stillman, banker and perennial playboy, was ordered today to put up another argument in the alienation suit brought against him by Luc Rochefort, Canadian and one-time candidate for Mayor of Montreal.

Justice John H. McCooey in Supreme Court, Brooklyn, directed Stillman to show cause why an order requiring Rochefort to post $500 bond should not be vacated. The bond was exacted to indemnify Stillman in the event he won the suit.

Rochefort said he has not been in Canada for three years and that his home and his office as vice president of the Weatherproof Utilities Corporation are here.

Porter Breaks Nose And Work Record

CHARLESTON, S. C.—(AP.)—William Lawrence, 57, night porter at a hotel here, got a break that was a break. He got a broken nose that broke his record for continuous service—without a night off—at his job for 22 years. Lawrence had to stay at home two nights because of the accident in which his nose was injured.

Bolsheviks may deny God, but they cannot deny Tolstoi. Civilization would not tolerate it."

Count Tolstoi tells you that the sister who made Stalin take care of her father's house is now in America, "and very happy. On her little farm in Pennsylvania she has a cow, one hundred chickens and she has written a book. What else could she want?"

TOLSTOI, WHO must live by his pen, said, "Advise me, Mr. Brisbane," and for that reason this column is written as a prelude to this message to Mr. Burton, editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine, first in its field and paying the highest prices:

"Mr. Burton—Get and print stories of ancient and modern Russia, also his thoughts and feelings from this sole son of the great Tolstoi. He inherits his father's talent, but would not write while his father lived, because a 'son of Tolstoi writing would be like a mouse beside an elephant.'

"Ask Fannie Hurst to see Tolstoi, and talk to him. Her talent and kind heart will make it easy for him and give to your readers the real Tolstoi, and the real Russia."

AND TEN to one she will say to Mr. Berlin, Cosmopolitan's business manager:

"Send the whole check to Count Tolstoi. I would not take a dollar of it."

Thus she would place herself beside Michael Angelo who told the Pope, when he was building St. Peter's:

"Your Holiness knows that I gain nothing by it except the good of my soul."

FARM CREDIT AGENCIES MERGED

Order by Roosevelt Consolidates Activities

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt informed Congress today of an executive order establishing all federal agricultural agencies under one unit.

In the same order, the President abolished stabilization operations by the Farm Board.

The new agricultural financial organization is to be known as the "Farm Credit Administration" and will include the Farm Board, the Farm Loan Bureau and various credit agencies in the Department of Agriculture and Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The President wrote:

"A better co-ordination of the agencies involved in our agricultural credit system will produce a more uniform program for agricultural credit and will result in substantial economies.

"A saving of more than $2,000,000 is the immediate effect of this order."

He emphasized the maintenance by the federal government of the policy of aid to the system of co-operative agriculture.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., chairman of the Farm Board, who is expected to head the new government unit, was called into conference by the President.

Meanwhile, spokesmen of individual agricultural interests pressed their objections to the administration farm relief bill today in open hearings before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

ESCORT SLAIN BY ASSAILANTS

HOUSTON, Tex., March 27.—(AP.)—Posses with bloodhounds today were trailing two Negroes who allegedly shot to death William W. Porch, 25, and attacked his companion, Miss Adele Torian, 24.

The hysterical young woman told police she and her escort, both of prominent families, were seated in an automobile about 12:30 a. m. when the Negroes appeared and ordered them out of the car. A moment later, she related, one said:

"I thought I told you to hold up your hands."

Then he shot Porch in the back. Miss Torian said she begged the Negroes for mercy. Unheeding, they blindfolded and gagged her. She was later released.

POLICY LOANS CURB EASED

HARTFORD, Conn., March 27.—(AP.)—Emergency orders issued during the banking holiday prohibiting Connecticut life insurance companies from granting policy loans and paying cash surrender values had been modified today by Howard P. Dunham, state insurance commissioner, to permit payment where necessary to meet payrolls, and on applications made prior to March 10.

Payments on applications made before March 10 will be allowed "after an investigation that the application was made in good faith for engagements made by the policyholder prior thereto."

Under the modified order, loans of cash values may be allowed "up to the amount necessary not to exceed the value provided for in the policy."

Need Lard Market To Boost Hog Price

LINCOLN, Neb.—(AP.)—A better market for lard should be the aim of American farmers if they want good hog prices, in the opinion of A. E. Anderson, state and federal agricultural statistician here.

Loss of foreign lard markets due to tariff barriers, he said, has been a factor in reduced hog prices. To meet this, he favors a campaign to wean American consumers of lard substitutes back to lard.

Makes Up, Drops Suit

KATHERINE MacDONALD HOLMES...."AMERICAN BEAUTY"

Mrs. Holmes, former Pittsburgher once known as the "American Beauty" of the silent films, today reported to be quitting her divorce suit against wealthy Christian R. Holmes, Santa Barbara, because of a reunion with him. He's a nephew of rich Max Fleischmann.

EX-FILM STAR, MATE MAKE UP

HOLLYWOOD, March 27.—(AP.)—Mary MacLaren, former screen actress, said today her sister, Katherine MacDonald, former Pittsburgher, once known as the "American Beauty" of the silent screen, had decided to forget the differences with her millionaire husband, Christian R. Holmes, of Santa Barbara. Miss MacLaren said the couple were visiting in Washington.

Miss MacDonald's divorce complaint in 1931 was attended by charges her husband beat her.

Holmes, the nephew of Max Fleischmann, yeast manufacturer, is known as an authority on wild animals.

Katherine MacDonald left Pittsburgh for fame and fortune in the silent films more than 10 years ago. She married Christian R. Holmes in 1928 and there is one child, a daughter. Miss MacDonald's maiden name is Agnew. Both her parents are dead.

EX-WIFE AWAITS MAURICE'S SHIP

PARIS, March 27.—(INS.)—When Maurice Chevalier arrives in France a few days from now, he may be welcomed at the pier by his divorced wife, Yvonne Vallee, once his partner in the Parisian music halls.

But whether a "reconciliation" is to follow—that is something else again.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service today, Mlle. Vallee reiterated that despite the fact the Paris courts ended their marriage by mutual divorce, she still loves the smiling screen star. She said:

"I'll be glad to see Maurice, and I know he'll be glad to see me.

"Don't forget that Maurice and I were never angry with each other. I have missed him greatly, and I dare say he has missed me too."

East Borough Scouts Plan Court of Honor

The Boy Scouts of the East Boroughs will hold their annual Council Court of Honor in the Rowland Theater at Wilkinsburg, April 30. The event was attended last year by Scout Paul Siple who was with Commander Byrd's Antarctic expedition. Special programs of scout work are being prepared for this year's court by the various troops.

Noted Stage Coach Driver Dies at 75

CONCORD, N. H.—(INS.)—One of the last survivors of the Old Wild West, John May, famous 50 years ago as driver of the bandit-harried mail and stage coach between Deadwood and Laramie, died at the age of 75 years at Palm Beach, Fla., according to word received by Governor's Secretary Harlan C. Pearson.

GARBO ON SHIP BOUND FOR U. S.

STOCKHOLM, March 27.—(INS.)—One of six passengers aboard a tiny Swedish steamship, Greta Garbo today was on her way back to the scene of her triumphs in the United States.

She left Sweden on Friday, cloaking her movements in secrecy, and succeeded in boarding the steamer Annie Johnson without anyone being the wiser. She booked passage under the name of "Miss J. Emerson."

According to information here, Garbo has a new two-year contract to make pictures in Hollywood, and will not return to Sweden until its expiration.

HOLLYWOOD, March 27.—(AP.)—Greta Garbo, Swedish film star, who has sailed for the United States, after a vacation in Sweden, probably will be co-starred in a picture with Clark Gable upon her return here. It has been indicated at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, where her films are made.

BRITISH MOTOR STRIKE GAINS

DAGENHAM, England, March 27.—(INS.)—A strike in British branches of American motor car industries, which started at the Dagenham plant of the Ford Motor Company, spread rapidly to other companies today and increased an original 2,000 strikers to more than 8,000.

Other factories affected were the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Corporation and Briggs Bodies, Ltd., which were forced to suspend operations as a result of the Ford strike.

Special precautions to prevent disorders were taken by police and company officials.

Oxygen Keeps Youth Gored by Bull Alive

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 27.—(AP.)—Gored by a bull, Elmer Harlan, 19, of Princeton, is being kept alive in an oxygen tent at a hospital. Pneumonia developed after an operation necessitated by wounds inflicted by the bull.

JAPAN RESIGNS FROM LEAGUE FORMALLY

Emperor O. K.'s Step, Notice Sent to Geneva

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, March 27.—Emperor Hirohito today formally approved Japan's resignation from the League of Nations.

In doing so, the emperor gave the measure for withdrawal the highest sanction possible in the power of the Island Empire.

This step was taken after the privy council unanimously adopted the measure in a plenary session held at the imperial palace in the Presence of the "Son of Heaven."

The announcement was later telegraphed to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, at Geneva.

CO-OPERATION AT END

The document informs the league that "the Japanese government has come to the conclusion it can no longer co-operate with the league," and hereby notified the league of Japan's withdrawal, according to the provisions of paragraph 3, Article 1, of the league covenant.

The announcement brought to a climax the chain of events begun when Yosuke Matsuoka, Japan's chief delegate, who is now in the United States, walked out of the league assembly when that body adopted a report censuring Japan's military activities in Manchuria.

Limiting its announcement to 700 words, the Japanese government declares the assembly adopted the report condemning Japan through inability or unwillingness to understand the facts of the situation in the Far East.

LEAGUE GETS NOTICE

GENEVA, March 27.—(INS.)—Japan today resigned from the League of Nations. A cablegram announcing Japan's withdrawal of membership was received at 4 p. m. from Tokio by Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League.

Under the terms of the League covenant, the resignation will not become effective until two years from today.

Chinese Fear Drive Beyond Great Wall

PEIPING, March 27.—(INS.)—Belief that the Japanese firmly intend a military thrust south of the Great Wall was expressed today by Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, new Chinese northern commander, in a communication to Col. Walter Drysdale, American military attache here.

Gen. Ho previously had expressed doubts that the Japanese would extend their operations into North China proper.

Battling Robin Deaf To Pleas of Mate

KANSAS CITY, March 27.—(AP.)—Kansas City's window-battling cock robin desisted long enough yesterday to chase an invading bluejay from the H. E. Songer lawn, then resumed his intermittent 18-day warfare with his own image.

Observers were hopeful that the bird's intelligence, together with the blandishments of his mate, might succeed in bringing an end to the futile struggle. Mrs. Robin spent a half hour in the society of the warrior seemingly in an effort to entice him from the glittering windows.

Mrs. Songer, whose windows for more than two weeks have withstood the fluttering charge of the robin, believes he is beginning to realize the hopelessness of the affair.

After considering many suggestions to end the struggle, she announced she had decided to let Cock Robin work out his own destiny. She said officials of the Kansas City Humane Society had agreed that was best.

HIGHLIGHTS IN THE LIFE OF KLINE AS PITTSBURGH'S MAYOR

KLINE'S RISE TO FAME SWIFT, HIS DOWNFALL ABRUPT

Mayor's Spectacular Career Marked by Many Victories

Beaten and sick, Charles Howard Kline was on his way out of public life today only a ghost of the upstanding, able-bodied young man who set out from Lawrenceville in the nineties to make the world his.

The last two years have been a prolonged nightmare of unhappiness for him, but also he can look back on one triumph after another.

Young Kline was 28 when he set out as a young lawyer and his progress was swift—swift enough to give him ample excuse in the eyes of many for the vanity that became a part of him.

Physicians of a dozen degrees may try to find the reason for his serious illness, but laymen who know him will say it was this excusable vanity that was based on his accomplishments.

MONTHS UNDER SHADOW

The long months he lived under a shadow took something from him. When he was convicted by a jury he felt a new sensation. When he heard a judge from the bench, of which he once had been a member, sentence him to spend six months behind the bars—six months with criminals—the shock left him bewildered.

His friends needed no physicians to tell them that the man probably could not survive six months in a prison.

Kline's start in politics has been attributed to the former State Senator Max G. Leslie, once one of Pittsburgh's most powerful bosses.

After a term in the House at Harrisburg and three terms in the Senate, he was appointed to the Common Pleas bench in 1919 by Gov. William C. Sproul and in a few months elected for a full term.

In 1926 he resigned the bench to become the Mayor of his city.

BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

He went into the Mayor's office with brilliant prospects. He had been a harmony candidate, induced to accept the office, so the story goes, by the Mellon powers.

He had made many friends in his years at Harrisburgh, he bore an excellent reputation as a judge.

He was not long in office when critics aimed their guns at him.

The Mayor set up the Republican ward chairmen as dictators in their wards. Their powers were greater than ever before. Members of his cabinet were notified that he would designate the ones to land on the city payroll.

These were moves that aroused anger and criticism.

Constantly the Mayor found it necessary to defend the police force. Accusations that the police department was protecting the rackets rang out regularly.

"BREAD AND BUTTER" TALK

The shouts of his critics doubled in volume when the Mayor arose before an audience of payrollers—city employes—and made his famous bread and butter speech during the 1926 campaign in which the Mayor spoke for the Fisher-Pepper ticket. The Mayor told his hirelings which side their bread was buttered on.

Eventually he was called before a committee of the Senate in Washington to explain his speech.

Those first four years were fairly turbulent but only, it developed, a rumbling of the years to follow after he had been re-elected in 1929. He had won the nomination in a three-cornered race against Councilman Malone and the late Judge Martin.

It was just before his campaign for re-election that the Mayor joined the party of city and county politicians who created history of a sort in sailing to Cincinnati for the celebration of the canalization of the Ohio.

FAMOUS BOAT RIDE

The city hired one steamboat—the Greater Pittsburgher—and the county hired another—the Queen City. Somehow or other, Mayor Kline sailed on the county boat, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern sailed with the city crowd.

At the Queen City sailed into Cincinnati, nobody was on hand to meet the distinguished Pittsburghers. The late County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong was all for going right back.

But they stayed and heard President Hoover speak. In fact, the Mayor, smoking a cigaret, was introduced to the President. Just before the steamers started for home, Wallace Boreland, then city treasurer, died in his berth.

If such exhibitions cost the Mayor esteem, he was still powerful enough to be re-elected in 1929. His first words as he took office again were a proclamation calling for absolute divorce of police and crime—removal of the slightest suggestion of collusion.

Shows Strain of Two Year Fight Against Jail

In the summer of 1930, a few months after there was talk of "Kline for Governor," the Mayor sailed with Mrs. Kline and a nephew for Europe, where, he said on his return, he was wined and dined by royalty.

His second administration was proceeding along the same lines as the first, with the ward chairmen even more secure in their influence, when in April, of 1931, the Mayor was taken to St. Francis Hospital critically ill from an attack of boils which caused infections.

He recovered only to be indicted a few months later by a grand jury.

This, however, did not deter the Mayor from taking an important part in the county commissioner fight. A split with his old political friend, Commissioner Armstrong, caused "Old Joe" to insinuate that the city had paid for an expensive rug which covered one of the floor's in the Mayor's sumptuous apartment. This the Mayor denied.

First definite sign of his waning power came in January of 1932, when he astounded the citizenry by complaining to the courts that he could not get a fair trial in Allegheny County because of inflamed public opinion.

From that date on the political machine—and, no doubt, the physical person—of Charles H. Kline began to disintegrate.

Chronology of Kline, Succop Fight

Feb. 5, 1931—John D. Houston, wholesale grocer, in letter to Council, charges that the L. H. Parke Company, of Philadelphia, was favored with city contracts for canned goods at prices higher than those bid by Pittsburgh firms.

Feb. 11—Mayor Kline opens secret investigation of Houston's charges.

Feb. 12—Houston, denouncing star chamber methods, demands open hearing.

Feb. 24—Bertram L. Succop discharged as head of the Supplies Department by Mayor Charles H. Kline for "visible irregularities."

March 3—Council refuses request of League of Women Voters for open investigation of food purchases. Succop's dismissal ratified.

March 4—Controller James P. Kerr orders audit of Supplies Department.

March 6—Citizens' Committee formed to conduct independent audit of Supplies Department.

March 7—District Attorney A. T. Park assigns two aides to proposed audit.

March 9—Council confirms Mayor's appointment of Col. W. R. Dunlap as Succop's successor in Supplies Department.

March 11—Double audit of Supplies Department by Controller through Price, Waterhouse & Co. and by the Citizens' Committee, through Main & Co., gets under way.

June 1—Prosecutor Park asks June grand jury to investigate alleged irregularities in Supplies Department.

June 25—Kline and Succop indicted by grand jury on charges of malfeasance in office, in three indictments.

July 6—Charles B. Prichard begins work on defense of Kline along with Edward G. Coll. Col. E. L. Kearns named counsel for Succop.

July 7—Grand jury concludes its investigation asking that all records in food probe be impounded for Kline-Succop trial and charging Dr. J. S. Hammers, superintendent of Mayview, with "gross waste and inefficiency" in handling of supplies.

Dec. 6—Park reported as spurning deal to allow Kline to retire and not be tried.

Jan. 7, 1932—Kline and Succop ask State Supreme Court for change of venue on ground that fair trial is impossible in Allegheny County because of "inflamed public mind."

Jan. 19—Supreme Court grants change of venue to Butler County and assigns Judge Thomas D. Finletter, of Philadelphia, to try case.

Jan. 24—March 14 definitely set for Kline-Succop trial in Butler.

March 7—Grand jury investigation of alleged attempts to "fix" Kline-Succop jury ordered by Butler County courts.

March 10—Eight persons, including five Pittsburghers, a clergyman and two others, indicted on charges of embracery by Butler County grand jury.

March 11—Judge Finletter postpones trial to May 2.

May 1—Two Butler County residents arrested in second alleged attempt to fix Kline jury.

May 2—Kline and Succop plead "not guilty" and go on trial before jury of eight men and four women, after attempts fail to quash indictments.

May 12—Jury retires to begin deliberations.

May 14—Jury reaches verdict after deadlock lasting more than 30 hours.

May 14—Jury convicts Succop on 29 counts, Kline on one—that of advancing $5,000 to Henry Braun in payment of truck bought for city before deliv

May 14—Kline and Succop counsel ask verdict be set aside or new trial granted.

Sept. 15—Judge Finletter sets aside verdict against Kline, sentences Succop to one year in jail.

Sept. 15—District Attorney Park announces appeal from Kline victory.

Jan. 26, 1933—Superior Court reverses Judge Finletter, reinstates verdict against Kline.

Jan. 27—Kline counsel announces appeal to Supreme Court.

Feb. 21—Supreme Court refuses to entertain appeal.

Feb. 28—Kline adds Attorney Robert von Moschzisker, former chief justice of Pennsylvania Supreme Court, to legal staff.

March 1—Kline sentenced to six months in jail, fined $5,000, removed from office by Judge Thomas D. Finletter.

March 2—Kline appeals from sentence to Supreme Court.

March 4—Park asks Supreme Court to send appeal to Superior Court.

March 17—Plan to resign.

Kline Spared Jail Term, Resignation Awaited

brought out that thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money had been paid to other than low bidders.

Mayor Kline fired Succop. Succop was quoted as saying he would refuse to be "the goat," but two months ago he began a one-year sentence in the county jail.

Then, on June 24, 1931, the Mayor and Succop were indicted on charges of misdemeanor in office in connection with the letting of these contracts.

CHANGE OF VENUE

In January, 1932, the Mayor created a precedent when he asked for a change of venue. His plea was a confession that he didn't think he could get a fair trial from a jury selected from the people who had helped to elect him. Succop was opposed to this move, but went along, silent.

The change of venue was granted, the trial was moved to Butler County, and the Pennsylvania Supreme Court assigned an outside jurist, Judge Finletter, of Philadelphia, to preside.

Weeks before the trial started a jury-fixing plot was uncovered. Eight were indicted, four of them Pittsburghers.

On the day the trial did start, last May, a second jury-fixing plot was revealed. Two real estate men, one from Bakerstown, the other from Butler, were arrested.

The trial required two weeks. The Mayor was convicted on one count, acquitted on 12. Succop was found guilty on 29 counts, acquitted on 10.

BIDDING SYSTEM

Of the guilty counts against Succop, 24 charged him with fostering a deceptive bidding system by which he gave meat contracts for the city hospitals to A. L. Brahm Co., not the lowest responsible bidder. The state charged trick bids of 1 cent per pound were entered for meats which were never bought—this to bring down the bid's average.

Other counts on which Succop was convicted had to do with the purchase of materials for the hospital at Mayview from the Puffinburg Company, tires from the Glick Auto Supply Company, Penn Tire Company, Popular Supply Company.

During the trial Kline and Succop readily admitted many instances of not awarding the contract to the lowest bidders. But they contended quality and responsibility were apparent in other bids. In instructing the jury Judge Finletter held that no conviction should be returned unless evil intent had been shown by the prosecution—in other words, graft.

ADDED TO LEGAL STAFF

In September, 1932, Judge Finletter set aside the verdict against the Mayor as "contradictory," and sentenced Succop. Park appealed this ruling, the Superior Court upheld him and the Supreme Court refused to listen to another appeal by the Mayor.

Judge Finletter, on March 8 sentenced the Mayor to six month in jail, fined him $5,000, and removed him from office.

Just before this arraignment the Mayor added Attorney Robert von Moschzisker, former chief justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, to his legal staff—as head counsel.

Moschzisker then filed an appeal from the Finletter sentence, not to Superior Court but to Supreme Court—a move which, if successful, would have delayed argument on the appeal until the Mayor's term had almost elapsed. But Park protested this move and asked the Supreme Court to send the appeal back to Superior Court.

Parrot Killed, Buried With Its Mistress

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 27. (AP.)—Mrs. Jennie Grace Magden and her parrot were pals. When the 69-year old woman realized her death was near, she asked that the parrot die, too. Sunday the bird was chloroformed. A tiny casket containing the body of the parrot was placed inside the larger coffin.

India Police Shoot Into Nationalist Mob

CALCUTTA, India, March 27.—(AP.)—One person was killed and several injured today when police fired revolvers while repulsing an attack by a large crowd of Nationalist Congress demonstrators in the village of Banskati, in the Jalpaiguri district.

DELAY RETRIAL OF 7 IN ATTACK

DECATUR, Ala., March 27.—(AP.)—Delay in the transfer of the seven Negroes in the Scottsboro case from the Jefferson County Jail to the jurisdiction of the Morgan County Circuit Court today delayed beginning of their new trials ordered by the United States Supreme Court.

After more than an hour of waiting, the court was notified the prisoners would not arrive until this afternoon and Judge James H. Horton recessed court.

During the hour and a half the court room had been open, a capacity crowd of 425, among them approximately 100 Negroes, waited patiently for the trial to begin.

Ruby Bates, one of the two alleged victims of the attack still was missing, despite an exhaustive search by Attorney General Thomas E. Knight. She disappeared February 27. Victoria Price, the other girl in the case, was on hand ready to tell her story of the alleged crime.

A detachment of National Guardsmen from Hartselle, under command of Capt. Joe Burleson arrived early today to aid Sheriff Davis in managing spectators seeking to crowd into the small court room.

Orchid for Henri? He Suppressed Garlic Odor

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2—(INS.)—A sprig, or more, o laurel for Monsieur Henri Gravier, please. For M. Gravier has succeeded, he claims, in making garlic odorless while keeping it pungent and tasty. Monsieur declared:

"Mais oui, it is so. For nine years I have delved into the garlic in my experiments. Finally, I have extracted its fangs.

"You see my nose. He is not beeg like that of our poetic Cyrano De Bergerac, but he is a very sensitive organ and he likes not at all this garlic odor. So what does Henri do? He takes away the odor, but he retains the delicious flavor."

JEWS TO HOLD PROTEST HERE TONIGHT

At the end of their 24-hour fast protesting treatment of Jews in Germany by Hitlerite forces, the Jews of Pittsburgh will meet tonight in Carnegie Music Hall for prayer and remonstration against Nazi tactics.

Dr. M. B. Lichtenstein, chairman of the speakers' committee, announced that Bishop Alexander Mann, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology; Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute; Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson, Rabbi Aaron M. Ashinsky, Rabbi Goodman A. Rose and Dr. A. J. Ishlon would address the meeting.

Statements made by Jewish residents of Germany to the effect that reports of violence were untrue have been forced from them, according to Oscar Robbins, general chairman of the committee in charge of the meeting.

CHARGES COERCION

He said:

"The statement as contained in dispatches yesterday, in which atrocities against Jews are denied, smacks of coercion and duress and is typical of other such made at other times. A statement from the Jewish war veterans in Germany admits in the same breath maltreatment and excesses have occurred which they are unwilling to excuse."

Speaking on "Haman, Hitler, and Minorities" at the Sunday morning service in the Rodef Shalom Temple, Rabbi Goldenson pointed out the similarity of Hitler and Haman, who sought the destruction of the Jews in ancient Persia. He claimed that from the minorities come most of the advances made by civilization, saying:

"We need strength in this world, and the people who belong to any minority are of more use to society than those who are members of the majority group."

He declared that minorities give those in power an opportunity to test their beliefs by providing answers to their questions.

Catholic Bishop Withdraws From Protest Meeting

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP.)—Bishop John J. Dunn, of the Catholic Archdiocese of New York, withdrew today from the list of speakers scheduled to address the mass demonstration in Madison Square Garden tonight in protest against alleged German anti-Semitic activities.

Bishop Dunn's withdrawal followed announcement by Secretary of State Cordell Hull that he was officially informed that physical mistreatment of Jews in Germany was "virtually terminated."

At the chancery it was said Bishop Dunn had withdrawn from participation in the protest meeting "in deference to the State Department."

Other speakers scheduled to address tonight's meeting are former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Senator Robert F. Wagner, Bishop William T. Manning, and Rabbi Wise.

Graff to Support Paid Vacation Bill

BUTLER, Pa., March 27.—Senator Peter Graff III, of the Butler-Armstrong District, has informed Sergt. Anthony Graham, secretary of the Butler Police Pension Fund Association, that he will support Senate bill No. 474, which provides paid vacations for civil service employes of municipalities. Butler Council has decided that paid leaves will not be given policemen and firemen this year.

Sales Tax Battle Due in Legislature

HARRISBURG, March 27.—(AP.)—Definite steps are to be taken by the Republican state organization to extend payment of the emergency relief sales tax after April 1.

Leaders said a resolution to extend the time of payment is being prepared. It is to be followed by enabling legislation, a procedure similar to that used during the recent banking holidays.

Making Demand

RABBI STEPHEN S. WISE

Rabbi Wise, who announces today that the American Jewish Congress will transmit to Germany's ambassador at Washington "demands" that all anti-Semitic activity cease in Germany.

ous German counter-offensive against the unfounded atrocity campaign."

In justification for this stand, Hitler believes that the foreign governments have taken a similarly "indifferent attitude" toward Germany's official disclaimers that persecution of Jews has taken place.

Persecution at End, Hull Says; No U. S. Protest

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP.)—The American government will not protest the mistreatment of Jews in Germany inasmuch as official reports indicated this has stopped.

Nevertheless, Secretary Hull assured the American Jews who requested an official investigation that he would continue to watch the situation closely.

In a telegram addressed to Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York, and other leading members of American Jewry, Hull said last night that the Berlin embassy and the consulates in various parts of Germany had reported that "whereas there was for a short time considerable physical mistreatment of Jews, this phase may be considered virtually terminated."

HULL'S REPORT

Hull reported:

"There was also some picketing of Jewish merchandizing stores and instances of professional discrimination. These manifestations were viewed with serious concern by the German government."

The anti-Semitic manifestations marked the rise of Adolf Hitler to the dictatorship. Numerous protest meetings were held throughout the United States against the acts of violence attributed to Hitler's brown-shirted storm troopers.

Hull said:

"The feeling has been widespread in Germany, that following so far-reaching a political readjustment as has recently taken place, some time must elapse before a state of equilibrium could be re-established.

"In the opinion of the embassy such a stabilization appears to have been reached in the field of personal mistreatment, and there are indications that in other phases the situation is improving."

MACHINE FIGHTS OLD AGE BILL SUPPORTERS

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 27.—Republican organization leaders today were firm in their intention of fighting a coalition of Philadelphia and Allegheny County Republicans, Democrats and Pinchot supporters of the old age pension constitutional amendment.

The battle is scheduled for tomorrow, unless the organization can be convinced that it faces certain defeat in the House with a consequent loss of prestige.

Representative Clinton A. Sowers, of Philadelphia, author of two resolutions to put the question to a vote of the people, plans to move for discharge of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, which has buried the measures he introduced.

Democratic State Chairman Warren Van Dyke joined the fight against the Grundy and Republican organization groups today with a statement declaring:

"There is nothing radical in the old age pension idea. Twenty-one states have it. With most of our office-holding class protected by pensions against old age, there seems to be no good reason why the ordinary taxpayers—the men and women who pay the huge bill for pensioned public servants—should not have the same protection.

"Grave abuses have crept into our retirement system for judges and state officials and employes, and while the Legislature is on the subject of pensions it might inquire into these abuses with profitable results to the taxpayers.

"We hear of former state officials and former judges receiving lucrative state pensions while actively engaged in drawing emoluments for professional or business services."

Today and tonight organization leaders and Grundy lieutenants will be busy attempting to influence members against voting to discharge the committee and bring the bills to the floor.

HOLDS PINCHOT ECONOMY FOE

HARRISBURG, March 27.—(AP.)—Representative Elwood J. Turner, Delaware, today had charged Gov. Pinchot with desiring to defeat House bill 22, which effects economies in state government. Turner said:

"Notwithstanding the fact that House bill 22 will reduce the cost of government, the Governor wants to defeat it.

"Its check on the unlimited expansion of bureaucracy and high salaries is not pleasing to Mr. Pinchot," added Turner, chairman of the House State Government Sub-committee.

The Delaware legislator characterized as a "smoke screen" the Governor's offer to accept a voluntary 10 per cent cut in salary, his mortgage foreclosure proclamation, reductions in salaries for state employes, and the reports that he is considering legislation to regulate beer.

Tax League Asks Derry School Action

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 27.—The Tax Justice League of Derry township will urge Derry Township's School Board to withdraw from the present school system and conduct its schools within the ability of the taxpayers to pay unless the Legislature and the State Department of Public Instruction makes drastic reductions in local educational units. This decision is incorporated in a series of resolutions adopted by the league, which have been forwarded to the Derry Township School Board.

Assembly Charged With Betraying State Needy

STROUDSBURG, Pa., March 27.—(AP.)—Representative Chester H. Rhodes, of Monroe County, chairman of the Democratic steering committee, today charged that the Pennsylvania Legislature has frittered away 12 weeks without solving any of the vital problems affecting the people. He said:

"The time has arrived when the Legislature must either act or be thoroughly discredited."

He charged that the Republicans are playing politics at the expense of the people while nothing has been done to relieve the public's tax burdens nor to provide relief for the unemployed.

WIFE ACCUSED IN SHOOTING

Information, charging Mrs. Anna Lane, of 39 S. Emily street, Crafton, with felonious shooting was made before Justice of the Peace George K. Ferrell, Crafton, by instruction of acting chief of county detectives James S. McGinley, today.

Mrs. Lane, too ill to be brought to the Court House, has been confined to her home under guard since the shooting of her husband, George Lane, Crafton constable, Friday. Lane is in a critical condition in Mercy Hospital.

Pending the result of her husband's injuries, Mrs. Lane's attorney was to post a $2,500 bond tonight, after which guards will be removed from her home.

Writes 'Gags,' Earns College Education

RACINE, Wis.—(AP.)—Vance Smith is "writing gags" to earn his way through college. Smith has sustained his educational enterprise with proceeds from getting up "conversation" and "gag lines" for established professional prestidigitators. Having discovered, in his own nine years at practicing legerdemain, that a magician's chatter is as important as his dexterity, Smith, just 23, decided there should be a market for conversational "accompaniment." Smith says:

"It isn't that the professionals haven't the ability to write their own lines, but most of them are too busy with the mechanics of their art and they welcome material to brighten up the act."

PUSH BLUE LAW, REPEAL BILLS IN ASSEMBLY

HARRISBURG, March 27.—Senate and House conferees late today may iron out differences over the Schwartz blue law bill. Eventually the bill may pass in a form which will require only ocal option decision on whether Sunday baseball and football shall be permitted in any governmental unit. There is objection to the amendment inserted by Senator John J. McClure, of Delaware County, requiring a state-wide referendum also.

McClure's bill setting up the machinery for a constitutional convention to vote on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, also may go to the Governor tonight. House amendments have been agreed to by the majority of the Senate.

Some question of the constitutionality of the plan, which provides one delegate from each of the state's 34 Congressional Districts and 17 at large, is being heard. The contention is that the convention would not be deliberative, and comes from Democrats who for a time were insisting that there should be a straight-out decision on the repeal issue.

Combatting this constitutional argument is the claim of the backers of the bill that no delegate is bound by his instructions. He will be expected to vote the sentiment of his district, and will announce either for or against repeal, but to the extent that he can change his mind the convention will be deliberative.

Denies People Back Of Blue Law Attack

Declaring movements to repeal the Blue Laws are being sponsored by amusement magnates and not the people, the Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin, president of the National Reform Association, addressed the Dormont-Mt. Lebanon Ministerial Association yesterday in the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church, West Liberty avenue. There is more important legislation to be considered, he said.

Police Patrol, Bakery Truck in Collision

A baking company truck and the West End police patrol wagon collided at Neptune and Sanctus streets early today. Mal Schwartz, 23, driver, of 1706 Center avenue, was arrested on a reckless driving charge. Wagonmen Albert Monzo and Steve Mackin were uninjured.

RELIEF LEADERS URGE CENSUS OF HOMELESS

Mobilization of organizations caring for homeless and transients to determine the needs in caring for them was discussed today by Mrs. Ellis F. Liveright, State Secretary of Welfare, at a regional conference of the State Emergency Relief Board.

A state-wide census to determine the number of homeless and transients in the state was proposed. Mrs. Liveright said that thereafter a plan to provide them with work might be devised.

The needs for legislative speed in providing relief funds for April and May was pointed out by Arthur Dunham, secretary of the Child Welfare Division, Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania. He said the Talbot bill appropriating $2,000,000 to the Relief Board for April and May should have right-of-way in the Legislature in view of the fact that only four days remain until March 31.

Mrs. Liveright spoke this morning and Dunham at a luncheon session at the Hotel Schenley. William B. Rodgers, executive director of the Emergency Relief Board, opened the one-day meeting with a discussion of the purpose and plans of the confernece. John F. Casey, of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, presided.

A round-table discussion of the care of homeless and transients and the plan proposed by Mrs. Liveright was held this afternoon.

SHELBY BACKED BY BANK

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 27.—(AP.)—In his injunction to prevent the State Senate from investigating his private bank account, S. Ray Shelby, Public Service Commissioner, has the backing of the Second National Bank of Uniontown.

The bank's position will be stated in an answer to be made a part of the records to be considered in the investigating committee's appeal from the restraining order granted in Fayette County.

The bank has joined Shelby in his contention that the Senate's investigation would disclose his private affairs which are not germane to the utilities probe.

Masonic Veterans Will Meet Tonight

Masonic Veterans will meet tonight for their quarterly session in the Masonic Temple, Oakland. The Carnegie Tech Women's Glee Club will present a program. Following the reception of new members, a banquet will be served.

Erie Sees 15-Year Gas War Near End

ERIE, Pa., March 27.—(AP.)—Representatives of Erie, the Public Service Commission and the Pennsylvania Gas Company will confer tomorrow on proposed gas rate reductions in Warren, Corry and Erie.

The meeting may end litigation for gas rate reductions carried on by Erie for 15 years.

Powder...

cleans teeth as nothing else can

Doubly Efficient At Only Half The Cost

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dull Teeth Become White

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

It cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

No Grit—No Pumice

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel, as years of constant use have shown.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums, freedom from pyorrhea and the least possible tooth decay.

Lasts Longer—Costs Less

Once you use Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, you will never be satisfied to use anything else. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

THE MIRACLE STORY OF AMERICA TODAY

Arthur Brisbane says: "A million Americans will wish it were true," . . .

"Gabriel Over the White House"

Hollywood calls it the "miracle story," because of amazing things it foretells that have come to pass SINCE it was written . . . and others which America hope will "come true."

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Cosmopolitan Productions have made it into a motion picture with Walter Huston as the president—a picture which will be shown soon at Loew's Penn Theater, beginning Friday.

But the story itself—a President's victorious war over grafters, racketeers, hypocrites, world depression and despair, will thrill you as no other fiction ever has.

MOTHER OF SPY SUSPECT AIDS SON AT TRIAL

LONDON, March 27.—(AP.)—Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart, youthful Seaforth Highlander accused of revealing army secrets to a foreign agent, sat in the Chelsea Military Court today and heard his mother, Mrs. Elsie Beatrice Wright, and his brother, Lieut. Eric Stewart Wright, give evidence in his behalf.

The 24-year-old defendant changed his name from Wright to Baillie-Stewart in 1929.

Mrs. Wright testified in a quiet voice, occasionally turning her head to glance understandingly at her son. Her evidence bore partly upon the young lieutenant's income, which included an allowance from home of about £9 (about $31), which he had declared was supplemented by money received from a mysterious Berlin girl, Marie Louise, who became infatuated with him.

JUDGE ADVOCATE IMPRESSED

The judge advocate presiding over the courtmartial said that in his charge he will tell the court that no evidence has been produced to support an accusation of intentional treachery. He made this statement as Norman Parkes, defense counsel, was summing up his case.

Baillie-Stewart's explanation of the receipt of £90 in the mail from Germany is that the money was sent him by a girl named Marie Louise. The prosecution contended that it was payment for the betrayal of military information.

Parkes, reviewing the testimony, said that up to the moment of his departure for Berlin last summer Baillie-Stewart had expected to be accompanied by a friend. He said:

"So far it is clear that there was no treacherous intention in his mind."

The judge advocate interposed:

"I shall tell the court so."

Baillie-Stewart's brother, in testimony, however, said the accused had taken him into his confidence about Marie Louise. Baillie-Stewart told his brother at Christmas time he had received money from her. Wright was very much annoyed and testified he called his brother a "fool."

Moreover, Wright said he knew about the trip Lieut. Baillie-Stewart made to Holland after the Berlin visit and tried to dissuade him from making it. He did not know then his brother was going to see Marie Louise, he said, but gathered it was some woman. Wright said:

"Women were on his mind the whole time."

UTILITIES SUED FOR TAX REFUND

Statements of claims were filed today in Federal Court in actions brought by the government against the Duquesne Light Company, Philadelphia Oil Company and the Equitable Gas Company, subsidaries of the Philadelphia Company, to recover on income and excess profit taxes which were alleged to have been erroneously refunded by the government.

The statements were filed by United States Attorney Louis E. Graham and Attorney John A. McCann, local representative of general counsel, Bureau of Internal Revenue. In the three suits the government seeks to recover $492,402.27, with interest, from February 26, 1930.

The government seeks to recover from the Duquesne Light Company $333,809.56 for 1917 and 1918; $105,576.18 from the Philadelphia Oil Company for 1918, and $53,016.53 from the Equitable Gas Company for 1917 and 1918. Precipes in the actions were filed February 19, 1932, and the same three firms were named in a blanket suit filed January 31 against the Philadelphia Company and 216 affiliated firms.

In the statements of claims filed today the government alleges that erroneous deductions were made by the defendant concerns for listing sale of capital stock on the stock exchanges at Amsterdam, Holland; erronous deductions for depreciation of assets, and erronous deductions regarding leases of properties from the Philadelphia Company and other alleged irregularities.

Pershing Refuses To Be Invalid, Goes A.W.O.L

TUCSON, Ariz., March 27.—(INS.)—Gen. John J. Pershing has committed that most heinous crime of Army life, "Absent without leave."

After obeying his doctor's instructions implicitly for months, the famous A. E. F. commander, whose word was law to millions in the trenches of France, has broken orders. He has come forth from the life of a recluse, necessitated by a throat affliction, to chat with sick war veterans, to visit schools, to give luncheon parties, and to greet visitors.

He admits that the doctors "want me to become an invalid but I'm not going to lie around for the rest of my life."

STEEL GROWTH LEVELING SEEN

Industries, particularly the steel industry of Pittsburgh, no longer can maintain a mounting debt structure with their production curve bending lower, and consequently their growth is now leveling off, in the opinion of Prof. Walter Rautenstrauch, of Columbia University, who once gave a haven to the Technocrats but carefully shunned any mention of them today as he addressed the Hungry Club in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Furthermore, Prof. Rautenstrauch sees no possible chance for an employment rebound in the productive industries.

A correction of the present industrial weakness will come only with an understanding and application of quantitative units and scientific management of industry, he says.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

HITLER PROTEST :-: Notables Address Jewish Rally in N. Y. :-: ON AIR TONIGHT

Variety Show In Hollywood Broadcast

Principal speeches at a meeting held under the auspices of the American Jewish Conference at Madison Square Garden tonight for the purpose of voicing a protest against Chancellor Hitler's alleged religious discrimination and persecution in Germany are to be broadcast over CBS-WJAS from 10 to 10:30 p. m.

The list of speakers includes Alfred E. Smith, Bishop William T. Manning, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Bernard S. Deutsch, and Gov. Herbert Lehman, of New York.

"Hollywood - on - the - Air" brings a gala variety show featuring the stars and music of the new musical comedy film, "Maiden Cruise," to WCAE listeners at 12:30 a. m. Participating stars are Phil Harris, Charles Ruggles, June Brewster, Shirley Chambers, Chick Chandler, Helen Mack, Director Mark Sandrich, Associate Director Lou Brook and Harry Jackson and his orchestra.

Following numerous successful appearances in the South, Johnstown's "Keystone Songsters," a close harmony-steel guitar trio, make their KDKA debut tonight at 10:45.

Tommy McLaughlin will celebrate his two-hundredth broadcast next Wednesday night.

The Lefridge Trio replaces Dave Broudy's ensemble in the WWSW 6 p. m. spot beginning tonight, with the Masked Tenor continuing as soloist.

The Navy Department is planning to remove the ban on broadcasts by the United States Marine Band and restore the band's famous "shut-in" program.

Following the complaint registered herein last week, about the tendency of radio performers to play up to visible audiences in the Times Square Studio and Carnegie Hall, at the expense of outside listeners, the news comes that the sponsor of Stoopnagle and Budd will stage future broadcasts, after tomorrow night, in the WABC studio instead of Carnegie Hall.

Radio Pays Tribute Tomorrow To 'Safety First' Pittsburgh

By AIRCASTER

Tomorrow's the day when radio pays tribute to all you good little boys and girls who are careful about crossing the streets—not to mention several thousand assorted automobile drivers, safety engineers and traffic cops.

The occasion is the nationwide Traffic Safety Contest award for 1932 in which Pittsburgh shares first honors with Evanston, Ill.

The ceremonies, carried over KDKA, begin at 1 p. m. when Frank J. Lanahan, of the national group's executive committee, presents the laurels to the Better Traffic Committee at a William Penn Hotel luncheon.

The festivities continue via an NBC network at 1:30 when felicitations are passed around by Gov. Ely, of Massachusetts; Alfred Swayne, vice president of General Motors, and Robert I. Catlin.

And with our own Junior Patrol safety drive going full speed ahead under the direction of "Chief" Quinn Hall, Pittsburgh, of course, expects to set the pace for the nation again in 1933.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello ladies and gentlemen:

We broadcast a story about a girl from Reading who challenged all comers in a pretzel rolling contest. If such a competition does materialize, Pittsburgh's entrant probably will be Mary Oross, of Homestead, who rolls 50 curleycues a minute at the Pittsburgh Pretzel Company.

Another version of the robin shadow boxing on the window-pane comes from S. A. Heffelfinger, of Greentree Borough. For two years a robin battered itself at its image at his house. On investigation it was discovered that the robin had lost its mate and perhaps in his grief believed the image to be that of his beloved.

We have more than birds figuring in the news. At the request of her teacher, Ruth Miller, of McCandless avenue, brought a gorgeous spring butterfly to school. Poor butterfly. What's it going to do when all instinct commands it to flit from flower to flower and all we have is snow?

Pitter, patter, pitter, patter,
Be still my beating heart.

"You are saying goodbye and I am saying 'Hello Darling'!" begins a letter written at the close of a broadcast. It's unsigned! Can you tie that? Serves me right for complaining about anonymous letters.

Lady G., Edgar Stevens, Mrs. Arent, many thanks.

Freda Lenz. The answer to your question was printed weeks ago. Adele Garrison's stories have been running in the paper for over 20 years.

McCanns was the only Pittsburgh food store to sell Chesapeake Bay Shad last week. The weather was so bad fishing was retarded and finally prevented entirely. All the Chesapeake Bay Shad caught by one of the largest shad shippers . . . some 4800 pounds, were sent direct to McCanns. For McCanns is known far and wide as the QUALITY FOOD STORE.

Unfurred Easter Coats

For Shorter Women

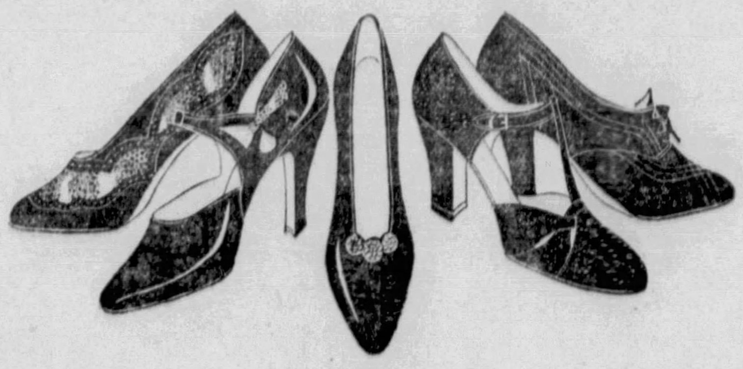
$16.75

This is a new group from one of our makers who believes that an unfurred dressy coat should be of beautifully fine fabric, the style outstandingly smart so that the absence of fur is not a lack, and all finishing details well done.

The four models uphold his ideal to the last letter. The material is a fine crepe woolen with a delightful feel, the models are frankly flattering to the shorter figure, and wait till you see the tailoring!

Black, Corsair blue, gray and beige.... Sizes 33½ to 43½.

...Horne's, Women's Coat Section Second Floor...



A Matter of 800 Pairs Regularly $10

Women's Spring Footwear

Black Kid
Brown Kid
Blue Kid

$7.85 Pr.

Brown Calf
Black Calf
Beige Watersnake

If we were permitted to mention the name of the maker, every woman would recognize it instantly as one of our smartest lines of fashion footwear, but because of the reduced price, we have been specifically requested not to do so. You will find the selection satisfactory in every way, as if you were paying full price, with the exception that there are not complete sizes in every number. There are all sizes in the lot, however, and good size assortments throughout.

Both hand turns and welts in a selection which includes oxfords, straps, pumps, sandals, and step-ins.

...Horne's, Shoe Salon, Fourth Floor...

THINGS are looking up across the country, and we mean to keep them that way if unusual values will do it! We're not as much concerned with profits at the moment, as with having what people want and encouraging them to supply their spring needs freely and fully. This is the only road back to normalcy, and we are happy to help lead the way!

Sports Frocks of Chiffon Boucle

Chiffon boucles that have been in our stocks at $10.75, the kind that are favorites with hundreds of Pittsburgh women. Frocks liked not only as spectator sports types, but also for luncheon and bridge wear.

One-piece models with lacy tops and sleeves—mostly in solid colors, also some with the tops in novelty open-work checks. Long and short-sleeve frocks are included, in misses' and women's sizes 12 to 42.

In arbor green, toast, beige, navy, ceramic blue, pastel blue and rose rust.

...Horne's, Sportswear Shop, Second Floor...

Tomorrow at 2:30—Demonstration of

The One-Hour Dress

The dress will be cut from the pattern, fitted, and completed to the last finishing detail, in just an hour . . . a demonstration of the ease with which home sewing may be done today, with the aid of modern patterns and devices.

Miss Reuter, Sewing Instructor, will conduct the demonstration . . . which will be interesting alike to beginners and experienced seamstresses.

At the same time, women who have just completed the first of the sewing courses under Miss Reuter's direction, will model garments they made in the classes.

...Auditorium, Seventh Floor...

Children's Floor Clearance

In going over our children's stocks, we have found a number of groups in which sizes are incomplete, assortments broken, or which for some other reason we desire to dispose of at reduced prices. All are seasonable styles and weights, and the reductions we put upon them will make them extremely attractive to parents who want to give their children the benefit of Horne qualities and also are interested in economies. Because of limited quantities, we cannot fill mail or telephone orders, and all sales will be final.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

DEAR W. W.: I phoned the Florists Telegraph Delivery Ass'n and thanked them for you—for the way they read your column to learn the names of the people you orchid. Then they immediately wire orchids to them wherever they may be, nice? . . . I told the FTD that you also appreciate the WW orchid booth at the Flower Show, and that you would have been there if it weren't for the four and five shows a day at the theater . . . They said don't worry—they understand and so on.

Jack Dempsey phoned. Said he has to go to Utica to referee a bout there—but will be over to the Brooklyn Paramount for one of the shows . . . Tallulah Bankhead may be there also for one of the shows . . . I sent your check for $1,000 to The Stage Relief by Johnny—so that they would get it sooner.

Will you please ask Sally Fields to get in touch with her mother—very urgent . . . Did you hear about Sarnoff, Harry Warner and Nick Schenck holding a meeting in Mr. Hays' apartment, at which Hoover sat, and they all attempted to discuss peace among the movie magnates? It wound up in an argument! . . . Did you ever know that the critic of the Trib many years ago, who was named William Winter—had an assistant named Henry Frost? . . . Brrrr! . . . Besides all his other records—Ben Bernie had the honor of being the first radio chatterer to discuss the sale of beer on the air! . . . I love the idea of beer being legal again on your birthday! . . . How did you ever arrange that? Heheheh . . . I saw "Strike Me Pink" again, and it is gayer than ever. Durante absolutely leaves me limp from screaming and Lupe Velez certainly has everything . . . Lew Brown, the producer, by the way, has a new ditty—plenty swingy. It is christened—"I Gotta Pass Your House to Get to My House (That's What's Driving Me Crazy!)" . . . Would you say that that certain hand-shaking phony columnist always leads with his right? . . . It's not a small world, at all, Walter. It's the "small" people in it.

Oh, here is something I forgot to tell you. . . . All the lads in Bernie's band think you're plenty swell. . . . Because on the first day when Ben said: "Those are my lads," you said: "I want to meet each one of them. I want to shake hands with them individually" . . . One of the boys later told me, Walter, that in all the bills they've been on and with all the alleged big shots, you were the first to say hello to them personally. . . . Here is something for Things I Never Knew, etc. Al Goering, chief arranger and pianist for the Bernie band, who has been with the outfit for 12 years, cannot tie a bow tie. . . . And for 12 years has had one of the boys do it for him!

Clyde Kelly, the baritone, of "Music in the Air," is now at the Embassy . . . He was the lad who won the Atwater Kent prize for unknown canaries in 1932 . . . Evalyn Knapp and Don Cook are still psychopathic about each other . . . I told those people that you would feel honored if they would make you the honorary chairman in charge of publicity for the new organization of actors which is planning to stop the benefit racket . . . It is a swelegant idea they have—to stop all actors from being made to appear gratis. If their plans go through—then 25 per cent of the gross—not the net—must go to their charity for the actors who can't get work and are in distress . . . I also told them that you turned down playing a benefit because you were in sympathy with the 25 per cent to charity (for actors) plan—and that you've been fighting for the plan for many years—and it is about time that some of the actors took it up! . . . And also this—that you never again will give a free ad to any benefits—unless they kick in with some money to that charity . . . Lyon Mearson, the playwright, says to please send him a scallion—he can use it for eating—now that his show is closed. Your Girl Friday.

Here's a good one to rack your brain on. Let's see if you can do it.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor

Here's a new cipher that should keep you going for some time. It's No. 76 submitted by Malcolm Nevins, of New Kensington, Pa. This should cause you to lose quite a bit of sleep. That's if you want to find the decoded message. It's sure a hard one.

Watch for the tip tomorrow it's sure to help.

Write the Cipher Editor and tell him how you enjoy this new game.

Cipher No. 75 was hard, wasn't it? Did you solve it? If you used the key in the right manner, it should have been easy. Here's how it was done.

Take the key and trace it on a sheet of tissue paper. Next hold it over the cipher. Continue in this manner taking one block at a time to complete the message.

Will the following fans make up a better code for their ciphers: B. Hanover, of McKees Rocks; John Murrio, of 1010 Wylie avenue; Thomas E. Bambrey, of Everson, Pa.; and Adam J. Walker, of Aliquippa, Pa. Say fans, let's leave out the music ciphers.

New Policy to Begin In Sheridan Square

Beginning Friday a new policy will become operative in the Sheridan Square, which thereafter will present first-run double bills for a week, the pictures to be the same as those offered in the Davis at the same time. Heretofore the Sheridan Square has been on a split week basis, with changes of second-run pictures on Wednesday and Saturday. The first bill under the new plan will be Paul Lukas and Loretta Young in "Grand Slam" and Jack Holt and Lilian Bond in "When Strangers Marry."

Ann Dvorak Returns to Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL
(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 27.—After her winter of discontent, Ann Dvorak is back in town, and friends have about persuaded her to resume her screen work at Warner Brothers.

The youthful actress and her husband, Leslie Fenton, returned from their travels last week. It was the first they had seen of Hollywood since Ann walked out on Warner Brothers nine months ago. Since then they have toured Europe, and Fenton did a German picture, "F-P-1." Odd story, too, all about a hotel in the middle of the ocean—one of those proposed artificial islands to provide midway stopping points for trans-Atlantic planes.

Miss Dvorak

But to return to the Warner matter, the young couple had scarcely arrived in town before the studio notified Ann's agents for her to report to work at her old salary—or rather half of it during the emergency period.

Talking to friends in the Brown Derby, Ann and Leslie related plans to continue their travels on to Yokohama. Later, following conferences with Ann's agents, they are said to have modified this decision.

* * *

Although innocent of intent, Philip Numooruk, chief of M-G-M's imported Eskimos, gave the studio one of the better laughs of the week.

A publicity man was interviewing the newcomer about the trip from the Arctic.

"And, how do you like Hollywood?" he asked.

The chief puzzled for a moment.

"No place like Nome," he replied.

* * *

Outwardly quiet but with strong undercurrents of drama was a small birthday celebration which took place in Hollywood. The cake with the candles was for Joan Crawford and those present were Joan, her mother, her brother, her sister and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Mr. Fairbanks

Freshly supplied with eight new men's suits, but forsaking them for the evening, Marlene Dietrich showed up at the Cocoanut Grove in company with her leading man, Brian Aherne. Whenever la Dietrich goes out, she travels in her own car. And, as she and her escort disappear into the door of their destination of the evening, her chauffeur takes off a big overcoat, plainly displaying a revolver in a holster strapped to his shoulder.

It's a toss-up as to whether Stuart Erwin makes any more pictures at Paramount. They are arguing over contract, and the star is likely to throw his hat into the freelance ring at any moment . . . Will you believe it?—Jack Oakie has a chauffeur. What with stiff shirts, collars, ties, spats, etc., Peggy Hopkins Joyce has practically made him over. Oddly enough, Peggy has no chauffeur of her own. She drives around Hollywood in a car of modest and familiar make.

* * *

Patsy Parker and Bert Wheeler are going to Honolulu—properly chaperoned, of course. Patsy's sister is here on her way to the islands to be married and Pat will be maid of honor. Bert is taking the same ship to be with his favorite blonde. Either Patsy's mother or a friend of the family will go along.

Mr. Wheeler

Those lucky people, Carole Lombard and William Powell, are to have a vacation and the wines brought up from the cool cellars of the San Angel Inn. Or those Diego Rivera murals in the ancient civic building at Cuernavaca.

Did you know: That John Barrymore made an airplane flight in France way back in 1909? That was when most of us were still scared of automobiles.

Irene Dunne to Play 'Ann Vickers'

Irene Dunne, currently appearing in RKO Radio's "No Other Woman," has been chosen to play the coveted lead in the film version of Sinclair Lewis' novel, "Ann Vickers." Louis Weitzenkorn, author of "Five Star Final" and contract writer at the RKO Radio studios, is adapting "Ann Vickers" for screen use, according to the announcement by Merian C. Cooper, new executive producer.

Plays and Players -:- By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"The Green Pastures," Marc Connelly's play about the conception of heaven held by the southern darkie, based on Roark Bradford's "Ol' Man Adam and His Chillun," will open tonight in the Nixon. The author is expected to be in attendance. "The Green Pastures" is in 18 scenes, divided into two parts. It will be presented by the original all-negro company, headed by Richard B. Harrison, including a choir that takes the place of an orchestra. There will be the customary Wednesday and Saturday matinees. This play, now three years old, has a record of 640 consecutive performances in New York and 160 in Chicago. It is proposed to tour it for two years more and then have it return to New York for a second engagement. Its success has brought other plays of similar nature to the New York stage, but it is a matter of common theater knowledge that Mr. Connelly, despite the fact that he was a playwright of established reputation, could not induce any established manager on Broadway to touch "The Green Pastures." So it was produced by Laurence Rivers, Inc., a legal alias for Rowland Stebbins, who had been an engineer prior to entering a stock exchange firm.

* * *

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" will be given in the Nixon next Saturday morning by the Children's Theater Company, of New York. Tickets for this play for kiddies can be obtained at Mellor's.

* * *

When S. N. Behrman's comedy, "Brief Moment," is presented by the Co-operative Playhouse of the Y. M. H. A. next Sunday, April 2, and Tuesday, April 4, the performances will be the first of this play in Pittsburgh. It was one of the successes of last season in New York as a vehicle for Francine Larimore.

* * *

Another Little Theater effort of the same week will be "Minick," also to be given in the Y. M. & W. H. A. Thursday evening, April 6, by the Pitt Players of the University of Pittsburgh. George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber wrote it.

* * *

It does happen at least as often as a "Three-Cornered Moon," this writing of a successful play by a novice. Gertrude Tonkonogy did it, and she called it "Three-Cornered Moon," now clicking in New York. Until she wrote it she was a stenographer. Now her royalties will range from $500 to $800 a week. Yet every week plays written by veterans take the count.

* * *

Jean Harlow, Mae Clarke and Lionel Barrymore have all signed new one-year contracts with M-G-M. . . . Mary Boland, who spent the season on the stage, has returned to Hollywood for another summer of pix. . . . Irving Pichel, Pittsburgh actor, will direct Ann Harding in her next picture, "Prelude to Love." . . . If everybody who has been mentioned gets into the cast of M-G-M's "Hollywood Revue of 1933" it will include Lawrence Tibbett, Ed Wynn, Jack Pearl, Jimmy Durante and Charles Butterworth. . . . The first televising of a photoplay, "The Crooked Circle," from a Hollywood radio station to a nearby store, occurred last week.

Broadways of the World
All in a Day
By Mark Hellinger

ABOARD THE S. S. RESOLUTE, INDIA-BOUND.—The diary of a Broadway reporter as he passes through the Suez Canal:

8 a. m.—Awakened by steward, who tells me it's 8 o'clock. I ask him why he gets me up at that unearthly hour. He says he's sorry and goes away.

8:15 a. m.—Awakened by steward, who says it's 8:15 a. m. I figure it's no use arguing. I arise.

8:45 a. m.—Breakfast in cabin. Said breakfast consists of one bromo-seltzer, one aspirin, one egg, one coffee and one prayer for ultimate recovery.

9 A. M.—I go on deck. The boat is steaming slowly through the canal, which is definitely uninteresting. The desert on both sides and little sign of life of any kind. The weather is decidedly hot and terribly uncomfortable. There is a very strong sun and I decide to go downstairs for my dark glasses.

9:15 A. M.—Back on deck again after forgetting completely about taking glasses.

9:30 A. M.—Discover that I am not the only passenger on the boat who has decided to remain aboard while the Resolute goes through the canal. My companion—as usual—is a little old lady with grey hair that is done up in a knot. She thinks I am somebody else, gives me a cheery "good-morning" and continues her walk around the deck.

9:50 A. M.—We pass a tiny Arab village on the bank of the canal. I decide to get the camera out in order to be ready for the next village we pass. On the way down, I pass the little old lady. She gives me a cheery "good-morning" and tells me it's very hot.

9:55 A. M.—Return to deck with sun glasses from cabin, but forget to bring camera.

10:05 A. M.—Awakened by a steward who desires to know if I wish anything. Decide that I will do no sleeping from now on, as there is a plot against it on part of stewards.

10:10 A. M.—Asleep again.

10:12 A. M.—Awakened by thought that a steward is about to awaken me.

10:20 A. M.—Wave hectically at little Arab boy who has stopped his donkey to gaze at ship. He ignores me completely.

10:30 A. M.—Decide that, because of the heat and only because of the heat, a cold beer might not go badly. Descend to barroom and awaken a steward, which gives me more pleasure than the beer.

10:32 A. M.—Little old lady passes through smoking room and looks at me most disapprovingly. She wants to know if I am actually drinking a glass of beer in the morning. I tell her I am—and will she join me? She walks away very rapidly.

10:36 A. M.—Decide that I will send postcards to Barney Gallant, Peggy Joyce, Ed Mori, Walter Winchell, Ted Husing, Al Jolson, Billy Moore, Billy Gaxton and that second showgirl from the left in the original "Floradora" company. Bar steward informs me that the shop is closed and no postcards are available. I am greatly relieved.

10:45 A. M.—Make up my mind to do a sob story about a reporter who fell in love with a chorine. He wanted to marry her, and she couldn't quite make up her mind. She finally got the hives, swelled up in great fashion—and then turned the reporter down because he couldn't truthfully say that he loved her twice as much.

10:47 A. M.—Suddenly remember that my typewriter is downstairs and that it's too hot to do a column anyhow.

11:00 A. M.—Go out on deck to see another Arab village. Several children wave at me frantically. I ignore them completely. They're not going to fool me twice.

11:10 A. M.—Recall with a start that the ship's news should be posted around this time. Race downstairs to bulletin board, only to learn that the news will not arrive until later.

11:14 A. M.—Meet little old lady. I bid her a cheery "good-morning" and tell her it's very hot. She seems highly pleased.

11:34 A. M.—Decide that, because of the heat and only because of the heat, a cold beer might not go badly.

12:45 P. M. — Luncheon is served. There are but three people in the huge dining room that is completely filled when the cruise passengers are on board. I can see the little old lady from where I am sitting and she takes every single item on the bill of fare.

1:20 P. M.—Visit bulletin board to see if day's news has arrived yet. It has not. Decide to attempt a nap on the chances that the steward might be sleeping too.

4:15 P. M.—Awaken decidedly refreshed and leap for my typewriter, which I bring to the smoking room. Am getting along fairly well on a column when little old lady passes and wants to know what I am doing. I tell her I am playing backgammon at the Atlantic Beach Club—and she says she is very much surprised because she thought I was writing something instead of playing a silly game.

6:40 P. M.—Much to my surprise, I finish column. Decide to have a glass of beer because the air is growing just a trifle chilly.

7:00 P. M.—Go downstairs to see if day's news has been posted yet. No luck—and I'm doggone anxious to see the stuff. Return to my cabin to dress for dinner and tell my steward to get me a copy of the wireless news as soon as it's posted.

7:30 P. M.—Dinner. The little old lady is still eating. I don't know what she's paying on this voyage, but she's certainly getting her money's worth.

7:32 P. M.—The little old lady complains to the steward in a loud voice. She want sto know why there were three meats for dinner the previous night—and only two now.

9:00 P. M.—After several walks around the deck and two losing games of solitaire, decide to turn in. Haven't had much sleep of late and feel that an early retirement can't do any harm. First finish a brandy to ward off any pneumonia that might be in the air.

10:30 p. m.—Sleeping soundly when steward pounds at door with copy of the day's wireless news. Can't bawl him out because I left definite instructions to that effect. Grab the three sheets of closely typed manuscript and begin to read.

10:36 p. m.—Can find nothing but German and British news. There is a page and a half about Hitler's latest speech, and a half-page about the latest reaction in the pound sterling. On the last page, there are several short notations from different spots throughout the world.

10:39 p. m.—Reach the bottom of the last page—and I'm saving this paper for anyone who wants to see it. There, on the very last line, is a report from America. I grasp the sheet firmly, and perhaps a trifle anxiously. And I read the following, startling information:

"New York — The Columbia University's football chances for next season are fairly bright, Coach Little said today." . . .

PROPOSE NEW ASYLUM HERE

Consolidation of the County Poor Board and the City Welfare Department would save Allegheny County $250,000 annually, Representative William A. Walker, of Avalon, sponsor of the bill aimed at the merger, said today. The bill was introduced into the Legislature last week.

Walker believes the saving would be effected by establishing of either the city or county hospital as a sanitarium for the care of mentally diseased persons, which would be entitled to increased appropriations from the state. This, he believes, would relieve taxpayers of part of the burdens now borne in supporting both the Mayview and Woodville institutions.

Westinghouse Man Awarded Scholarship

Dr. Francis Bitter, physicist of Westinghouse Research Laboratory, Pittsburgh, has been awarded the Guggenheim Memorial Fellowship for studies in the field of magnetism, it was announced today. The work of Dr. Bitter, who was for two years fellow of the National Research Council, California Institute of Technology, will be chiefly at Cavendish Laboratory, University of Cambridge, England.

19-Year-Old Youth Slain by Brother

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP.)—George H. Whittlesey, Jr., 19, was shot and killed yesterday by his brother, Richard, 15, as the younger boy was displaying a repeating rifle in his room.

Whittlesey, a Yale student home for the week-end, was shot through the right temple. His brother was taken to the police station for questioning. He is a member of the rifle team at the Polytechnic Preparatory School.

ARTIST PAINTS RIVER FLOOD

What may be the only artistic historical record of the recent Pittsburgh flood in years to come is now being painted by L. Paul Schweinberg, commercial artist, who lives at 110 Parkside drive.

The flood picture was sketched from under the Manchester Bridge. It shows the flooded Allegheny, the houseboats lining the river bank and the city skyline in the background. Schweinberg explained the wash in oil sketch, saying:

"It is just one of the many sketches that I do in my spare time. I call it my holiday art because there are no customers to please. If nobody likes it, it doesn't matter to me."

The artist formerly attended Carnegie Tech art school and has been making the sketches as a hobby for three years.

N. Y. EDUCATOR TO TALK HERE

"The Home and the School in a Changed Society" will be the subject of Eduard C. Lindeman, of New York, consultant of the National Council of Parent Education, when he addresses a dinner meeting of the Parent Education Institute at the Hotel Schenley, April 6.

Mr. Lindeman

Local educators and psychologists will head 19 discussion groups during their consideration of the relationships of children to parents and to teachers.

The institute will meet in conjunction with the Western Pennsylvania Education Conference and is arranged by the Pittsburgh Council of Parent Education. Mrs. Saul Levine is chairman of the council, and Herbert L. Spencer, principal of the H. C. Frick Training School for Teachers, vice chairman.

KISS REFUSAL BRINGS KILLING

SAUSALITO, Cal., March 27.—(AP.)—A soldier, who allegedly killed a man and injured two girls when one of the girls refused him a kiss, sat in the guard house at Fort Scott today seemingly in a stupor, unable to answer questions. He is Pvt. E. L. King, 33.

Pvt. John Smith, 25, Coast Artillery, is dead. Miss Irma Talbot, 17 high school student, is suffering from three bullet wounds. Miss Katherine Talbot, 20, her sister, is recovering from head wounds.

The Talbot girls said the two soldiers had dinner at their home Saturday night, then the four went for a drive, ending at King's cabin at the rifle range. Katherine Talbot said during the ride he asked her for a kiss and she refused. He became silent.

Stopping suddenly at the cabin, he dashed inside, returned with his service revolver, and shot Smith and Irma Talbot. The other girl fled, but said King overtook her and beat her into insensibility with the gun.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Perhaps the sun after all the rain has something to do with this sudden flurry of intriguing items for spring weddings. Today I have news of a bridal party for one of our spring weddings, and about two more marriage ceremonies of note added to our calendar for spring.

Florence Carroll, daughter of the W. C. Carrolls, who will marry Dr. Theodore R. Miner, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Saturday, April 22, has named her bridal party.

Bridal Party

She has asked her sister, Mrs. Edward Standish Bradford, Jr., of Long Meadow, Mass., to be her matron of honor, and her sister, Mary Carroll, to be her maid of honor. Virginia Dixon of Chicago, will be bridesmaid.

Stanley P. Miner, of Ridgewood, N. J., will be best man, and Paul Miner, of Glenrock, N. J.; Gale Whitney, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and W. C. Carroll, Jr., of Chicago, brother of the bride-to-be, will be ushers.

The wedding, to take place that afternoon at 4:30 o'clock with the Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Van Etten, of Calvary Episcopal Church, as officiant, will be small.

* * *

Emily Frew, the William Frews' daughter, has chosen the very first day of May for her marriage to Henry Oliver, Jr., the Henry Olivers' son.

To Wed On May 1

And Betty Higgins, daughter of the Harry B. Higginses, has chosen that popular date this spring, April 22, for her marriage to Thomas Edward Rhodes, son of the James Dickinson Rhodeses. The wedding will take place at 6:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the Presbyterian Church of Sewickley.

* * *

A Sewickley son is being married this afternoon. He is James Todd, son of Mrs. James Todd, of Sewickley, who is marrying Alice Townsend de Peyster, daughter of the Frederic de Peysters, of New York, this afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church, New York. A reception in the Park avenue home of the de Peysters is to follow.

Marrying In East

The bride is wearing a wedding gown of ivory satin made in medieval style with a fitted bodice cut high at the neck and long sleeves, full at the shoulder. The skirt ends in back in a long train, edged with old rose point lace, an heirloom. Her veil of tulle cascades from a cap of tulle, and she is carrying white orchids and also lilies of the valley.

Helen Van Cortlandt de Peyster as her sister's maid of honor is wearing yellow chiffon having full sleeves and a brief train and small hat of yellow tulle trimmed with yellow flowers and a nose veil. She is carrying yellow roses. The bridesmaids' gowns are similar except they are of forsythia green chiffon, and they are carrying mimosa.

John C. Wellwood, of New York, is best man, and William M. Doolittle, of Sewickley; Stockton Gaines, of Charleston, S. C., and Pittsburgh, are among the ushers.

After their wedding trip, the Todds will be at home in New York.

Juniors of Winchester To Hold Prom Friday

Another school dance is scheduled for this month. This time it is the Winchester School's Junior Prom, being held Friday from 9 until 1 o'clock in the Fox Chapel Golf Club.

The committee in charge includes Miss Mary Lou Laufman, Miss Frances Cordes, Miss Leonore Hay, Miss Helen Lyne and Miss Gretchen Warmcastle.

East Liberty Auxiliary To Give Jig Saw Party

A luncheon, white elephant and jig saw puzzle party will be held next Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kathleen Neal, Margaretta street, by the Auxiliary to East Liberty Post No. 5, American Legion.

Diescher-Kountz Nuptials in Church

This afternoon's wedding of note to the social world has Sara Burton Diescher, daughter of the Alfred John Dieschers, of Winfield, Kan., for its bride, and George McClellan Kountz, Jr., son of the George McClellan Kountzes, of South Aiken avenue, as the bridegroom. The ceremony is taking place in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Hugh Thomson Kerr officiating.

Sara is wearing a smart suit of gray wool trimmed with fox, and a gray hat, with a shoulder spray of gardenias. Mrs. Harold B. Shipp, the matron of honor, is wearing a gray woolen suit, too, with a matching hat, and gardenias. Benjamin Kountz is his brother's best man. Mr. Kountz, Jr., and his bride have planned an eastern motor trip and upon their return will be at home with the Senior Kountzes.

Sara is a graduate of Connecticut College for Women and Mr. Kountz attended drama school at Carnegie Tech.

'Palm Beach' Now On Doorstep of 'Y W' Girls

That Palm Beach is literally on the doorstep of the girl who will look for it at the Y. W. C. A., will be demonstrated at an open house and exhibition at Central Branch, Chatham street, on Friday evening, according to Dorothy Naumann, Central's efficient publicist.

Here this girl may find her favorite sports of tennis and golf, and the "something different" in sports, such as badminton, archery and fencing.

Here, too, with full Palm Beach strength, are sun baths for health; invigorating swims, and the same delightful pastimes of bridge and dancing, all of which, together with their possibilities, will be demonstrated at the open house. Miss Marian Holmes, who has just come to the Central Branch staff from Trenton, will show the new techniques which she is teaching in tap and creative dancing.

What may be accomplished along other lines will also be shown—just how the new fabrics can be made into attractive spring frocks, even by inexperienced sewers; a course in market-wise meals for picnics and parties, a personality clinic and a series of hikes will be demonstrated. During the evening the Y. W. C. A. choral will sing. The new term of spring classes will open on April 3.

Betrothals of Brother And Sister Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sugerman, of Juniata street, North Side, have made known the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Rebecca Louise Sugerman, to Ben Mazur, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Mazur, of Tilbury street. At the same time announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Goldie Rosalyn Edelstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edelstein, of Toledo, O., to Miss Sugerman's brother, Philip Sugerman.

Kappa Delta Alumnae Benefit Bridge April 8

The Pittsburgh Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta is holding its annual benefit bridge in Oppenheim-Collins on Saturday, April 8, at 2 o'clock. Mrs. W. J. Clardy is chairman of bridge, assisted by Mrs. J. N. Crane Remaley, Miss Lucille O'Donnell, Miss Catharine Dick and Miss Margaret Adams.

Board of International B.P.W. to Meet July 24

A meeting of the board of directors of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women will be held July 24-28 in Chautauqua, N. Y., in co-operation with the sixtieth annual assembly of Chautauqua Institution.

The meeting, the first held in the United States since the federation was formed in Geneva, Switzerland, in August, 1930, will bring together representatives of 19 countries. Delegates from Canada and the United States, from many European nations, and possibly also from South America and the Orient will attend. The status of women in the era of economic change and the part business and professional women should play in world affairs will be among the discussion subjects. The federation also will consider plans for increasing international markets for the products of women and for extending professional opportunities for women in the international field.

PIANIST

ALICE DECEVEE MITCHELL

Mrs. Mitchell, Harrisburg pianist who will illustrate musically the review of Marcia Davenport's biography of Mozart, which Mrs. Charles E. Reitell will give before the readers' group of the College Club tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. W. M. Mann to Speak At Meeting of W. C. T. U.

The Perrysville Avenue Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold its March meeting tomorrow afternoon in the North End United Presbyterian Church, Perrysville avenue and Vinceton street. Mrs. W. M. Mann, county director of motion pictures for the W. C. T. U., will speak. Mrs. James McKain will furnish music.

Noetic Club to Have Afternoon of Music

The usual program of papers by the members has been set aside by the Noetic Club for its meeting on Wednesday in the home of Miss Mary Parsons. In place of the papers an afternoon of music and readings will be presented by guests. Compositions by Marianne Genet will be sung by Marjorie Evans Stewart, Sara Jamison Logan and the Ingram Club Choral; Mrs. Edward Harmes will read; Helen Louise Chambers will offer piano numbers and compositions of the hostess will be done by Jeanne Mahey Smith, soprano.

New Future Directors Home Benefit Hostesses

Directors of the New Future Home will serve as hostesses at the card party to be given as a benefit for the home on Thursday at the Congress of Clubs. Lionel R. Cooper, bridge instructor, will be present to explain questioned points. Mrs. Garnet E. Cooper is chairman.

'Green Pastures' Actor Will Be Club Guest

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Several things aside from the usual club routine are on the College Club calendar for April. One of these will be the membership committee's tea on the sixth with Richard B. Harrison there to tell how it feels to play "de Lawd" in "The Green Pastures." He will be accompanied by some of the singing members of the company, who will do a group of spirituals.

On the tenth Mrs. Anne Ernberg, who directs the fireside industries at Berea College, will describe the work and exhibit some of it at a luncheon meeting. A bondholders' dinner on the twenty-fourth is another innovation and then there's the second open forum luncheon, set for the nineteenth. For this James E. Sidel, of New York, legislative director of the National Child Labor Committee, will be the speaker and will have "Adolescence and Child Labor" as his subject.

The Friday afternoon lectures will be by Alexander P. Lindsay, Dr. Katherine Gallagher and Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology. Mr. Lindsay will discuss "Our System of Government." Dr. Gallagher, who is professor of history at Goucher, will have "From International Reality" as her subject and Dr. Baker will talk on "Germany's International Relations." There will, of course, be no meeting on Good Friday, April 14.

* * *

The Junior Mizrachi is holding a card party on Wednesday evening, in the El Tower Hotel, Squirrel Hill. Miss Esther Singer is chairman, assisted by Miss Betty Paul.

* * *

A bridge luncheon was held Saturday in McCreery's by the Pittsburgh Cedar Crest Club under the chairmanship of Mrs. Paul Simon.

* * *

Miss Helena Beegle, of Ellsworth avenue, will return this week from Florida, where she has been for the past month.

Miss Jane Gariepy, a student at Thurston School, is spending her vacation in Detroit, Mich.

DETACHABLE FUR PIECES TO ACCOMPANY MIDSEASON SUITS

DETACHABLE fur pieces accompany many of the midseason suits that are seen right now. They are the product—and a very practical one, too—of the present-day school of designing which prepares any part of one's costume for double or even triple duty. Because a little fur collar was originally designed to wear with a wool coat doesn't mean that it won't look well on a jersey suit or even a marocain dress.

* * *

THESE ARE the characteristics of the fur accoutrements of the two suits in today's sketch. Their designer planned them with present-day thrift in mind. They are fashioned in such a way that they fit into the scheme of the season—whether it is a flurry of early spring snow, a suddenly sunny day in April, or the beginning of summer when days are yet too cool to wear a frock without a scarf or a fur or some bit of added warmth. There are even little muffs for the coldest days.

* * *

THE SUIT on the left is of ribbed woolen, in one of the medium browns that is neither dark beige nor light brown, but half-way between. The combination is one of dress-and-three-quarter-length-coat, and there is an extra separate skirt that may be worn with the coat as a jacket-and-skirt arrangement. The wrap-around scarf collar of brown astrakan is matched by the muff.

* * *

THE SUIT at the right, of gray jersey, has detachable fur fixings of black seal. The little fur cape, like the collar on the brown suit, is so designed that it may be worn with either a coat or dress.

Happiness Not Handed to Us On a Silver Platter

Here's another wail—and Lucille wants to blame it on Big Business.

"Blaming it on Big Business"—that's the best thing we do nowadays. But is Big Business really responsible for our troubles? Or are we, ourselves, responsible? Are we failing ourselves — two-timing ourselves — worse than the "Big Shots" could ever do?

Dear Elsie:

What in thunder is going to happen to us all? Salaries being cut, laying 'em off right and left, people in love and can't marry. Can you see any light in the future?

I've been married for four years. The baby came the first year, and the day the darling was born, her daddy lost his job. We sold all our wedding gifts, furniture, etc., which just about broke our hearts.

We went to live with his folks, and after a year of secret suffering I finally went home, because his mother made life miserable for me. He stayed with his folks. This has been going on for two years now, and we are all unhappy.

My folks continually nag at me, because "I married a bum," "a loafer," and other names of that description. All I ever hear is "I told you so." I think I'll turn it in as a song. I might get a dollar for it.

My husband has had a few odd jobs, which sometimes lasted as much as a month. He gave me money when he had it. I only see him about once a week, because he lives on the other side of town, and can't afford car fare.

NO ENCOURAGEMENT

I am very patient, and still have hopes for a future, but when people you have to live with give you no encouragement at all, a fellow feels like giving up.

What's wrong with us? What's wrong with the world? Is it true that the Big Shots back of the Government are holding out on us?

Can you cheer me up some? What's your point of view?

LUCILLE.

My point of view, Lucille, is that life and love are going to go on—but we'll have to help them.

No one person is responsible for all this trouble; and no one person can cure it. But each one of us can, and must, do our part. Happiness will never be handed us on a silver platter. We must fight for our happiness, sacrifice for it, endure disappointment and humiliation for it. And unless we're willing to do that, why we wouldn't be happy, even though Good Times came to everyone else in the world.

Take your case. Who's responsible for your unhappiness? Big Business? No. Big Business may have muddled things—made it hard for your husband to find a job.

MAKE NEW START

But the big business didn't make you leave your husband and go back to your mother because your feelings were hurt.

You, yourself, did that, Lucille. You, yourself, are responsible for the heartache which this separation is inflicting on both of you. Yes; I know. Your mother-in-law was unkind. Your feelings were hurt. But what did you promise when you married your man?

"For better or for worse; till death do us part." That was your promise, wasn't it? Did Big Business make you break that promise? Or did your own temper, little girl?

Think it over. And then make a new start. Maybe you can't live together at once. But if you'll face your own mistake, and go to your husband with new faith and love and encouragement, you may be able to give him such courage and confidence in himself that he will find a way out.

As it is, he's battling not only with bad conditions, but he's also battling with his own wife's failure to stand by him. And that's a pretty tough combination for any man to tackle!

Fay King Takes Issue With Judges of Beauty

I HAVE KNOWN PRETTY JEWISH GIRLS WHO WERE BLONDE AND BLUE-EYED BUT THEIR BEAUTY NEVER SEEMED, TO ME, SO TYPICAL AS THE DARK TYPES
RICH, COLORFUL FABRICS, GOLD AND PEARLS, ENHANCE HER EXOTIC BEAUTY
FAY KING

By FAY KING

A nation-wide contest was held recently to choose the most beautiful Jewish girl, on whom the title of Queen Esther has been conferred.

Speaking as an artist, I would say that the pretty girl who won does not seem to me the most perfect type of Jewish beauty.

I admire most in lovely Jewish girls that true Oriental beauty which is the heritage of their noble race.

Their dark, velvety eyes. Their glossy raven hair. Their flawless olive complexions. That something slumberous and luxurious in their looks and movements.

But beauty contests are nearly always disappointing to me; for I always feel that probably the actually most beautiful girl did not trouble to enter the contest at all.

Heart of a Wife

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Lee Chow's Opinion Is Strengthened

For a tense second after that hoarse cry from the stretcher upon which Samuel Brixton lay, there was no slightest sound from any of us gathered in the eerie rendezvous near the lonely mountain farmhouse where Marion and Carolyn were held prisoners. That fervid curse upon his brother curiously enough sounded like the deliberate utterance of a sane man instead of the wild muttering of a delirious one.

Charles Owen had been involved in the kidnaping plot; was in all probability the moving spirit behind it. That was the thought which had been in all of our minds when we had learned that the girls had been kidnaped. But the unmistakable evidence that Owen was ill in a Philadelphia hotel, coupled with the attack on Samuel Brixton, and the message indicating that the bandit Chinese were behind the ransom notes, had made us acquit Owen. But now—I felt a bit dizzy as I conjectured the possible meaning of the words just uttered.

"Where is Charles?" Samuel Brixton's hoarse voice sounded again, and Hugh Grantland moved swiftly to the side of the stretcher, and bent over the injured man.

"Do you want to see your brother?" he asked gently.

The stretcher had been set down so near to me that I could see Mr. Brixton's convulsive attempt to raise himself to a sitting posture, an attempt which Hugh thwarted with firm but tender hands.

"Don't move!" he warned. "You'll hurt yourself. But tell us about your brother."

"I only want to see him once," the choked voice went on, "just long enough to kill him. I want to twist the life out of his lying carcass. He promised me, the devil that he—"

His voice died away, and Hugh bent lower.

"Promised you what?" he asked gently, but there was no answer, and an instant later the voice began again the incoherent murmuring which we had heard ever since the gag had been taken away.

"Nothing more to be learned from him," Hugh said, turning away. "But what he has said fits in perfectly with the news Lee Chow has brought us. Will you tell them?" He turned to the Chinese standing behind him, as immobile as a bit of carved jade from his distant homeland.

"Please!" Lee Chow made of the word a denial and a plea. "You can relate the story much better. But—how much time have we?"

"Ample," Hugh assured him. "We are all ready to go forward and surround the house as soon as Gra—Dick Graham gives us the signal by flying low over the farmhouse."

I hoped that I was the only one to catch the hesitancy in Hugh's speech. But I felt my cheek flaming in the darkness as I realized the reluctance to speak of Dicky with anything but reserved formality that lay behind Hugh's utterance of my husband's name.

"Then tell them," Lee Chow said, and I had the odd impression of a captain giving the signal for an advance.

"Let us stand close together!" Hugh's voice was a command, and with the exception of "Hen-ner-y"—whom Wynne promptly detailed to watch over Samuel Brixton—we obeyed him. I wondered if it were accident that after the general shuffle, I found Hugh standing so close to me that only by keeping my body rigidly erect could I avoid the pressure of my shoulder against his.

"From the first," Hugh began, his voice muted even lower than his previous speech, "the suspicion that Charles Owen was the fountain head of this outrage has never been absent from Lee Chow's mind. The rest of us, I think, shifted base when Owen's alibi, his being ill in the Philadelphia hotel, was apparently established, and when the element of the Chinese bandits was injected into the situation. But Lee Chow did not change his original opinion, and with the patience and persistence so characteristic of him, he kept up his watch of Owen's room, and evolved an ingenious scheme for finding out the truth."

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Excessive Optimism

When a Grand Slam is bid, the making of which is dependent not only upon selection of a shorter suit as trump but also upon a successful finesse in the trump suit and a successful finesse in a plain suit, it must be conceded that the players were somewhat optimistic in their bidding. However, on the hand below, the correct choice of a suit was made, and the method by which a trump suit was selected, leaving a longer suit as a side upon which discards could be secured, was quite interesting.

South, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ K Q 8 6 4 ♡ Q 9 3 2 ◇ 6 ♣ 5 4 3
♠ 3 2 ♡ 7 6 ◇ K Q J 4 2 ♣ J 7 6 2	North West East South	♠ 9 7 ♡ K 8 5 ◇ 10 9 8 7 5 ♣ K 10 8
	♠ A J 10 5 ♡ A J 10 4 ◇ A 3 ♣ A Q 9

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠ (1)	Pass
3 ♡ (2)	Pass	4 ♡ (3)	Pass
5 N T	Pass	6 ♠ (4)	Pass
7 ♡ (5)	Pass	Pass (6)	Pass

1—Not quite strong enough in honor-tricks to justify an immediate jump to three spades.

2—South feels quite sure that North will not let the bidding die. If he does nothing else, he will return to three spades.

3—North lacks the stuff that Slams are made of, so merely indicates adequate trump support for both suits.

4—North now discloses that he has stronger support for spades than for hearts.

5—South decides that there is a good chance for the Grand Slam, and even visualizes the possibility of discarding a loser on a long spade in his partner's hand, provided hearts are trump.

6—There is no occasion for North to return again to spades. He has already shown that he can support both suits and that he has more spades than hearts.

The Opening lead was the diamond King, and when the Dummy went down, South was not at all certain that the correct contract had been obtained. Its success, of course, was dependent upon the favorable location of the heart King and the club King. In other words, two finesses must succeed. This is entirely too high an average to anticipate, but in this instance the gods of the Bridge players were kind to South and he was able to ruff his losing diamond in the Dummy, successfully finesse the trumps, discard a losing club on Dummy's long spade and then discover that the King of clubs was located in the East hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South opens with a call of one diamond, West calls three clubs, North passes and East calls four spades, which is passed by South. What inferences should West gather from East's call?

Answer: East's bid of four spades has no significance other than that East believes he can take 10 tricks if the hand is played at spades, taking into consideration the strength which West has shown by his bid of three clubs.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Science Is Winning in Long Fight

Many of my readers will recall the days when tuberculosis was known as the "white plague." The disease was very prevalent, particularly in the poor quarters of large cities. Little was known about its prevention and cure. But since the discovery of the germ of tuberculosis, great strides have been made in our knowledge of the disease.

Dr. Copeland

Many persons believe that tuberculosis is incurable. This is not true. It is now possible to cure many, indeed, most cases of this disease. Where cure is not possible, life can be prolonged and made more comfortable. Almost always early recognition of the disease insures prompt recovery.

Within recent years a new form of treatment for tuberculosis of the lungs has been perfected. This is the so-called "pneumothorax treatment." It is of tremendous value in certain selected cases. The reports of this form of treatment have been most gratifying.

The treatment consists of collapsing the affected lung. This is accomplished by piercing through the pleura, or lining of the chest cavity, with a long needle and permitting the air within the lung to escape. As a result, the lung is gradually collapsed. In order to prevent the lung from expanding, air is pumped into the cavity, outside of the collapsed lung. The process is repeated from time to time and is spoken of technically as a "refill."

The first treatment must be given at a hospital. The following treatments may be given at the doctor's office. Numerous clinics have been established throughout the country equipped with facilities for "refills." This arrangement has enabled many sufferers from tuberculosis to receive this valuable treatment and continue with their daily duties.

It is amazing to see the beneficial effect of this procedure. Severe coughing, loss of weight and presence of tubercular germs in the sputum disappear shortly after the inauguration of this treatment. Collapse of the lung enables the cavity or tubercular spot to heal. Many patients who receive this form of treatment go about their daily work in good physical condition, good spirits and with every expectancy of cure.

The involved lung is observed by X-ray examinations and the progress is carefully checked. The sputum is repeatedly tested for germs of tuberculosis.

When the treatment is completed and cure made possible, the "refills" are discontinued and the lung allowed to expand. No ill effects are observed.

Note of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A teacher has donated a gift to our church and I would like to send her a letter of thanks.

Kindly inform me as to how to write it. K.

Perhaps your note might read something like this:

Dear Miss Worthington:

Your thoughtful and generous gift to our church was deeply appreciated, and I want to have you know that we send you very special thanks for your goodness. Blessings on you for being such a fine friend to us, and for expressing your friendship in such a generous way.

I hope to see you very soon, to express our thanks to you personally.

Friendliest of wishes to you.

Cordially yours,

Martha Wells Browne

(Mrs. Bertram Browne)

Acknowledging Condolences

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If the mother is dead and the father dies, do the children who are grown acknowledge the flowers of his (the father's) sisters and brothers, whom they have seen only a few times? If so, do they send cards?

D.

Yes, the grown children write the notes of thanks to acknowledge all letters of condolence and to acknowledge the messages of sympathy sent by flowers. It is far better to write notes of appreciation, rather than to send formal cards of acknowledgment. Formal cards of acknowledgement are proper only for people in public life, people who receive so many condolence messages that it obviously is impossible for them to write notes. Especially would it be inconsistent to send formal cards of acknowledgement to close relatives, even if you do not know them very well, or even if you do not know them at all.

Household Hints

When boiling or steaming puddings, use a cake tin instead of a basin, and they will cook in about half the time.

Celery, to be crisp and curly, should be allowed to lie in salt water for an hour before bringing to the table.

Nearly every kind of basket work, matting or china can be cleaned by being washed with salt and water.

46 BANKS GET CONSERVATORS IN DISTRICT

The Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Reserve Bank has announced there are now 46 member banks of the Federal Reserve system in Western Pennsylvania for which conservators have been appointed.

In addition to conservators already announced, C. L. Straw has been named for the Paulding National Bank of Paulding, O.

The powers of the conservators have not yet been definitely defined in orders from Washington. They are appointed for the purpose of conserving a bank's assets, and are to be paid by the bank a salary comparable to government employes in similar positions.

DUTIES OUTLINED

Their duties at present appear to consist of receiving new deposits which may be drawn upon 100 per cent, and for which the money is kept in cash or invested in Federal securities. They also collect on loans due to the bank.

Some question exists as to the autohority of the conservator to pay out anything on old deposits.

According to the interpretation of authorities here, a conservator may be empowered to pay out a certain percentage on old deposits provided he can make sufficient collections on money due the bank. Permission for such a payment from a national bank would also have to be received from the Controller of the Currency in Washington, it is believed.

STATE BANKS

State banks which are under the control of the State Secretary of Banking are running under restrictions issued from Harrisburg.

Gold is still being received by the Federal Reserve Bank here, largely from member banks. Today is the final day for gold deposits before the names of persons who drew large amounts of gold from the banks prior to the holiday will be sent to Washington.

Milk War to Spread Following 'Victory'

YORK, Pa., March 27.—(AP.)—Having won higher milk prices for York County farmers, Stewart Senft, president of the county farmers' organization, says the campaign will be carried to other territory.

By picketing roads, stopping trucks, removing milk cans and upsetting a few, the farmers forced into line on Saturday the four dealers who had not agreed to a flat rate of $1.40 per hundred pounds.

Relief Job Workers Strike Over Cuts

WHEELING, W. Va., March 27.—Protesting a reduced wage scale, 400 R. F. C. laborers in Ohio County went on a strike at noon today. Authorities said they were incited by radicals. A few minor disturbances were reported. Picket lines were established at all project sites.

Injuries Fatal

ALBERT KANE, 39

CRASH INJURIES FATAL TO KANE

BEDFORD, Pa., March 27.—(AP.)—Albert (Irish) Kane, 39, Pittsburgh manager and trainer of boxers, died in a hospital early today of injuries received in an automobile crash March 22.

The body will be shipped today to the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Cuniss, in Yonkers, N. Y., and funeral services will be held there.

The condition of James P. Rooney, former University of Pittsburgh football star and State Assemblyman, is unchanged, hospital attaches said. Rooney was critically injured in the accident in which Kane received his fatal injuries.

Their car skidded on the icy pavement of U. S. Route No. 30, nine miles west of Bedford, and turned over. The chauffeur, Joseph Troth, 30, of Pittsburgh, was only slightly injured.

Frank Jones, Auto Victim, Near Death

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 27.—(INS.)—Frank Jones, 30, Pittsburgh sportsman, was near death today from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile.

Michigan Names 58 Bank Conservators

LANSING, Mich., March 27.—(AP.)—Conservators for 58 state banks were named today by Gov. William A. Comstock and R. E. Reichert, state Banking Commissioner.

DETROIT BANK QUIZ TURNS TO RADIO PRIEST

DETROIT, March 27.—(AP.)—Detroit's banking situation, subject of no little controversy during the six weeks since Gov. William A. Comstock announced his original holiday, was under investigation today by federal and Wayne County authorities.

John S. Pratt, assistant United States Attorney General, accompanied by a staff of investigators arrived from Washington today to investigate the affairs of the First National Bank-Detroit, and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, now in charge of federal conservators. Whatever he learns, he said, will be reported to Washington.

TO QUIZ PRIEST

At the same time Harry S. Toy, prosecuting attorney of Wayne County, called upon the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin to turn over any information he may have regarding unlawful practices in state institutions, such as holding companies of banks, state banks and trust companies.

Toy's action followed closely upon a renewed outbreak of the banking controversy yesterday in which Father Coughlin attacked the Detroit Bankers' Company, holding company of the First National, its directors and the motives of James K. Watkins, police commissioner, in his efforts to bring about the reopening of the First National Bank and the Guardian National.

DECEIT CHARGED

Father Coughlin in his address charged that $63,000,000 had been taken from the First National on the basis of "inside information" during the 35 days immediately preceding the holiday proclamation and asserted that the bank was but 12½ per cent liquid three days before the holiday, although depositors were being told it was 80 per cent liquid.

Another clergyman, the Rev. William R. Kinder, rector of St. Joseph's Episcopal Church, read an open letter from his pulpit to President Roosevelt, criticising Father Coughlin in connection with his attitude on the banking situation. The letter urged the President to set aside the decision to close the two old banks and informed him that "your advisors have apparently been bamboozled by a radio priest."

Woman's Slaying Laid to Robbery

COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—(AP.)—Robberty and attack were advanced by police today as probable motives for the murder of Mrs. Eunice Haggard, pretty 25-year-old mother, whose body was found in her parked automobile in a West Side residential section late Saturday.

Discovery of the body, shot four times and bearing bruises, ended a 24-hour search. The victim's husband, Dwight Haggard, 26, said she had been missing since Friday night.

U. S. to Prosecute Violations of Bank Law

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(INS.)—Prompt and vigorous prosecution of all cases involving violation of the national banking laws will be undertaken by the Department of Justice, Attorney General Cummings said today.

The department officials are now going over considerable data furnished it by the Treasury to determine where violations have taken place.

500 MILLION AID BILL IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(INS.)—A $500,000,000 direct Federal relief bill for the unemployed was offered in the Senate today by Senators Wagner (Dem.), of New York; LaFollette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, and Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado.

Meanwhile Senate action on the revised administration bill to employ 250,000 idle men in reforestation work was delayed 24 hours today on objection of Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader.

McNary objected when Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, asked unanimous consent to take up the bill.

The Senate Labor Committee reported it favorably by a unanimous vote, after eliminating specific provisions to which William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, strongly objected.

These provisions included a $1 a day wage and a plan to use the Army as a recruiting agency for a "civilian conservation corps" to do forestry work.

Relatives Refused Aid in Food Strike

HUNTINGTON, Ind., March 27.—(AP.)—Relatives of Frank Rubish, 80, who has refused food for 12 days, today sought aid of local officials to end the self-imposed starvation. Rubish has been in poor health recently, the result of a broken hip.

Officials said they were powerless to order forcible feeding, and they were advised charges of assault and battery might result should Mr. Rubish object.

HOARDERS' LAST CHANCE TODAY

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(Universal.)—This is the last day of grace given gold-hoarders.

By a ruling of the Treasury Department the names of all those who have withdrawn gold from banks within the past two years and failed to redeposit it will be listed by the 12 Federal Reserve district banks and forwarded to Washington.

No indication has been given concerning the course of action to be taken against hoarders. The drastic penalty of 10 years imprisonment and fines of $10,000 and one-half the value of the hoard may be assessed.

March 13 was the date originally set for compilation of the lists. This was extended four days and then 10 days more as the country responded by returning large quantities to the banks. Estimates of the amount brought out of hiding since the bank holiday were declared to range up to $500,000,000.

McKeesport Bank Makes 2nd Payment

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—(INS.)—An advance cash payment to depositors of the closed Pennsylvania Deposit Bank of McKeesport was announced today by Dr. William B. Gordon, state secretary of banking.

The McKeesport bank will make a second payment of 5 per cent to its 3,207 depositors on March 31. A total of $58,014.34 will be disbursed. The bank made a 10 per cent payment August 29, 1932.

Pittsburghers Named Bank Conservators

BRIDGEPORT, O., March 27.—Two Pittsburghers, Southard Hay and Harry T. MANHUNT LAUNCHED AFTER RELEASE OF KIDNAPED BOY

3 YOUTHS HELD AFTER AUTO HITS MAN

Six Hurt in Triple Collision; Others Take Toll

Wilkinsburg police were holding three youths today in connection with an automobile accident in which Robert Quinn, 42, of 621 Kelly street, was injured, and a vacant storeroom at 7101 Franks-town avenue was damaged.

After hitting Quinn, who was crossing Sterret street, the automobile crashed into the storeroom, and the occupants disappeared, police reported. Later, police said they arrested Thomas Long, 19, of Idlewild street; Chester James, 23, of Upland street; and John Sprague, of 1014 Jarrett street.

CRASH INJURES SIX

Six persons were injured, not seriously, late Saturday night when three automobiles, driven by Frank Schmidt, 21, of 2738 Mission street, and Louis Ebner, of 25 Merritt street, and Davis Solomon, 20, of 5538 Avondale street, crashed at Brownsville road and Madeline street.

Besides Solomon and Schmidt, Betty Weitzen, 19, of 1801 Webster avenue; Henry Detemple, 25, of 2753 Oakley street; Al Zinn, 25, of Stromberg street, and Frank Snelzer, 24, of Stromberg street, were injured, the police report said.

Isadore Segal, of 3536 Frazier street, was injured yesterday when his automobile collided with another car, driven by Charles Joyce, 26, of 813 Broadway avenue, at the Boulevard of the Allies and Juliet street, according to a police report. Lillian Pitts, 25, of Ward street, also was injured.

CRASH ON BRIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Simon, of Alderson street, were injured yesterday when their automobile collided with another driven by James McCann, of Frazier street, on the Panther Hollow Bridge, Schenley Park, according to a police report.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Poland, of 122 Desoto street, were injured at Fifth avenue and Bigelow boulevard yesterday by an automobile which did not stop after the accident, police reported.

Norman Miller, 17, of 3915 Evergreen road, was arrested yesterday as the driver of an automobile that struck Steve Sher-

KILL DOG, PUPS AFTER ATTACKS

Trapped in the basement of the Annunciation Parochial School, Charles and Norwood streets, North Side, after attacks on four persons last night, a dog believed mad was shot and her litter of seven surviving puppies destroyed by a posse of citizens headed by Patrolman Robert Purvis early today. Two more pups were found dead in the school hideaway.

One of those bitten was Richard Purvis, 19, of 2612 Leland street, son of the patrolman. The other victims were Patrick Gavin, 50, of 2625 Linwood avenue; Joseph Mathews, 49, of 221 Luray street, and an unidentified woman.

The Rev. Father Lawrence O'Connell, assistant pastor at Annunciation Church, saw the dog slinking in the neighborhood of the school. He notified police, who were assisted by a number of men of the neighborhood who had been searching for the dog for several hours.

The dog was found with her brood underneath the school. It was necessary to rip up part of the school floor to drive the animal into the open.

2 Held in Elk Safe Theft, Third Sought

Two youths arrested in Uniontown, on a charge of stealing a safe containing $4,000, the property of Braddock Elks Club, were to be arraigned before Justice of the Peace F. J. Sapino, of Braddock tonight. Today they were questioned by county detectives and are said to have told of purchasing two automobiles in Cleveland, new clothing and losing a large portion of the money gambling. The youths are George Farkas, 22, and Fred Schultz, 24, both of Braddock Park.

A third member of the gang is being sought in Cleveland.

JUDGE'S 10 OUT OF 10

Visiting Judge From Potter County Packs Pistol for Fun

Visiting Judge Robert R. Lewis, of Potter County, believes there's nothing like target shooting for relaxation after a day in court. In fact, he carries his revolver in his brief case and has earned a reputation as an expert shot.

To prove it to Game Protector Ralph A. Liphart, he shot a perfect score in the target range in the Federal Reserve Building yesterday. Standing 15 yards from the target, Judge Lewis placed 10 bullets in the bull's-eye.

Liphart turned in a 97 per cent card and told the Judge of the state's plans to kill off predatory animals and birds. But Judge Lewis insists:

"I'll take my shooting on the target range. I like it better."

Bannister Escapes In Plane Mishap

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 27.—(AP.)—Harry Bannister, stage and screen actor and former husband of Ann Harding, of the films, escaped without injury in a mishap upon landing his airplane at the municipal air terminal yesterday. The plane struck a boundary light, damaging one wing. It was repaired quickly and Bannister took off for Wichita Falls, Tex., in continuation of a flight to Los Angeles.

France to Pay Debt If Words Are Currency

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

French have finally made us a terrific concession on the war debt.

They're willing to talk about it.

They know they can outtalk us.

We will have to wind up a couple of our diplomats and let them fire away until they die down.

We will lose the spelling bee. But think of what a nice chat we will have had.

One word leads to another. But both of them get nowhere when the other guy is directing the verbal traffic.

And we will be happy to know that we will be following the slogan of the League Court and the League:

"All's well that ends nowhere."

ORCHIDS GIVEN CHARITABLE SISTERS

Winchell Blooms Sent Connellsville Girls By Florists Here

Because they answer the call of good deeds instead of seeking financial gains, "Walter Winchell orchids" were sent today to two Connellsville sisters, Misses Mary Rose and Louise DeHuff. The honor was bestowed by district members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association and the Sun-Telegraph in observance of National F. T. D. Week.

Recent graduates of the Mercy Hospital School of Nursing, the DeHuff sisters returned to their home city ready to earn their living from their professional services. They heard of the serious illness of a young mother of three children. Economic conditions prevented the woman from engaging a needed nurse. The sisters volunteered their services and for five weeks not only provided day and night nursing, but took care of the children and managed the household. Orchids are being delivered to their home at 1206 Race street, Connellsville.

Two orchids are being awarded daily during the week. The florists are elaborating the idea originated by Walter Winchell in his daily column, which is a feature of this paper. Every reader is invited to submit nominations of persons whose good deeds seem worthy of recognition.

The florists seek to give recognition to those who sacrifice for others, who endeavor to spread happiness and aid. Nominations should be sent to the Orchid Editor, The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, and include details of what good deeds the candidate performed.

SHAKEN IN ROW, WIFE CHARGES

Testifying that her mother-in-law and her husband shook her during a family quarrel, Mrs. Clara R. Anderson appeared before Judge Thomas M. Marshall today to ask for a divorce from Ben L. Anderson, secretary to E. V. Babcock, former county commissioner. Mrs. Anderson who said she was married in 1915 and separated from her husband last April, testified that her husband frequently mistreated her and on one occasion he tripped her and another time she had to sell her diamond ring to obtain money. Mrs. Anderson lives at 727 Bayridge avenue, Brookline.

Mrs. Helen G. Hayes, 29, former clerk in the Federal Prohibition office at Philadelphia, seeks anullment of her marriage to Peter P. Hayes of Brooklyn, N. Y. She testified that he was not divorced from his first wife when she married him on April 17, 1931. His first wife obtained the divorce, she testified, in October of the same year.

GAMBLING RAID IN BRADDOCK

Seven state troopers from the Greensburg barracks late Saturday night visited Braddock with sledge hammers with the intent to break down the doors of a gambling house at 910 Braddock avenue. It was unnecessary to force admittance, as one of their members, "a visitor," opened the front door at 10 p. m., the set time.

Michael Malley, alleged proprietor, was charged with maintaining a gambling house, posted $1,000 bail bond, and 17 visitors each deposited $15 for the appearance at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Bernard Volk, North Versailles Township, Wednesday. The troopers, headed by Sergt. Vincent Bunch, surprised the men around a large dice table.

Stray Dog Bites Garage Attendant

WILL ROGERS SAYS

NOGALES, Ariz., March 27.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Nogales, Ariz., its what western towns used to be but it still is. Had a fine visit with Gen. Pershing at Tucson and am mighty glad to relate to you that he is looking fine and feeling much better. It's an education to talk to him on Europe. Who have we got that should know more?

Saw Mrs. Greenway, Arizona's mother superior, who will perhaps, and should be Arizona's new Congresswoman. Arizona has a fine old character for its new Governor. He is a country doctor, brought 10,000 babies into the world and when they got to voting age he ran for office.

Arizona's Legislature passed its bills and adjourned, then somebody accidentally read 'em, and they were all unconstitutional and cockeyed, so they want another session. But the old doc says, "No, they are liable to get 'em worse than that next time." There is a man that not only knows maternity, but knows state lawmakers. Yours, WILL.

Brother Accused By Sister Fined

Accused by his sister of stealing $20 from her and failing to make restitution, Addison McKinnon, 28, of Los Angeles, was fined $10 or 10 days in jail today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court. McKinnon was held over after being brought here from East Liverpool, O., a week ago in order that he might make restitution, but it was testified he did not do so. The sister, Mrs. Shirll Sharp, 1243 Bellaire place, said McKinnon took the money while visiting her about a month ago.

Oldest, Safest Road to Riches Pointed Out

There is a road to wealth that is the oldest and safest It is one that none is too old to follow. For more than 8,000 years this road has been travelled by those in the quest of success and riches.

How this highway is safely traversed is told in a fascinating booklet called "The Richest Man in Babylon." Arkad, who had created a fabulous fortune, tells a story of how any man or woman may accumulate riches. It shows that the laws that govern financial success are the same today as they were in ancient Babylon.

Hundreds of people have found this an enchanting and constructive story. If you are interested in obtaining a story of "The Richest Man in Babylon," just write a line to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square, Pittsburgh, Pa., and you will receive a free booklet without any obligation.

QUIZ MAN, WIFE IN HOUSE FIRE

County Detectives today were questioning Mr. and Mrs. Herman Markowitz in connection with a fire that destroyed their three-story brick house at 2320 Braddock avenue, Swissvale, early yesterday.

Markowitz, detectives said, is a relative of Paul Childs, under indictment in Cleveland in connection with the Ellington Apartment fire in which 13 lives were lost last June.

The investigation of the Swissvale fire was begun yesterday when Detective Peter Connors reported finding oil-soaked rags in the ruins. Detectives said Markowitz and his wife, Helen, were absent at the time of the fire.

BLAZE PROBED AT NIGHT CLUB

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 27.—Fire that caused $10,000 damage to the building and furnishings at 1093 Second avenue, occupied by the Assunda Night Club, was being investigated by State Police today.

Fire Chief Edward Clawson said there was evidence that the stairway leading to the rear of the night club on the second floor had been soaked with oil, when firemen responded at 4 a. m. today. The club had been closed at 2 a. m.

Firemen said the building was leased to Assunda Mancini, who maintained living quarters in the building, but who had spent the night elsewhere.

Prosecutor Quizzes Justice, Constable

Justice of the Peace Walter Wickline of McKees Rocks, and his constable, Albert Streets, were being questioned in the district attorney's office today in the probe of aldermen and justices of the county.

They were brought in by county detectives who also seized the books and records in Wickline's office. Special Investigator David Drexler and County Auditor M. C. Conick were conducting the examination.

Salvation Army To Feed Children

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 27.—(AP.)—School children may obtain free lunches in Charleston. The "cafeteria for the unemployed" operated by the Salvation Army will be turned over exclusively to needy children each noon.

FATHER BUYS FREEDOM FOR SON

Federal Agents Trail Gang Which Held Ohio Youth 8 Days

WARREN, O., March 27.—(AP.)—A desperate band of kidnapers, rid of their 15-year-old captive, was hunted today by federal authorities, to whom the father told of a rendezvous with the abductors on a lonely road shrouded in darkness.

The boy, Peter Meyers, Jr., appeared in good health as he related his experiences during the eight days he was held in a semi-dark room following his capture by three men armed with revolvers and a sub-machine gun.

He quoted his captors as saying:

"If you listen to us, you'll be all right. If you try to get away, we'll kill you."

WELL TREATED

Otherwise, he said, he was well treated by the men, who showed themselves only when their faces were hidden behind masks. He believed six or seven were in the gang.

His mother, showing the strain of worry and sleepless nights, accentuated by fear that her husband, too, had been abducted when he went on the long and mysterious trip that brought about the boy's return, beamed her joy at his return. She was starting in search of her husband when she met him returning with her son.

Three hundred dollars, a hundred more than he had offered for the capture of the kidnapers, was the price the elder Meyers said he paid for his son's return. A larger sum was demanded, the father said, but through the "friend" who acted as intermediator he was able to scale the price on the plea that his money was "tied up in the bank."

FEAR OF REPRISALS

W. E. Peters, agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, expressed the belief Meyers was withholding some details of the rescue in fear his family might be harmed if he talked too much.

Blindfolds apparently were an important part of the kidnapers' stock in trade. They hoodwinked the boy before they took him to the second floor of a house one of them said was "somewhere near Pittsburgh" and insisted that he blindfold himself each time one of his captors entered his room.

The father likewise was carefully blindfolded when he was driven for several hours to the spot between Akron and Youngstown, where, in the darkness of early yesterday morning, Peter was returned to him.

Officers postponed any effort to learn from Meyers and Peter information that might aid in tracking the kidnapers until all three should recover from their exhausting experiences since the boy was snatched away a week ago last Saturday night.

Baby Kidnap Threat Charged to Woman

STROUDSBURG, Pa., March 27.—(AP.)—Mrs. Bertha Kelle, 33, today was held in $3,000 bail for court, accused of writing letters threatening to kidnap the infant son of Walter von Broc, manager of a Stroudsburg hotel.

She was arrested Saturday after police said she admitted sending the letters in an attempt to get money to aid her family.

Gangster Granted High Court Review

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP.)—The Supreme Court today granted Anthony Volpe a review on his effort to obtain release from arrest in Chicago for deportation to Italy.

Volpe, allegedly a leader in a smuggling ring linked with the Capone organization in Chicago, was arrested for deportation in 1931 under a drive by federal agents to run criminal aliens out of the country. He fought for release on habeas corpus and won, only to have the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals reverse its decision.

Charleston Man Gets Federal Job

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 27.—(AP.)—Paul H. Bond, assistant chief of the land department of the State Auditor's office for six years, has submitted his resignation effective March 31. He said he had been appointed chief of the tax division of the Federal Land Bank at Baltimore.

CHIEF W. J. KANE WITH THE 150-GALLON STILL SEIZED IN A RAID IN SUNSET DRIVE

2 Held in 'Moonie' Raid In Mt. Lebanon

Two men were held today by Mt. Lebanon police as an aftermath to a raid shortly before last midnight on the home of Edward Burke, 21, in Mt. Lebanon's fashionable Sunset drive, during which officers reported finding a 150-gallon still in operation and a quantity of moonshine whisky.

Police said Burke, who gave his address as 560 Sunset drive, was stopped for questioning as he drove from his home last night with his wife and small child. A search of his machine, they said, revealed 20 gallons of moonshine whisky.

Learning at the police station that officers intended raiding her home, Mrs. Burke, who was released, said:

"Oh, well, I have to go home, anyway. I might as well ride along."

Search of the home revealed a 150-gallon still in operation and 30 gallons of moonshine whisky, police said.

Steve Thoma, 28, who police said was in attendance, also was arrested.

MEALS COSTING 83c A WEEK MEET TEST

A family of six persons can live on 83 cents a week per person, if they closely follow a market list and the week's menu prepared and tested by six girl students in the department of household economics, Carnegie Institute of Technology. The study was made in co-operation with the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Children's Bureau. The girls lived on the diet for a week.

Miss Harriet Glendon, director of the Tech department, explains that the market list provides a subsistance diet for an emergency period and was worked out with an eye toward assisting the thousands of Allegheny County residents receiving 90-cent-a-week allowances from the Allegheny County Emergency Association.

RESTRICTED DIET

The list was compiled from one issued by Washington, with this caution:

"This is a restricted diet for emergency use only and is a guide when funds are insufficient to provide a fully adequate diet. The 'irreducible amounts' represent quantities below which no diet should ever fall, and it may not be adequate for use over a long period of time. Make every effort to increase the amounts of milk, vegetables, fruits, and if there are young children, cod-liver oil."

The following market list gives the actual prices at which the food was purchased in Pittsburgh retail stores, but prices will vary slightly according to season and locality.

The full week's menus will be printed exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph, giving Monday's today and continuing the other days' menus throughout the week, together with pertinent recipes.

Today's menus:

BREAKFAST—Oatmeal, Milk, Sugar, Toast, Molasses, Coffee, Milk.

LUNCHEON—Cream of Potato and Onion Soup, Graham Bread, Cabbage and Carrot Sandwiches.

DINNER—Shepherd's Pie, Stewed Tomatoes, Graham Bread, Tea, Milk.

Ingredients for Shepherd's Pie are ½ pound beef, ¾ cup diced carrots, 4 cups diced potatoes, 3 tablespoons flour, and ¾ cup diced onions.

Cut the meat in cubes and brown in deep kettle. Add flour and make a sauce using enough water to cover the meat. Cook until the meat is tender. Add the vegetables and cook from 20 to 25 minutes. Put the vegetables and meat mixture into a baking dish. Place biscuits on top and bake in hot oven for 15 minutes.

FATHER COX HELPING TO COLLECT TONS OF FOOD

THE REV. JAMES R. COX COLLECTING "TICKETS" AT THE ENRIGHT THEATER'S SUNDAY SHOW.....FOOD ADMISSION PRICE

COX GRATIFIED OVER 'TICKETS'

With beaming eyes Father Cox looked over the little mountain of food that nearly 8,000 men, women and children brought to the Enright Theater as their "tickets" for the movie benefit show for his unemployment relief fund.

He said last night:

"It is amazing how the heart of Pittsburgh responds to these appeals for food for the destitute. Looking over this splendid supply of groceries and canned goods, I would think, with the addition of potatoes and bread from our own supplies, that there is enough here to feed 2,000 average sized families for nearly a week."

It is estimated that the total donation of food amounted to seven or eight tons. Many of the individual donations were liberal to the extreme—there were many others just the opposite. But taking the big and the little together the affair was a gratifying success.

Father Cox made addresses from the stage of the Enright both afternoon and evening, thanking the Warner Brothers, Manager Frank Roberts, of the Enright, and the Sun-Telegraph for their co-operation in promoting this benefit at a time when the food was most needed.

On top of this Father Cox was given a check for $82 by the Sun-Telegraph Saturday as his commission for the week on subscriptions that have been turned in on his account. For every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

SUICIDE SOLVES CLUB SLAYING

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—(AP.)—In the suicide of a man they had sought for questioning, police said today they found a partial solution of the slaying of Mrs. Anna Little. Her body was discovered early Saturday in the driveway of the Cedarbrook Country Club.

While authorities searched for him a few blocks away, Gaetano Denzio, 47, former waiter, was found dead in a gas-filled apartment.

Mrs. Little, unidentified until a short time before Denzio's body was discovered, died with a bullet wound just below the heart and another in her head. She was identified by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Metzger.

They told police that Mrs. Little had left their apartment Friday night with Denzio, supposedly for a walk. This information started the search that ended with word of Denzio's death.

The motive for the slaying of Mrs. Little remained a mystery.

The hearing before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today on the legality of the arrest of Morgan Davis, 59, coal miner, of Greene County, was continued until Thursday. The hearing was on petition of Davis for a writ of habeas corpus to effect his release from jail.

Slayer of Partner Dies in Asylum

NORRISTOWN, Pa., March 27.—(AP.)—Oscar O. Hoffman, wealthy North Wales lumber dealer, who shot and killed his business partner, Orrin G. Neyers, of Lansdale, last May, died yesterday in the State Hospital for the Insane.

TORTURE DEATH QUIZ RENEWED

Among persons scheduled to be questioned today in connection with the slaying of Frank and Katherine Kuschulak in their Champion Hill cottage a week ago was a trio of holdup suspects arrested in Washington, Pa. The suspects admitted, detectives reported, the robbery of a gas station at Houston in which Dale Hardesty, one of their number, was shot.

Mrs. Harry Ross, who told detectives she found her Negro boarder, Rufus Jackson, washing stains from his clothing the night of the murder, also will be questioned. The chemist's report on the clothing was expected today.

Mrs. Ralph Marshall, 28, Oakdale widow, and Ralph Moore, 27, who have been held since the murders, were to be questioned again.

CHURCH BURNS, 15 INJURED

MONTREAL, Quebec, March 27. (AP.)—Fire believed of incendiary origin destroyed the historic St. Jacques Roman Catholic Church yesterday.

Fifteen persons, including six firemen, were injured, none dangerously. Damage was estimated at between $300,000 and $500,000.

Ten o'clock mass had just ended, and Abbe Oscar Valiquette was leaving the pulpit, when cries of fire weer heard in a gallery above an entrance.

The flames spread quickly. Ushers directed members of the congregation to leave without disorder. The church had a capacity of more than 2,000 and was well filled.

Several women jumped from the balcony and were bruised.

Firemen said they learned that on Saturday night an unidentified woman had visited the presbytery and warned officials of the church that the building would be set afire.

The host and sacred vessels were saved. Insurance on the building was $200,000. This was the fourth serious fire in Roman Catholic churches in Montreal in the last six months.

3 Held for Passing Bogus Half-Dollars

Charged with passing counterfeit 50-cent pieces by Ambridge police, George Weston, of Pittsburgh, and James Austin and James Coaple, both of Beaver Falls, were to be turned over to secret service agents today. The men were arrested in Ambridge and had more than 40 coins in their possession, police said.

HURLED FROM CAR

Mrs. Laura Long, 68, of 1 Crispen street, was injured, seriously, when she was thrown from an automobile which crashed with another last night at the Boulevard of the Allies and Woods street, according to a police report.

Her companion, Myrtle O'Neil, of Youngstown, O., was also injured. The other car, police said, was driven by Andreas Iverson, 16, of 5622 Bartlett street. Police held both drivers. The accident occurred shortly after the traffic lights were turned off.

Mrs. Charles L. Mountain, of 339 James street, Springdale, was injured slightly early today when an automobile driven by her husband skidded into a pole on the Noblestown road, near the Chartiers cemetery.

When his automobile overturned in a collision with another at Manchester boulevard, near Reedsdale street, Earl J. Hess, 17, of 1736 Buena Vista street, suffered a probable fracture of the skull. Milburn F. Boone, 39, of 1113 Fulton street, driver of the other car, and Hess were charged with reckless driving.

MAGEE TO TALK ON CITY TAX

Pittsburgh's graded tax plan, under which the tax rate on land is automatically double that of the rate on buildings, will be discussed by former Mayor William A. Magee before the Non-Partisan Political Club in Turtle Creek Union High School auditorium at 7:45 p. m., Thursday.

The meeting will be open to the public. Other speakers scheduled are Thomas C. McMahon, chief assessor of Pittsburgh; David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman; Attorney William N. McNair and Andrew A. McKeever. Lester W. Whisner will preside.

The meeting is under the auspices of the Non-Partisan Political Club and the Italian Citizens Club of Turtle Creek. Music will be furnished by the Union High School Orchestra.

Fireman Burned At $300 Blaze

William Kane, 41, Negro fireman, of 4631 Winthrop street, was treated at Mercy Hospital early today for burns suffered while fighting a blaze in the home of Zinsford Mitchell, Negro, at 33 Gazzam street. The damage was estimated by firemen at $300.

Fire of undetermined origin did $200 damage to the home of William Dever, 623 Martindale street, North Side, early today, according to firemen.

Danse rituelle de feu ..... De Falla

For the third time the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association offered a recital by Gregor Piatigorsky, Russian cellist. The auditorium was filled to standing room and those who came last night heard as great cello playing as we may hope to hear in this generation.

Mr. Lissfelt

If there is any change in Piatigorsky's style since his first appearance in Pittsburgh, it may be a more finely developed pianissimo which he has now controlled to the delicacy of a whisper.

He possesses all the rugged force which a player can possibly use in playing solo instrument, and over it all he lays a veneer of the highest polish in tone. His command of every phase of musicianship is evident in the wide scope of his program and he never transgresses good taste in his most ecstatic outbursts.

The Corelli and Bach were his finest contributions last night, the latter's G Major Suite being especially welcome after the many repetitions of Bach's more popular cello works. In Piatigorsky's Bach there is nothing of the snarl which other players call accent. The Weber Sonata is transcribed from the violin sonata, easy in its Italian singing style, and sustained as lightly in tone as if sung by a lyric soprano.

Debussy's Sonata, though not profound music is grotesque enough to be entertaining, and its brevity saves it. The shorter numbers were trifling enough, but with Piatigorsky became classical. As encore he played a Lully "Courante," Ravel's "Habanera," DeFalla's "Dance of Terror" and the amusing "Flight of the Bumble Bee" of Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Pierre Luboschutz played noteworthy accompaniments.

Shapiro String Quartet

PROGRAM

Quartet in E Flat Major ..... Mozart
Scherzando ..... Tschaikowsky
Prelude (Recuellement) ..... Bloch
Cherry Ripe ..... Frank Bridge
The Pixy Ring ..... H. Waldo Warner
Moon-Beams.
Toad-Stools.
Tinkling Bluebells.
Pixy-Laden.
The Ring Dance.

The Max Shapiro String Quartet gave its second concert yesterday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Jarvis in South Graham street, offering again a program admirably adapted to the surroundings. There was a larger attendance than at the former concert, a compliment to the players.

The playing was indeed improved in every respect—intonation was purer, there was greater repose (difficult enough to maintain during so many delicate miniatures or with such lightness demanded by Mozart), and there crept in more whimsy than the first program demanded.

During the program Mozart was in strange company, but his quartet has a charm not far removed from Warner's Pixy music, and we could with clear conscience admire the classic patterns in the former and the genius with which Warner attains such variety of color within the narrow limits of a string quartet. Tschaikowsky's "Scherzando" bears none of its creator's obvious features. Bloch was in strict idiom, and the "Cherry Ripe" is always a welcome modern touch.

As encores there were an arrangement of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and Stoessel's scoring of a "Serenade" from Lalo's opera.

GROSS, SOLDIER AND DIPLOMAT, DIES IN CRASH

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 27.—(AP.)—Christian Channing Gross, soldier and diplomat, his two children and his mother, Mrs. Natalie Gross, of Chicago, were killed yesterday when their car overturned at a curve during a trip that was part of a family reunion.

The children were Peter, 10, and Barbara, 8. Gross' father, Charles W. Gross, retired executive of a Chicago meat packing concern, was injured seriously, but physicians said he probably would live.

WAR SERVICE

Gross, who packed into 37 years of life an extensive study of the law, military service in France and Siberia during the World War and several years in the American diplomatic service, was reunited with his children and his parents at Palm Beach Saturday night.

Yesterday, they planned an automobile trip to Miami and were en route when the accident occurred.

Authorities said Peter Gross was driving the big French car at the time it left the highway at a sharp curve at Fort Lauderdale, but Chares Gross said his son, Christian, was at the wheel. An inquest was ordered.

Death Ends Legal Fight Between Gross and Ex-wife

CHICAGO, March 27.—(AP.)—The death of Capt. Christian Channing Gross in an automobile accident was believed today to have put an end to the unfinished legal fight Gross and his former wife, Mrs. Harrison Gross, waged on both sides of the Atlantic.

Mrs. Gross won a separation in Paris, followed by a divorce granted her husband in Chicago. Neither court recognized the decree of the other.

Then in 1930 Gross started suit here to have himself proved the father of a child, Anna, born to Mrs. Gross. He said he wanted the five-year-old girl to share in the $850,000 trust he had established for his other two children, both of whom were killed in yesterday's accident.

The Appellate Court decided against him. Even then the litigation was not ended, for attorneys for Mrs. Gross went to court in New York and obtained sanction for return of $250,000 of the trust fund to her on the ground that it had been agreed upon before the separation. Gross responded by obtaining an injunction against the payment and the case finally went to the local federal courts where it is still pending.

Plane Crash Killing 13 Blamed on Squall

Craft Hits House And Wipes Out Family

OAKLAND, Cal., March 27.—(AP.)—A fast moving storm was blamed today for the transport airplane crash which took 13 lives near here Saturday night.

Only three of those killed were in the plane, including Pilot Noel B. (Jack) Evans, considered one of the best "tough weather" fliers in the country.

The others were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Arisa. The Arisa family—parents and four children—was wiped out. Upstairs when the plane struck his house, exploded, and burned it and one other dwelling. Arisa jumped from a window, but was sprayed with flaming gasoline, and died yesterday in a hospital.

The other four killed, all young men, were neighbors and friends of the Arisas.

President Franklin Rose, of Varney Speed Lines, operator of the wrecked plane, said:

"The squall that hit our ship was a seasonal, rapid-moving storm, moving unpredictably. Apparently it was the one reported from Oakland Airport 10 minutes before.

"Five minutes after the crash the storm had passed and the ceiling had lifted. Evans was in the wrong place at the wrong time. Five minutes later, five minutes earlier, he would have come through."

Rose said Evans received his last report from Livermore, Cal., 10 minutes before the crash, showing a safe course ahead to his port at Alameda, where there was a 1,200-foot ceiling.

Survey of the area surrounding the crash scene indicated Evans had been seeking an emergency landing place, but found the field he had picked was a rhubarb patch, which would catch his landing gear. Seeking to rise again after touching his wheels in the field, he suddenly confronted a water tower. He banked to miss it, the plane's low wing clipped a fence, he bounced off one house and hurtled into the Arisa house.

PFARR RETAINS $10 YEAR JOB

Allegheny County's $10-a-year man was reappointed today to serve his twentieth year as County Fire Marshal.

Thomas L. Pfarr again got the job and there went with his reappointment the tribute of Judge Thomas M. Marshall of Common Pleas Court, who said:

"I consider it a pleasure to reappoint Mr. Pfarr, who has proved himself for 19 years an energetic and efficient servant for the people."

A petition signed by 250 well-known businessmen asked Pfarr's reappointment. Bills have been introduced in the Legislature to provide a larger salary.

WEALTHY GIVE HANDOUTS

At the Fifth avenue private entrance to Woodland road, in the exclusive Squirrel Hill residential section of former Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon, Judge James R. Macfarlane, the Laughlins, Follansbees and other wealthy families, a crowd of men, estimated between 40 and 50, stand at the gates each morning excepting Sunday.

On the dot of 7:45, a uniformed special policeman walks down the driveway. The shabbily-dressed crowd, with outstretched hands, gather around him. He distributes white and green slips. Those fortunate to get them turn away smiling. Others who fail walk away disappointed.

It was explained the green slips entitle the men to a bed at the Improvement of the Poor Friendly Inn. The white ones are good for an evening meal. Previously, the men received both a green and a white slip. But since the crowd increased daily, the men only get one of the two.

Bomb Injury Fatal To N. J. Communist

SUMMIT, N. J., March 27.—(AP.)—Morris Langer, 45, Communist and organizer for the Needle Trades Workers' Industrial Union, died yesterday in a hospital of injuries caused by the explosion of a bomb placed under the hood of his automobile in the garage at his home in Chatham Township.

As Langer stepped on the starter of the car last Wednesday the bomb exploded, wrecking the machine and part of the garage. Police arrested Jacob Shulman, 32, of Newark, in connection with the slaying.

PARDON SOUGHT TO SAVE DOG

An appeal to the State Board of Pardons to save the life of Sandy, condemned mongrel dog, is being planned, Attorney Charles D. Coll announced today.

Coll said he would ask a pardon for Frank Sechran, of Versailles Township, owner of Sandy, on the grounds that the verdict of Visiting Judge S. L. Reed ordering Sechran to kill his own dog was cruel and unusual punishment and unconstitutional.

CONDITION OF PAROLE

The execution of Sandy was the condition of the six-months parole meted out to Sechan after he had pleaded guilty of keeping a ferocious dog. Sandy had bitten a neighbor's 5-year-old child.

Sechan indicated a few days ago he would serve the six-month sentence rather than kill his dog which he said was not vicious and liked children.

CONSTABLE BLOCKS MOVE

Judge Samuel H. Gardner granted a stay, but Judge Reed ruled only the bitten child's mother could save the dog.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Zawaski recently said she asked Judge Reed for clemency provided it was agreeable to Constable Gordon Cargo, who also charges he was bitten by the dog. It was not agreeable to Cargo.

The pardon board does not meet until the middle of next month. Attorney Coll said he would ask a stay pending its action.

DISTRICT MINE STRIKE VOTED

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., March 27.—Miners from 10 mines in this section today were preparing to strike next Saturday in a demand for increased wages, a miners' checkweighman on the tipple and other changed working conditions.

Five hundred miners, representing workers from the Francis mine of the Greensburg Coal and Coke Company; the Bulger mine of the Bulger Coal Company; the Primrose, Atlasburg and Cedar Grove mines of the Carnegie Coal Company; the P. & W. mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company; the Penobscot and Aurora mines of the Duquesne Coal Company, and the Bertha mine of the Bertha Consumers Coal Company, met in a dance hall at Slovan yesterday and pledged themselves to strike.

Besides a miners' checkweighman on each tipple they demand these increases: Ten cents a ton for loaders, two cents a ton for cutters, 75 cents a day for outside men and payment for all dead work at daymen's wages.

200 Guard Mines In Illinois Feud

BENTON, Ill., March 27.—(AP.)—Miners of the United Mine Workers' Union were on the job in Franklin County today while 200 deputy sheriffs patrolled the collieries prepared to prevent a threatened picketing of the shafts by members of the Progressive Miners' Union.

The threats were made yesterday at a meeting of the Progressives in Ziegler and resulted in Sheriff Browning Robinson sending his forces to the mine fields.

Gypsy Women Held In Sale of 'Charms'

Mary Theodore, 29, no home, and Mary Nickles, 22, of Bedford, O., gypsies, were held in North Side Police Station today on complaint of several persons who said they gave them money for "magic charms."

Mrs. Marie Moskas, of 1318 Reddour street, told police she gave the women $150 to dispel a "curse" from her house, while Fred Herman, of 1233 Sandusky street, told police he gave them $50 to cure a stomach ailment.

PROTEST ON JOB FEES GROWS

Ronald L. Thompson and Attorney H. Stewart Dunn, representing the American Legion's Allegheny County organization, today were expected to file additional protests of fees charged unemployed men for jobs on Federal dam construction, with Miss M. Emmelinne Pitt, United States Department of Labor representative here.

Affidavits have been prepared for presentation to Federal authorities, Congressmen and the Legion's state executive committee protesting the treatment of men seeking work and the alleged starvation wages paid on the projects.

Homeless Man Held In Penknife Stabbing

Charged with stabbing Elsworth Brink, 28, of 482 Freeport street, New Kensington, Donald Keagan, no home, was being held by New Kensington police today, pending the outcome of Brink's injuries. Brink was stabbed six times with a penknife.

GUARD CHASES ARMED MAN

Police today sought a gunman who escaped in a pursuit by a county jail guard whose aid was sought by an unidentified woman who said the man was annoying her.

The woman sought the assistance of Roy Bowers, the jail guard, who was sitting in his automobile in Ross street. When Bowers alighted from his machine, the man drew a gun and threatened to shoot him, he told police.

In spite of the threat, Bowers said, he chased the man up Ross street to Diamond street and lost him when he disappeared in the railroad yards. Bowers gave police a description. The woman disappeared.

Club Steward Ends Life Before Mirror

Otto Scherer, 54, of 2403 Spring street, ended his life in front of a mirror yesterday by firing a bullet into his head, according to a Coroner's report. Scherer was steward for the St. Clair Literary and Beneficial Association, 2401 Elsie street.

When the club failed to open yesterday, Philip Hirsh, of 128 Fitler street, a club member, went to Scherer's home and found the body.

FRENCH LONE BUC HURLER AT PEAK

PIRATES LOSE TO HOLLYWOOD STARS, 7-5

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., March 27.—Their training camp pitched here for three days, the Pirates today looked ahead two weeks with mingled feelings of hope and apprehension. The apprehension was shared more by the rank and file of the players than by Boss Gibson and a few other veterans, yet Gibby must surely be a bit uneasy over his pitching corps in view of what has come to pass since the Pirates landed in California almost five weeks ago.

Larry French

A lot of things can happen in two weeks. The Pirates are due to jump off in Cincinnati two weeks from tomorrow and Gibby knows that Larry French is the only one of his gallery of pitchers who is as good as an even bet to start and finish a ball game in any kind of company at the present time. Unless Gibby can correct this condition in the next two weeks, well, it may be just too bad so far as the early phase of the race is concerned.

FRENCH IN FORM

Important trends take place in baseball overnight, and Gibson has enough wisdom to know that his sharpshooters may do some startling things in the intervening two weeks. French is in fire-cracker form right now, but the Fourth of July stuff has nothing in common with Remy Kremer, Bill Swift, Steve Swetonic and one or two others. Heinie Meine and Leon Chagnon are the best of a somewhat uncertain lot at this writing. However, the picture may be entirely changed two weeks hence.

The Buccos have no competition on for today. They will stage a long drill and then fish or play golf. Tomorrow and Wednesday they will edify the fans of Santa Barbara as they battle the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast League.

The slumping Buccos had Hollywood beaten by two runs in the ninth inning yesterday afternoon at Los Angeles. Hal Smith, who had relieved Steve Swetonic in the sixth, seemed to be in control of the situation. In five minutes the battle was lost, the Stars scoring four runs to win, 7 to 5.

NINTH

Vitt's fighters carved out [illegible] in the ninth to floor Smith and his supporting cast of big leaguers. The spectacle was cheered to the echo by 4,000 natives who basked in the sunlight of a perfect day.

Frank Shellenback, ranking favorite of the game in the Los Angeles district, could not fool the Pirates with his spitball. Shellenback recently threw back the Cubs, but the Pirates walloped him for four runs in the fifth.

Big Tom Sheehan, a star hurler for the Pirates when they copped their big honors in 1925, heckled the Buccos in the closing innings of the fight.

Chilly Sauce

Remy Kremer has taken several treatments from the local specialist who has charge of his weakened arm. Kremer is tickled over the results. He thinks he hurt himself by pitching batting practice four days in succession while the Pirates were in San Francisco.

Frank Shellenback is the most popular player of the local Coast League clubs. He is not permitted to throw his spitball in the majors as he was not registered properly, although he was a member of the White Sox when the order came out. He wins about 20 games each season.

Catcher Hal Finney has improved his stickwork to such an extent that he may force Earl Grace to a dugout seat when the lefties pitch. Grace, a whale of a socker against right-handers, is not so potent otherwise.

Tommy Padden, meantime, is fighting all comers for the job. Right now it looks like a free-for-all. What Gibby is more concerned about is his sharpshooters.

The Pirates are slated to return to Los Angeles Wednesday night. They will wind up their California jaunt in four games with the Cubs, the first to be played Thursday.

Brickley Re-elected Officials' President

The Western district board of the Pennsylvania Basketball Officials' Association has gone on record as favoring the elimination of the 10-second rule, the retention of the center jump and of the three-second pivot play rule. These recommendations were made at the annual meeting in the Schenley Hotel here yesterday.

Dan Brickley was re-elected president; Dave Fawcett selected to succeed Everett Chase as secretary, and Frank Butler, of Kittanning, vice president. The local board, Northwestern, Beaver Valley, Mon-Yough Valley, Allegheny Valley and Cambria and Clearfield counties were represented.

MASS. RANGERS WIN

PARIS, March 27.—(AP.)—The Massachusetts Rangers eliminated the Toronto Nationals from the Paris hockey championships yesterday winning a semi-final round encounter, 3-2.

SPORT COMMENT

Wright's Job in Doubt. | Rowing Classic Near.
Ten-Man Team Revived. | Ex-Dukes as Coaches.

YOUNG HAS INSIDE TRACK AS RESERVE

It begins to look as though Howdy Grosskloss may have a very difficult job on his hands to avert being crowded off the Pittsburgh club as an infield utility man for the season that is to open two weeks from Wednesday. Right now Floyd Young appears to be strongly entrenched as Tommy Thevenow's running mate for reserve duty on the first line of defense, Young has been showing up impressively in fielding hitting and baserunning, knows what it's all about after a couple of training trips and a thorough minor league schooling, and will be hard to dislodge.

Floyd Young

One thing that handicaps Grosskloss is that he will not be able to report until May 1 on account of his studies in Yale medical school, whereas Young will have the benefits of the entire spring conditioning course and therefore ought to be on a better edge than the Pittsburgh lad when cutting-down time arrives. Another item in Young's favor is that he can play the outfield as well as the infield and will be doubly serviceable for emergencies. Grosskloss still is entitled to his chance, and may be depended on to put up a stout fight, but conditions at present appear to favor Young's being chosen for the second infield utility job when the 23-player limit goes into force.

MAX CAREY doesn't mince words in saying what he thinks. Here are some of the rather direct assertions made by the Brooklyn pilot this spring: "No club with Babe Herman in its lineup will ever win a pennant." . . . "Dazzy Vance is through." . . . "Tony Cuccinello is the National League's most consistent player." . . . "Owen Carroll is the most underrated pitcher in baseball."

Carey now adds another to this effect: "Jake Flowers is the National League's best utility man." And to show that he has the courage of his convictions Max is grooming Flowers for the regular job at shortstop for the Dodgers in the event that Glenn Wright's throwing does not improve.

IT IS TRUE that Flowers is a much improved player this spring, and he attributes it to a winter operation and a gain of 15 pounds. Jake says that for five years he has played ball on an empty stomach, due to intestinal trouble, and got little sleep at nights.

But as for taking Wright's job, that may be another matter. Glenn, who has been lobbing the ball underhand, insists that there is nothing wrong with his arm, and that he merely has been babying it to avoid the stiffening effects of an early strain.

THE FAILURE OF the baseball world to take kindly to the suggestion when it was offered several years ago did not cause John A. Heydler to abandon the idea of a 10-man team, one man to bat for the pitcher and do nothing else. "I still think it is a good idea," says the National League president. "I have seen an uncounted number of great games, in which two pitchers were fighting out a close contest, ruined by the injection of a pinch-hitter for one of the hurlers. The spectators would be keyed up to a high pitch by the slab duel, and then they would be let down suddenly as one pitcher was taken out in the sixth or seventh inning. After that it was just another game. The pitching duel had been spoiled by the elimination of one of the principals. What I advocate, is to have a tenth man who will bat whenever it is the pitcher's turn. He wouldn't have to do anything else—he would be just a hitter. But he would keep the pitcher in the game."

Sam Leslie

A REMARK THAT such a system surely would make a star of Sam Leslie led Garry Schumacher to call attention again to the second-string first baseman of the Giants. Nobody in baseball has a more hopeless job than Leslie holds in being a first baseman on the same club with Bill Terry.

There isn't a chance for Leslie to squeeze in there unless Terry breaks a leg. And yet Sam is such a good hitter that it's a shame to have his clouting ability going to waste on the bench. In the practice games this spring they haven't been able to get him out. Several clubs could use his punch, but Terry says that when he offered to make a deal none of them would give up what he considers Leslie to be worth.

THERE IS NO good reason apparent why Jimmy Robertson should not make a successful football coach for Geneva College and prove a worthy successor to Howard Harpster at the Beaver Falls school, just as he did at Shady Side Academy in 1930 and 1931.

As a star at Allegheny High School, an all-time halfback at Carnegie Tech, where in 1923 he won the Plaid's first victory over Pitt, and a member of the Akron pro team, he learned just about all there is to be known about football; he knows the district, and he can carry on the Carnegie system in which Geneva has been schooled for three seasons. The selection is a good one.

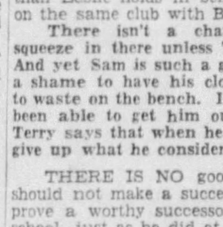
WITH OBSTACLES SPRINGING up in the path of the national open tennis tournament which the U. S. L. T. A. decided to hold this year for the first time, Ellsworth Vines, amateur champion, has made himself the target of plenty of criticism by announcing that he will not play in such an event and casting a slur on the professionals, intimating that it would not be a healthy contact for the amateurs, who might later "plan to make money out of tennis instead of planning to become respected businessmen or guiding officials of the amateur organization."

VINES' STAND AGAINST the so-called dollar chasers is pronounced a hypocritical one, and the general opinion is that the jump isn't very wide from the pro game to the one in which star amateurs get long trips to Australia and Europe.

About the only difference between the pros and some amateur "drawing cards" in tennis is that the pros admit it. Pros and amateurs compete together in golf's open tournaments, and there is no reason why they should not do so in tennis.

ONE ANNUAL COLLEGE rowing classic that goes on without interruption in 1933 is on the program for this week. The crews of Oxford and Cambridge will meet on the Thames Saturday for the eighty-fifth time.

An unusual feature in the make-up of the Oxford boat this year is that the coxswain is a 117-pound Siamese, named C. Komarakui na Nagara. He is the first member of an Oriental race ever to sit in an Oxford shell.



Jock Rosenberg

THE NUMBER OF former Duquesne University basketball players now out coaching at various schools attests the exceptional quality of the floor athletes turned out by Coach Chick Davies on the Bluff and the thorough knowledge of the court pastime imparted to his charges by the Red and Blue mentor. One to make a particularly fine record this year was Jock Rosenberg at Rankin High School. Though not made up of overly large boys, the Rankin team developed a rare degree of skill and speed and placed an excellent season to its credit, winning the

FORMER N. B. A. CHAMP SHOWS HERE AGAIN

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Just so it isn't a fellow named Thomas.

When Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, first showed here, last winter, his opponent, in the Kapphan Arena, in the Hill District, was Joey Thomas, elongated Chicagoan, and the resourceful Thomas made Tommy step to win.

When Paul was brought back, a few weeks ago, to Motor Square Garden, he was in with Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, and Jimmy gave the erstwhile N. B. A. featherweight champion the fight of his life, although he lost.

Tonight Tommy is back, and imagine his embarrassment when he discovered we had run out of Thomases. Yes, sir, no more Thomases to question his superiority—no more doubting Thomases, as it were.

MEETS MOSE BUTCH

This time it's Mose Butch they're feeding Paul. The same Mose Butch who has boxed Al Brown, world bantamweight champion, and Fidel LaBarba, former world flyweight champion, in the same ring. A rugged, compactly built Italian youth with a consuming ambition to be a champion himself. A fellow who used to box as a southpaw, but discovered the error of his ways and turned around. He still fights the wrong way on occasion, but only to discomfit his opponents when the going is tough. You see, billed as a southpaw, he couldn't get any work. Passing as an orthodox boxer, he can lure 'em into a ring, and then it's too late for them to take to flight. They don't carry a knife and so can't cut the ropes and escape.

The fans are looking for quite a battle from Paul and Butch. Both of them like to stand and fight it out, and they're both good punchers. The answer is yes.

A COUPLE OF BRUCES

A couple of fellows named Bruce stand out in the preliminaries. One, Sam Bruce, of Buffalo, a veteran Negro welterweight, comes here with Paul to substitute for Jack December against Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, in the eight-round semi-final, marking Belmont's return to the ring after quite a layoff. December is ill, so Jimmy probably will fight him some night in June or July. Any month but Jack's favorite December.

The other Bruce is Red Bruce, of the Hill, also a Negro, but a middleweight, who takes on Billy Flanagan, of Clearfield, Pa., who hasn't been seen around here for some time. They're down for six rounds. In the other six-rounder, Fritzie Zivic meets U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington. Dominic Mancini boxes Johnny Birek in the four-round opener, at 8:30 o'clock.

Between Rounds

Joey Bazzone and Max Elling have been matched for one of the four six-round preliminaries to the Tony Falco-Tracey Cox battle in the Arena on the North Side, Friday night. Steve O'Malley, of Bellaire, O., who hasn't shown here in many moons, meets Eddie Hebner, of Clairton, in another preliminary. The Arena did the best business in its history with its Ted Yarosz-Paulie Walker fight last Friday, when it grossed $2,600 at $1 and $2.

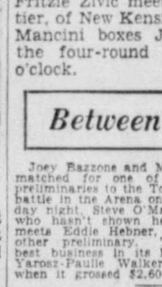
Tony Herrera has filed a challenge with the Illinois Boxing Commission and the National Boxing Association to Barney Ross, the Chicago star, who is virtually matched for a title bout with Tony Canzoneri, in Chicago, this summer.

One of the strongest bids for the team honors in the annual Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. senior championship tournament at the Keystone A. C., beginning Thursday night and running through next Monday will be made by Jack Metz's Willow A. C., which has entered a large squad.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 27.—Say, that House of David ball team is still doing business and touring the South right now. I don't know if it's the original cast because they always look the same behind those whiskers, anyway.



Nick Altrock

Those boys must have lost an election bet in 1876, because they haven't shaved since Rutherford B. Hayes was President. Honestly, if they dipped their beards in whitewash they would look like nine George Bernard Shaws.

But can those lads play baseball! You take a look at the alfalfa flowing from their chins and then see 'em bat and field, and you feel like wiring both the Smith Brothers expense money and telling them to join your team. They'd be just the youngsters to pep it up.

SOCCER GAMES END IN TIES

By TOM BIRKS

In one of the best soccer games of the season Curry, of the Keystone League, and Sygan, of the Panhandle loop, battled to a scoreless tie in the second round of the West Penn cup at South Park yesterday afternoon.

The clubs played a 1-1 tie the week before in the first game and they will have to meet again to break the deadlock, probably on a neutral field to be selected by the West Penn Cup committee.

Sygan should have won yesterday, but ill luck prevailed. The boys from Millers Run hit the upright and cross bar at least four times in the second half, and that is unusual at soccer.

Three players were ejected from the contest for rough play, Mitchell and Donnelli being chased from the Curry lineup and Kirk from Sygan.

The Castle Shannon McKnights and Mt. Lebanon Firemen had a struggle at Grove Station, and 90 minutes of hectic soccer found the teams deadlocked at 3-3. The McKnights won the first game, 1-0, and go into the next round of the tourney.

Many fans trekked to Heidelberg to watch the Green and Gold swing into action against the Castle Shannon Zoneys. They were well rewarded for the trip, a brilliant game ending in a 1-1 tie.

Coraopolis defeated Springdale, 3 to 1, at the Ohio River grounds.

Now that he has added the N. B. A. title to his generally accepted world light-heavyweight crown, Maxie Rosenbloom can get that cup of coffee without paying the nickle . . . They say he can't box and he can't fight and he can't punch . . . What a bunch of bums the other fellows in his class must be!

His name is Erich F. Pohl, and he is the new managing editor of Pittsburgh's German daily newspaper, the Volksblatt and Freiheits-Freund . . . You'll hear more about him in the months to come, for he is an athletic man of 45, an Olympic wrestling champion in 1912, when he hobnobbed with Jim Thorpe and our other stars at Stockholm . . . He is a friend of Jack Dempsey and an intimate of all of the wrestlers that you read about, although some of them don't go for him because he prefers sincere amateur wrestling to the flubdub of the pros . . . He has worked out in the gymnasium with many of the headliners and he still can hold his own with some of them.

Pohl has traveled to many parts of these United States and he holds A. A. U. cards from almost every district in which he has settled . . . He is going after one here and hopes to be able to help to advance local amateur sports. . . . He is available at any time without pay for service as a referee of boxing and wrestling bouts and would like nothing better than an opportunity to develop a team of wrestlers for one of the local colleges in his spare time . . . A dynamic personality, he promises to become a prominent figure in district athletic circles.

A hard worker was Albert (Irish) Kane, local manager and trainer of boxers, who succumbed today to injuries received in an automobile accident last week near Bedford, Pa. . . . A hard worker who never seemed able to get anywhere for all his effort . . . He came here several years ago from Cleveland, after putting in some years as a handler of boxers in Rochester, N. BRUINS, WINGS RANGERS WIN

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP.)—The American division of the National Hockey League, as represented by the Boston Bruins, Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers, is off to a flying start in its annual battle with Canada's hockey leaders to decide possession of the Stanley cup.

All three teams from the United States came out ahead in their opening games in the complicated playoff series for the trophy that represents the world professional hockey championship.

Boston, the favorite in the three-out-of-five game duel between the leaders of the American and International divisions, had a stiff overtime struggle against Toronto's Maple Leafs Saturday night, but came through on Marty Barry's goal to whip the defending champions, 2 to 1.

RED WINGS COP

The "dark horse" team of the playoffs, Detroit's Red Wings, staged a successful invasion of Montreal and shut out the Maroons, 2 to 0. The New York Rangers, with the home ice advantage, turned back the other third place club, the Montreal Canadiens, even more decisively last night, winning, 5 to 3. The second and third place series are two-game affairs, decided on total goals for the round, and the Red Wings and Rangers carry their margins into the second contests, which will be played tomorrow at Detroit and Montreal.

Boston and Toronto also clash again tomorrow, playing the second game on Boston ice before moving to Toronto to complete the series.

BUFFALO SIX "IN"

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 27.—(AP.)—The Windsor Bulldogs turned back the Syracuse Stars, 3-2, in the outstanding upset of the International Hockey League playoff series last night and assured the Buffalo Bisons of their second successive league championship.

SOUTH, ALTOONA RISK WINNING STREAKS TOMORROW

ORIOLES SCORE 20 STRAIGHT VICTORIES

By JULIUS LEVIN

Two brilliant winning streaks will be in jeopardy tomorrow night when South High and Altoona High clash in the final battle at State College for the Western Regional championship of the P. I. A. A. basketball eliminations.

The contest, bringing together the champions of District VIII and District VI, the sole survivors of the Western inter-district playoffs will determine whether or not the Orioles of Pittsburgh will enter the state championship game to be played Saturday evening.

The South-Altoona winner will meet the Scranton Tech-Lower Merion winner for the state championship. Scranton meets Lower Merion in Allentown tomorrow.

FINALE IN EAST

If South and Lower Merion are the survivors, the final game will be played at the Palestra in Philadelphia.

If Lower Merion and Altoona win, the game will be played at State College.

If the finalists are South and Scranton Tech, the game will be played near Scranton.

South's record for the season is a remarkable one, the Orioles showing only one setback in 22 games. That defeat was administered by New Castle, Section III titleholder in the W. P. I. A. L., in the second pre-season game carded for the Orioles and since that time the local champions have scored 20 successive triumphs.

UNBEATEN IN LEAGUE

Included in South's list of victims are some of the best teams in this section of the state. Besides going through their City League schedule unscathed, the Orioles scored five victories in non-league contests, among them being one at the expense of the Duquesne University freshmen.

The only defeat on the South record is a 26-23 setback at the hands of New Castle, which bowed to Duquesne in the W. P. I. A. L. finals. South later defeated this same quintet, 25-21, to advance in the P. I. A. A. playoffs. Mt. Lebanon, champion of Section IX in the W. P. I. A. L.; Oliver, Carnegie and Beaver Falls were defeated in non-league games.

In the 22 games they have played so far, the Orioles have rolled up 759 points to 519 for the opposition.

ALTOONA UNDEFEATED

Altoona High, coached by Snaps Emanuels, likewise boasts an enviable record with a string of 18 successive triumphs. The Blair Countians have not been defeated.

Fifteen of Altoona's victories have been scored in regularly scheduled contests, while the battles with Clymer, Philipsburg and Boswell, the last-named champion of District V in the P. I. A. A., were elimination affairs. The records of the two western regional finalists follow:

A. featherweight champion, there. Champions mean just another fight to him.

INDIANA FIVE WINS TITLE

CHICAGO, March 27.—(AP.)—Hoosier basketball has scored another triumph.

After 10 years of trying, a hardwood team from Indiana crowded into the throne room of the national Catholic High School basketball championship last night when the Cathedrals, of Indianapolis, won the title with a rousing 31 to 10 conquest over St. Rita, of Chicago, in the tournament finals.

Risky Miss Wins 'Caliente Futurity

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 27.—(AP.)—A trim little filly, Risky Miss, owned by I. C. Worden, won the Agua Caliente Futurity here yesterday from a select field of 2-year-olds, making it five straight victories and no defeats since she began running in January. The race was run at 4½ furlongs and paid the winner $2,425.

Thief Shot, I Routed In Fight for $15,000

CHICAGO, March 27.—(AP.)—Two robbers fought unsuccessfully with the operators of the Commerce Armored Car Protection Company over $15,000 in the company's offices today. One robber, identified as Jack White, 28, was shot and wounded seriously. Thomas and Frank J. Palzen, owners of the company, chased the other robber from the building.

LOCAL TENNIS CONCLAVE SET FOR APRIL 10

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association, governing body of the net sport in the Western Pennsylvania area, will be held at the P. A. A., Monday, April 10, according to formal announcement from the office of P. T. A. President J. Phillips Davis today.

In proclaiming the date of conclave, Davis laid special stress on the fact that the affair is an open one and that all district court devotees, regardless of whether or not they possess P. T. A. club affiliations, are cordially invited to attend.

Numerous matters of high importance to the 1933 tennis campaign hereabouts will come up for discussion. The topic of site for the West Penn championships, officially sanctioned for the nine days beginning Saturday, June 17, will be the subject of special report by Chairman Frank S. Smith.

President Davis, who represented the Steel City organization recently at both the Middle States Lawn Tennis Association meeting in Philadelphia and the U. S. L. T. A. meeting in New York, will report on these conventions, and upon progress of P. T. A. expansion throughout the twelvemonth just ending.

The first indoor tennis exhibition by a local high school will be staged in the spacious Mt. Lebanon gymnasium on Thursday, March 30, at 7:15. The Mt. Lebanon High netters, champions of the Interscholastic Tennis League and winners of Section II of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association, will hold their pre-season eliminations.

M.-A. LEAGUE REORGANIZED

ZANESVILLE, O., March 27.—(AP.)—The Middle-Atlantic Baseball League has been reorganized with four West Virginia clubs, one Pennsylvania and one Ohio club granted franchises, and the door left open for two additional teams if they apply before Monday, April 3.

Teams represented at yesterday's meeting here were Huntington, Wheeling, Charleston and Beckley, W. Va., Johnstown, Pa., and Zanesville, O.

The league adopted a 130-game schedule, opening May 4 and closing September 6.

Possibility that Ducky Holmes, manager of the Dayton club of the Central League, would seek to place a Mid-Atlantic club in Youngstown was seen by his presence at the meeting.

Alex Pisula, of Lima, which took over Youngstown's Central League franchise, and Ralph Miller, of Fort Wayne, Ind., another Central loop city, also attended the meeting. What significance their presence had was not disclosed.

Victory Rejects Floor Challenge

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 27.—(AP.)—Victory High School authorities today turned down an invitation to play a series of basketball games with Allegheny High School, of Cumberland, Md., for the championship of Maryland and West Virginia.

CRICKET MATCH DRAW

CHRIST CHURCH, New Zealand, March 27.—(AP.)—The test cricket match between England and New Zealand today ended in a draw as a terrific dust storm swept the city, making continuance impossible. The scores were: England, 560 for eight wickets, declared; New Zealand, 223 and 35 for no wickets.

LEHNER ROLLS PRIZE SCORE IN A. B. C.

COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—But one member of the Elks team of Pittsburgh today stands in line for a prize check as a result of activities in the matinee events of the annual American Bowling Congress here yesterday.

John Lehner came through with 595 in his singles to qualify while his doubles mate, C. Martin, was close at 569. Fred Barth, Pittsburgh member of the executive committee of the Congress, took an ordinary 512.

Two Bradford men clicked in the singles, P. Pascarella getting 595 and J. Sportell, the only bowler to ever win gold, silver and bronze medals in one season for games of 300, 299, 298, had 592.

Ten Wheeling, W. Va., pinmen were out of luck entirely as nary a pair nor an individual scattered the sticks for more than mediocre figures.

Fort Pitt Brewer, of Pittsburgh, and McCauslens, of Steubenville, rolled a good brotherly but nonpaying series on the midnight shift, the former having 2693 and the latter 2659. The scores of the Pittsburghers follow:

Dead Heat Features Local Swim Meet

A dead heat in the 400-yard free-style event featured the exhibition swimming meet staged in the Keystone Athletic Club pool yesterday between the Hoosier Athletic Club, of Indianapolis, and a team of Pittsburgh district stars. The Indianapolis swimmers stopped off here on their way to the senior championships to be held in New York. The summary:

400-yard relay race—Hoosier A. C. team (Kliezmer, Marshall, Robinson, Tilman); Pittsburgh team (Lindberg, Addlesburg, Denny, Harma) called a dead heat by the judges. Time, 3:52.

50-yard free style exhibition—Clifford Hellard, Keystone A. C., first; John Riley, Pittsburgh, second; Joe Madden, Pittsburgh, third. Time, :26.3.

50-yard free style—Paul Stimer, Pittsburgh, first; Willard Norton, Pittsburgh, second; Charles Chalmers, Pittsburgh, third; Fred Robinson, Indianapolis, fourth. Time, :25 1-5.

100-yard free style—Russell Lindberg, Pittsburgh, first; Jack Denny, Pittsburgh, second; Sam Klezmer, Indianapolis, third. Time :59 flat.

100-yard free style—John Hanna, Pittsburgh, first; Herman Addlesberg, Pittsburgh, second; Robert Marshall, Indianapolis, third. Time, 1:00 flat.

300-yard medley race—Ned Hillman, Indianapolis, first; Joe Schmeller, Pittsburgh, second; Fred Warren, Pittsburgh, third. Time, 4:02 2-5.

Long Hospital Stay Faced by Speigal

HORSE SHOW OFF

LONDON, March 27.—(AP.)—For the first time in 26 years London's famous international horse show will not be held this year. The last few shows have lost money, and no backers could be found to underwrite the proposed exhibition this year.

BOBBY JONES' GOLF

By BOBBY JONES

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year.

John Seamon, of Los Angeles, writes:

"I have heard it said that one should be able to hold a piece of paper or a handkerchief under the right arm while making the backswing. What about it? Should the right elbow be held very close to the body while the club is being swung back?"

Probably the most common failing of the average golfer is to swing the club almost entirely with his arms and hands, omitting the use of any sort of a turn of his hips and body. Unaccompanied by the turning movement, the backswing becomes a lifting action, raising the club over the shoulders. In such a swing, the right elbow usually moves out from the side and finds itself high in the air at the top of the swing.

Bobby Jones

In some cases, the right elbow will reach such a height that the right forearm will be in a position approximately horizontal at the top of the swing. The effect, of course, is to force the hands so far forward that it becomes impossible to direct a continuous stroke straight through the ball.

V IN SWING

The V formed by the thumb and index finger of the right hand should be approximately on top of the shaft when addressing the ball. And when the hands reach the top of the swing, this V should be approximately underneath the shaft. At address the face of the club is square to the ball and the toe is pointing straight away from the player; at the top of the swing the toe should be pointing directly into the ground. These conditions cannot be met unless the right elbow is somewhat below the shaft of the club.

Even though this be true, I do not like the idea of holding the right elbow close in to the side, for this expression implies a constraint which has no place in a free swing. I think the correct position can be reached in a better way.

If the entire right side of the body, including the right arm, is perfectly relaxed during the first stage of the backswing, and if during this time the movement is kept going by the left side turning away from the ball, there will be no inclination of the right elbow to stray. The turn of the hips and body, and the push of the left arm, naturally turn the right elbow in if it offers no impulse or resistance of its own.

THE SHORTER STROKES

In the shorter strokes, the right elbow never leaves the side. But it is not actually "held" there. There is simply no reason for it to go elsewhere. As the backswing becomes longer, for full length shots, the right elbow comes up proportionately, but the club has already passed it, and, therefore, is above it at the top of the swing.

So, in the correct swing, the right elbow remains close to the right hip until the length of the swing pulls it away. But it is not held in or cramped against the side. It is kept there by its own compliance with the action of the hips and left side.

Local Athletes Get W.-J. Letters

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 27.—Three Pittsburghers were among the 17 Washington and Jefferson athletes to receive letter awards in the winter sports program. The three men, H. E. Blank, '33; W. J. Ivill, '33, and C. E. Bubenheim, '34, made their awards in wrestling. Ivill, earlier this year won an award as football manager, while Bubenheim has received letters in football and track.

LEFTY EXPLAINS SWAT SLUMP

MIAMI, Fla., March 27.—(AP.)—The Brooklyn Dodgers are inclined to blame their hitting slump this spring on the lack of a green background in center field here rather than any feats by the opposing pitchers.

As Lefty O'Doul put it:

"It's always tough to hit, no matter where you are. But when you put a ball player in one of these parks where he sees the ball coming up to the plate out of a background made up of striped canvas or an orange grove, or a peanut stand, it becomes more difficult. If we had a good background, something green, those other fellows wouldn't be holding us to four hits."

TAMPA, Fla.—Fred (Red) Lucas, veteran Cincinnati right-hander, today was hobbling around because of a strained muscle in his right side, suffered while batting in practice. He will be out of action for a week.

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP.)—A variety of slugging which included two home runs, four doubles and a triple helped the Phillies to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 4, in an exhibition game yesterday.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—After being held runless for seven innings, the Boston Braves landed on Jimmy Deshong in the eighth and scored four runs to defeat the New York Yankees, 4 to 3, in their final spring exhibition clash yesterday afternoon.

EL PASO, Tex.—(AP.)—Take it from the New York Giants, baseball is booming in the southwest. In two games at Phoenix and El Paso Saturday and yesterday, the Giants played before a total of 12,000 spectators, just about as many as came to see them in all their previous exhibitions on the West Coast.

SACRAMENTO.—(AP.)—Chicago's hustling Cubs, behind the airtight pitching of Guy Bush and Lonnie Warneke, swept a double-header from the Sacramento Senators here yesterday, 5 to 1, and 3 to 1. Kiki Cuyler, the Cubs' centerfielder, iced the first game for Bush when he racked out a homer in the first inning with English on base. Harnett hit a homer in the seventh over the left center field fence, one of the longest hits ever seen at Moreing Field.

SPORT SCRIBE DIES

BOSTON, March 27.—(AP.)—John J. Hallahan, veteran sports writer for the Boston Globe, died suddenly Saturday night while listening to a radio report of the Bruins-Toronto hockey game. He was 56 years old, and had been active in Boston journalism for nearly 34 years.

GENEVA SIGNS ROBERTSON AS COACH

By JESS CARVER

Jimmy Robertson, the jackrabbit of the Carnegie Tech backfields of 1920, '21, '22 and '23 will be the head man of football at Geneva College this fall.

Jim Robertson

Little Jimmy, one of the great backs in Tech's football history, despite the fact he weighed less than 150 pounds soaking wet, today put his John Hancock on a one-year contract at Geneva. The terms were not made known, but Jimmy is getting enough to enable him to set aside part of the kitty to pay for an assistant.

This assistant job, Jimmy has said, will be offered Bob Schmidt, former Tech tackle, who played on the same elevens with Howard Harpster and Don Lovewell, the pair Robertson succeeds at the Covenanter school.

SUCCEEDS HARPSTER

The signing of Robertson winds up a prolonged search for a successor to Harpster, who resigned at Geneva to take the head coaching job at Carnegie Tech when Bob Waddell decided he was going to be too busy making his first million to take time off for coaching.

Robertson first burst into the glare of the gridiron spotlight as a member of the great Alleghenies High School team of 1919, playing with such stars as Pete MacRae, Fats McMillan, Rags Maderas, Hunk Ross and George Buehler. McRae later became an all-America end at Syracuse and McMillan an all-America center at Princeton.

He entered Tech in 1920, and as the Tartans did not have the freshmen rule at that time, stepped right into a varsity position. In 1923, his final year on the team, Jimmy scored the touchdown that gave the Tartans their first gridiron victory in history over Pitt. He also won varsity letters in basketball, track and baseball at Carnegie.

PLAYED PRO BALL

He played pro ball for Akron in the National Professional Football League in 1924 and 1925, and in 1930, when Howard Harpster resigned at Shady Side Academy to take over the reins at Geneva, Robertson succeeded him. Economy measures at the Fox Chapel road school last fall cost him his job.

Jim at one time was headed for West Point, but a slight eye defect prevented his passing the physical examination. Right now he's selling insurance, losing daily arguments with Mrs. Robertson and little 4-year-old Miss Margie and planning a trip around the world when he amasses his first million.

The decision to sign Robertson was reached on Saturday by a committee appointed by Dr. M. M. Pearce, president of Geneva, to select a coach, which included Dr. R. M. Clark as chairman; President Pearce, Bruce Martin, Ebert Long, J. Walker Wilson, Dr. W. J. Sterrett and Athletic Director A. C. Edgecomb.

The Wash-Jeff football squad started spring practice at Washington today under the direction of Coach Hank Day.

RUTH DENIES PLAN TO QUIT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 27.—(AP.)—Babe Ruth, New York Yankees' slugger, has denied reports that he planned to retire from baseball at the end of the 1933 season. He said:

"There is nothing to it. You can say for Mrs. Ruth and myself that there is no foundation to the reports of my retirement at the conclusion of this season, as neither of us has made any statements to that effect. And, besides, it is a long time before the end of the season."

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

PACKER SEES SALES AID IN BEER

Frankfurters and beer! That good old combination is not far distant now. Beer and cold cuts go together as naturally as soup and crackers, according to George Hess, president of the William Zoller Meat Packing Company, 1550 Spring Garden avenue, North Side.

With the advent of beer next week, a tremendous increase in the sale of cold meats, sausage and frankfurters is anticipated. And the Zoller company, for one, is going to be prepared. Their facilities are being organized to enable them to produce as much as 100,000 pounds of cold meats in a day, if the demand reaches that amount, Mr. Hess said.

From time immemorial, German beer drinkers, progenitors and connoisseurs of that delectable amber beverage so long denied Americans, have associated beer with sausage and cold meats, Mr. Hess explains the alliance this way:

"Beer is a great appetizer. It is usually taken with a light lunch. Properly spiced and flavored cold meats create the kind of thirst that beer most readily satisfies. At its best when chilled, beer naturally is more amenable to cold than hot foods."

Although the old saloon, with its free lunch counter will probably not return, Mr. Hess predicts the establishment of the beer garden, similar to those institutions of conviviality that are famous as gathering places for the whole family in Germany. He continued:

"Prohibition has taught people to drink in their homes. A great deal of beer drinking will be done there. That is where the electric refrigerators, ideal for chilling the beer and preserving cold cuts comes in. Hors d'ouvres and pastry dainties will give way to beer and cold cuts for bridge parties and evening gatherings. The midnight snack of beer and rye-bread sandwiches will gain something of its pre-prohibition popularity."

Besides the meat packing industry, Mr. Hess predicts the return of beer will stimulate the coal and glass industries in Pittsburgh. He said:

"Pittsburgh is ideally slated, by the nature of her industries to benefit by the return of beer. The breweries probably will consume about $20,000,000 worth of coal a year and possibly about $15,000,000 worth of glass bottles, to say nothing of steel hoops for barrels and other steel equipment. This will put people back to work and generally increase buying power."

Canadian Railways Cut Grain Rates

MONTREAL, March 27.—(AP.)—The Canadian Railways have decided to reduce their rate on Wheat between Georgian Bay ports and Montreal from 8.6 cents a bushel to 4½ cents.

The new rate, designed as a means of meeting competition at Buffalo and Atlantic seaboard points, will go into effect April 15, provided the bay elevators absorb a quarter of a cent of the present bay elevation charges.

MOTORS SHOWS NET PROFIT

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—A readjustment in the real estate, plant and equipment account of the General Motors Corporation to accord with present conditions is disclosed in the pamphlet report for 1932, issued today.

Surplus real estate, plant and equipment previously carried at cost of $115,491,946, has been adjusted by the corporation to the estimated salvage value of $22,779,411, and the difference of $92,712,535 has been charged against depreciation reserve.

The effect of this has been to reduce plant account from $592,694,766 to $499,982,231, with a corresponding reduction in depreciation reserve from $264,421,021 to $171,708,486.

With the reduction to salvage value, the corporation says the report, will be enabled to reduce depreciation charges by approximately $7,000,000 annually.

Net earnings from 1932 operations, as previously reported, amounted to $164,979, or 9 cents a preferred share, compared with $87,501,208, or $2.01 a share on the common stock, in 1931.

Aggregate Income Of Gas Trade Off

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP.)—The American Gas Association reports that revenues of the manufactured and natural gas industry aggregated $69,997,600 for January, compared with $74,094,100 for January, 1932, a decline of 4.5 per cent. The loss for the manufactured gas industry was 8.8 per cent, while that of the natural gas industry was 2.2 per cent.

Business

Steel Trade Taking Firmer Stand On Prices

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE STEEL TRADE has suffered from the effects of the bank holiday but it has been making notable progress in improving its position through the stabilization of prices.

Steel production was brought close to the depression lows during the bank holiday. While a brief spurt in production took place when the principal banks reopened, the general rate of operations has shown little change from the low level. At present, steel mills are working at about 13 per cent of capacity.

The business delayed during the bank holiday, instead of forming a reserve of unfilled orders to be released, seems to have utterly vanished.

* * *

Quotations Advance While Output Drops

EVEN THOUGH THE total demand for steel has shown no improvement, the industry has been making progress during recent weeks. Steel producers have continued their efforts to stabilize prices. In at least some lines higher levels have been established and the tendency to cut published quotations has been checked where most steel products are concerned.

After witnessing several years of the futility of cutting prices in efforts to stimulate a declining demand, the industry appears to have been convinced that no advantage is to be gained by following the older price slashing methods.

The industry has found that price is a minor consideration in the demand for steel. It has learned that the policy of shading quotations gains nothing in the long run since the competitor who loses an order on price later regains another through the same tactics.

* * *

Coming Months Prove Doubtful

THE PROSPECTS for the steel industry in coming months are uncertain. The most active customers previous to the bank troubles were automobile manufacturers. The bank holiday put a decided crimp in the sales campaigns of these organizations as it did in the business volume of many other types of steel consumers. The demands from other types of consumers are limited by conditions peculiar to the particular industries.

Construction is being held back by the surplus of residential, manufacturing and office structures now in existence.

Railroad demand is limited by the strained financial conditions of most of the steam lines.

From a general standpoint no industry is likely to spend any great amount of money until we shall have gone through the slow process of building up the buying power of wage and salary earners. Until this development has gone through a considerable distance little improvement is likely to take place in the buying power of the owners of stocks.

The entire development, starting with increased demand for products, followed by increased employment and further gain in buying power which eventually will produce earnings for individuals engaged in business or holding stocks of corporations, with a further stimulus to buying, cannot happen over night. It obviously must be a slow growth. The gain in momentum will be slight at the outset, but it will gather force in the future.

R. F. C. LOANS TWO BILLION

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP.)—Two billions of dollars have been poured into the business system of the country through the Reconstruction Corporation since its formation 13½ months ago.

The monthly summary of the business corporation shows that in actual cash the Corporation had disbursed $2,083,750,080 up to March 21 and that it had received in repayment $407,368,772.

Actual authorization of loans, many of which have not been completed, was $2,742,691,063. Loans authorized for banks, railroads, insurance companies and similar institutions to March 21 totaled $2,045,446,263, of which $1,225,105,613 was for banks and $359,885,015 to railroads.

Cotton Consumption Estimated Higher

NEW YORK, March 27.—The New York Cotton Exchange service estimates world consumption of American cotton in February at 1,095,000 bales, against 1,180,000 consumed in January and 1,093,000 in February, 1932. Total consumption for the seven months ended February 28 is placed at 7,990,000 bales, compared with 7,219,000 bales in the like period last season.

Inland to Advance Galvanized Sheets

CHICAGO, March 27.—Inland Steel Company contemplates advancing price of galvanized sheets $2 a ton to 2.80c per pound. In December, 1932, the sheets were 2.95c and dropped to 2.50c by February 15. Inland is trying to bring price to a profitable basis.

FORM HOTEL BOND GROUP

A protective committee for holders of the Pittsburgh Hotels Corporation first mortgage 5½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, due March 1, 1948, which are in default of interest and sinking fund payments, has been formed and is asking holders to deposit their bonds with March 1, 1933, and subsequent coupons attached as promptly as possible with the depositary, Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company, Philadelphia, or the sub-depositaries, City Bank Farmers Trust Company, New York, and Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, Pittsburgh.

The committee is composed of William H. Donner, chairman; Henry G. Brengle, Lewis H. Parsons, Alexander C. Robinson, James G. Scarff and Lawrence Stern.

The bonds, of which there are outstanding $9,960,000 of an original issue of $10,350,000, are secured by a direct mortgage on the lands and buildings of the William Penn and Fort Pitt hotels and by a pledge of the entire capital stocks of the subsidiary company which owns the furniture and equipment of these hotels.

Renner Announces New Financing Plan

Plans for a public offering of stock of The Renner Company, the only brewing company in Youngstown, were announced today by Emil A. Renner, president.

The company will have an outstanding capitalization of 450,000 shares of $1 par value, of which 115,000 shares will be offered to the public by Pittsburgh and Youngstown brokers. The plant has a capacity of 125,000 barrels per year.

DROP IN WAGES REACHES END

Good news for the factory worker is contained in the Alexander Hamilton Institute's statement, in its current weekly bulletin, that factory wages on the average have been fully deflated. Though some downward adjustment of wage scales is still to be expected in individual industries, the institute believes that any further deflation in prices should be accomplished without further wage-cutting.

Factory employment turned downward in November after a moderate upward trend during the previous three months and in January it was nearly down to the depression's low reached last July. Payrolls in January were smaller than in July and were consequently at a new low for the depression. The decrease in payrolls was due entirely to cuts in wage scales because there were not only more workers employed in January than in July but there was less part-time work. Lower wage scales resulted in a drop in average earnings per worker to a new low for the depression despite the fact that workers were employed more hours in January than in July.

SCALES DECLINE

Wage scales in January were 25.8 per cent below the peak in 1929. This decrease in wage scales was sufficient to permit a reduction of 38 per cent from 1929 in the average price level of manufactured goods due to an increase in the output per man-hour and to the fact that wage-earners in 1929 were receiving less than their usual share of gross factory income. Since it is not likely that a price drop of more than 38 per cent will be necessary to complete the present deflation of prices, it is evident that wage scales on the average, have been fully deflated. Should prices show more of a drop than is now indicated, no further deflation of wage scales should be necessary because of a probable further increase in the output per man-hour.

The prospect of a continuation of the upward trend in the output per man-hour is based on the fact that the share-the-work movement apparently culminated last year due to labor's growing opposition to the downward trend of per capita earnings as the result of the addition of superfluous employes. This means that the inefficiency engendered by the movement has come to an end and that one of the obstacles to business recovery has been eliminated. The share-the-work movement intensified the depression by reducing the earnings of individual wage-earners and making it necessary for them to limit their purchases to the strictest necessities. This resulted in the curtailment of the output of other goods and the loss of work to more people than obtained work through the share-the-work movement. This movement created a vicious circle which increased unemployment instead of lessening it as it was designed to do.

PRICES DROP

The average price level of manufactured goods has not yet declined to the level in line with January wage scales. The price average of manufactured goods in January was 29.4 per cent below the 1929 level, whereas wage scales permitted a 38 per cent reduction. The completion of the deflation of prices should therefore be accomplished without further wage-cutting. The discrepancy between wage levels and price levels at the present time is a factor in prolonging the depression. If costs are still too high to permit the proper deflation of prices, the time has now come when the downward adjustment of costs must involve items other than labor costs.

While it is apparent that wage scales, on the average, have been fully deflated, it does not follow that wage scales in individual industries have been properly adjusted. Further wage-cutting in some industries is still in order; in other industries wage-cutting has gone too far, and higher levels need to be established.

REPEAL MOVE ON RECAPTURE CHEERS RAILS

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP.)—Prospects that the word "recapture," which describes a skeleton that, for some 16 years has been lurking in the closet of the railroad industry, may soon be stricken from the legislative lexicon, brings new sighs of relief to rail executives.

Retroactive repeal of the recapture clause of the 1920 Transportation Act has already been approved by the House Interstate Commerce Committee and, if Congress takes the same view, a debt of some $350,000,000, which the railroads technically owe the government will be crossed off the books.

The Recapture clause provides that any railroad earning in any year in excess of 5.75 per cent of the value of its railway property must pay one-half of such excess to the Government.

BACKED BY F. R.

Statisticians of the Fitch Publishing Company figure that such excess earnings liable for recapture from 1920 to 1930, inclusive, aggregated $361,466,000. Up to December 16, 1931, however, only $10,679,000 had actually been paid and placed in the "revolving" fund under the administration of the I. C. C. Most of the large roads have not paid anything to this recapture fund and court actions in opposition to payment are still pending.

Early repeal of the recapture provision is seen not only because the Interstate Commerce Commission itself has for several years recommended this action, but also because President Roosevelt during his campaign expressed himself as opposed to the continuance of this law.

RECAPTURE 'DEBTS'

Under the existing transportation act, excess earnings have been calculated on the I. C. C.'s valuation of the various railroad properties without regard to capitalization. As an example, the "Frisco," now in receivership, had an excess income during the 11-year period of $19,557,000.

As illustrating the alleged impracticability of payments under the recapture clause, the Fitch Company compares the net working capital of some of the large systems with the amounts they owe the government. The Chesapeake and Ohio, for instance, had a net working capital on January 31, last, of $7,157,000, and, for the 1920-30 period, owed the government $53,021,000; Norfolk and Western, working capital $10,999,000, owed $42,106,000; Southern Railway, working capital $4,950,000, owed $15,839,000; Reading, working capital $1,537,000, owed $13,750,000, and the New York Central, with a deficit of $35,939,000, owed $8,203,000.

Cunard Reports Big Loss for Year

LONDON, March 27.—(AP.)—A report by directors of the Cunard Steamship Company, Ltd., showed that the firm sustained a loss of nearly £1,000,000 in the past year.

A partnership agreement covering the operation and ownership of the Berengaria and the Majestic, giant liners, has been dissolved, the report announced.

The Cunard Company henceforth will have exclusive ownership of the Berengaria and no further interest in the Majestic, a White Star ship.

New Jersey Shows Drop in Exports

WASHINGTON—(INS.)—Exports of merchandise from New Jersey during the first nine months of 1932 were valued at $56,621,845, compared with $98,050,684 in the corresponding period of 1931, according to the Commerce Department.

Willard Predicts Improvement For Rails

CINCINNATI, March 27.—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said that "if the railroads could get 10 or 15 per cent more business, they'd be all right."

"I'm not despondent or discouraged about the railroads," he said, expressing belief, too, that "substantial improvement" will follow application of the program of President Roosevelt.

Bakery Salesmen Get Safety Awards

One hundred salesmen of the Baur Bros. Bakery attended a safety meeting in the bakery auditorium last evening. Salesmen were awarded merit cards for having operated their vehicles for a period of one and two years without an accident of any description. These cards were awarded by John S. Herron, and John A. Fugassi, who gave safety talks. Chas. J. McCormick, manager, G. M. Shannon, sales manager and Frank B. Hewel, superintendent of transportation, gave short talks on safe driving and congratulated the salesmen on their record.

METAL MARKET TONE WEAK

NEW YORK, March 27.—With no improvement in demand for copper on the recent advance of ¾ cents per pound, smelters offered electrolytic down from the peak price of 8¾ to 8⅛ cents and a further concession of ⅛ cent developed in one quarter. The easier tone made consumers cautious. However, a fair European demand was reported at steadier prices in that market.

Successive reductions in lead during the week carried the price down $7 per ton. Smaller smelters who had been reluctant to book business on the recent advance were said to have sought orders at concessions. However, consumers had supplied their needs from larger producers and withdrew from the market.

Zinc eased in sympathy with declines in other metals. Increased ore production also led to expectations of a softer tone in that market.

Antimony remained dull, with nominal quotations prevailing in the continued absence of business.

The best demand for pig iron since last autumn developed with prices firmly held. Prices for finished products held steady, with an announced advance for galvanized sheets scheduled to take place April 5.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT NARROW

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP.)—The financial markets began the new week placidly today, with trading light and price fluctuations extremely narrow.

The stock market was still awaiting Washington developments on such important problems as railroad rehabilitation and farm relief. A little scottered selling appeared, but, on the whole, the list maintained a steady tone.

Silver stocks, such as American and United States Smelting, rose about a point, and sugar stocks were again firm. Farm implements and some of the electric power issues sagged fractionally. A few of the industrials dipped a point or so, notably Allied Chemical, American Can, Du Pont, McKeesport and National Biscuit. American Telephone and United States Steel sagged small fractions.

Railroad quarters were inclined to look for the announcement of the administration's railroad program this week. While rail stocks have shown outstanding stability in the past several weeks, they were inclined to drift today. The February net operating income reports of the carriers now appearing have not compared so favorably with the like month of the previous year as they did in January and December, but this is in part due to the fact that the comparison is now being made with a month in which both the higher freight rates and the lower wages were in effect.

The first of the large systems to report last week's freight movement was Santa Fe, which showed 20,292 cars handled, or slightly more than the previous week's volume of 19,005 cars, and not far below the like week of 1932, in which 22,041 cars were handled. Compared with last year, the recession was only about 8½ per cent, the smallest for any week this year.

The silver stocks were evidently bid up on news that the Senate Banking and Currency Committee had appointed a sub-committee to consider various proposals to bolster this metal. Sugars continued firm, in reflection of the better prices that have recently prevailed for that staple, and its improved statistical position.

Some uncertainty was occasioned by important dividend meetings due this week. Directors of Allied Chemical are slated to meet tomorrow, and there was some expectation that the $6 rate might be maintained for at least another quarter, although it has not been fully earned since 1931. This is one of the few companies that is still paying its boom-time rate. American Can directors also meet tomorrow, and there was some expectation in brokerage quarters that it might maintain its $4 annual rate.

FOREIGN SALES HIT COTTON

NEW YORK, March 27.—Cotton futures opened steady, 3-5 points decline on lower Liverpool cables and foreign selling of late positions. May 6.35; July 6.52; October 6.70; December 6.83; January 6.89; March 7.05.

After easing to 6.34 for May and 6.58 for October, prices held fairly steady on covering and trade demand. At the end of the first half hour active months were 2 to 3 points net lower.

May, which had sold off 6.32 or 6 points net lower under the earlier pressure, was holding around 6.34 at midday, with the general list showing net losses of about 4 to 9 points.

LIVERPOOL, March 27.—Cotton, 10,000 bales, including 4,900 American. Spot in better demand, improved business done; prices 3 points higher; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.88; good middling, 5.58; strict middling, 5.28; middling, 5.13; strict low middling, 4.98; low middling, 4.83; strict good ordinary, 4.63; good ordinary, 4.33. Futures closed quiet, March, 4.94; May, 4.95; July, 4.95; October, 4.99; December, 5.02; January, 5.03.

INCOME HOLDS, WEIR SAYS

National Steel Corporation earnings in the first quarter of 1933 will continue to exceed dividend requirements on the capital stock, Ernest T. Weir, chairman, informed stockholders at the company's annual meeting here today. National Steel was the only major steel company to show a profit in 1932.

All directors were re-elected. Stockholders also voted to change the capital stock from no par values to $25 par value. No bookkeeping changes are involved, as the stock was previously carried at stated value of $25 a share.

DIVIDEND NEWS

Gorham Pays Special.

Gorham Manufacturing Company has declared a special dividend of $1 a share out of surplus, payable March 31 to holders of record March 25. In January the directors deferred action on the dividend due March 1 and on March 24 decided to omit the payment because of lack of earnings, but distribution of the special dividend was authorized.

EFFECT OF BANK SITUATION NOT INFLATIONARY

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The elation which accompanied the first reopening of the speculative market places after the bank holiday wore off last week.

Mr. Rukeyser

There was a more sober attempt at appraising the actualities of the business situation and the difficulties of reversing the adverse economic trend. On analysis, the first assumptions that broad inflation was under way have been challenged.

Though the longer term results of the new policies will perhaps prove constructive, the immediate banking situation has been in reality deflationary in character, as one-fourth (in number, though fortunately not in resources) of the banks, with deposits estimated at $5,000,000,000, failed to reopen.

The withdrawal of so much purchasing power cannot but have an immediately depressing effect on business, and the statistical indexes confirm this inference. Doubtless efforts will be speeded to segregate the liquid from the illiquid resources of closed banks, with the result that the liquid assets will be promptly made subject to check.

FARM MOVE IMPORTANT

Whatever may be thought of the details of the proposed farm experiment, the objective—namely, to bolster up the purchasing power of farmers—is constructive. Under existing disparities, the farmers have been out of the market for manufactured goods, and have thus enormously deepened the depression in the cities, where unemployment has reached immense proportions.

The aim is to put farmers in a position so that they can again trade the products of their hours of labor with the products of the hours of labor of the city man.

In considering remedies, it should be borne in mind that the situation into which agriculture has fallen through years of mistaken politics calls for radical surgery.

PUBLIC WORKS PLANS

Likewise, the public works proposals are tied in with the major need of increasing the gross volume of business in the United States. Instead of dogmatically sticking to old positions, the business community should actively co-operate with the administration to make these experimental moves successful.

The public works remedy can be enormously helped by public approval, particularly if it is accompanied by a rise in private spending—both by individuals for consumption goods and by business for capital goods, in the form of deferred maintenance and correction of obsolescence, as well as ultimately in the use of some of the corporate liquid assets to build up inventories. In the final analysis, businessmen will move when they think that the time is ripe from a profits standpoint.

SENTIMENT BETTER

The coming of beer has a psychological value. New industries are obviously stimulating at this juncture, as a matter of fact, business sentiment is vastly better than current business.

Numerous executives have been heartened by the display of positive leadership at the White House, and they think that the counter offensive being launched against the depression has a chance to succeed. At least, they know that new influences have been loosed, which must be studied and appraised.

Foreign exchange rates indicate that the outside world has been heartened by the prospects of economic recovery in the United States.

SUGAR OUTPUT DROP SEEN

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(INS.)—Beet sugar production in the United States in 1933 probably will be 100,000 short tons less than last year, the United States Beet Sugar Association had estimated today after a telegraphic survey of the industry. The anticipated decrease is attributed to the long period of low prices and a lack of water in the irrigated districts of the Rocky Mountain States. The association said:

"Assuming normal fields, the contracts now being made with farmers indicate that the final out-turn of sugar will be slightly more than $1,250,000 short tons as compared with 1,351,000 short tons last year.

"In some of the western states, particularly Colorado, the water supply is lower than it has been for a number of years."

Graham Resigns As Rockne Official

CHICAGO, March 27.—George Graham, vice president in charge of sales and a director of Rockne Motors Corporation has resigned. His resignation is in line with Studebaker Corporation plans to merge the sales organization of the parent company and its subsidiary.

Visible Grain Supply.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The visible grain supply of American grain shows these changes in bushels: Wheat decreased 3,205,000; corn decreased 538,000; oats decreased 741,000; rye decreased 102,000; barley decreased 117,000.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 27.—The bond market was a quiet and generally narrow affair today with most price changes indicating no definite trend. German loans, many of which have been hovering around their year's lows, displayed mild rallying tendencies at one time. United States Government securities were somewhat steadier, but the activity in this list was restricted.

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Life of Andrew Carnegie

By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Carnegie Outspoken On Religious' Beliefs

FROM THE LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE BY BURTON J. HENDRICK

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie

In talk Carnegie was accustomed to discuss theological dogma with a vehemence that sometimes gave a false impression concerning his genuine beliefs. Stories of his unrestrained denunciation of outworn creeds, even in the presence of men and women who still clung to them, are plentiful, yet any impression that his attitude was an irreverent one is beside the fact. His deepest convictions on destiny and the nature of the divine would hardly shock the most conscientious and thoughtful person today.

In this, as in so many other matters, he was merely ahead of his epoch. Carnegie has left, in permanent and dignified form, what, for want of a better word, may be called his "creed." The first address which he prepared in 1902, as Lord Rector of St. Andrews, and which, because of pending theological excitements, he restrained from delivering or publishing, may be taken as the most illuminating summation of his religious beliefs. A few paragraphs extracted from this paper, addressed to young men, are sufficient for the purpose:

"At this period of my life [early days in Pittsburgh] I was all at sea. No creed, no system, reached me, all was chaos. I had outgrown the old and had found no substitute. Carlyle's wrestlings will give you an idea of my condition.

"Here came to me Spencer and Darwin, whom I read with absorbing interest, until laying down a volume one day I was able to say, 'That settles the question.' I had found at last the guides which led me to the temple of man's real knowledge upon earth. These works were revelations to me; here was the truth which reconciled all things as far as the finite mind can grasp them, the alembic which harmonized hitherto conflicting ideas and brought order out of chaos; what the law of gravitation did for matter, the law of evolution did for mind. I was upon firm ground, and with every year of my life since there has come less dogmatism, less theology, but greater reverence.

Deplorable Conflict

"It is greatly to be deplored that we have been compelled to hear much of an alleged warfare between science and religion. Undoubtedly science has caused and is still to cause many changes in theological ideas, but my experience is that science has been the handmaid of the religious sentiments; for the province of science is the discovery of what is true, and what is true in science can never be antagonistic to what is true in religion, for truth is one harmonious whole.

"This was, very naturally, not recognized in days past, before investigation was scientific. Religion, wisely conservative, assumed the defensive attitude and imagined danger in every discovery. Thus when science discovered the Copernican system, for instance, the Pope decided that this was warfare on religion; and so with every successive discovery down to those of evolution and the descent of man, timid souls who know not that the religious element is inherent in man have always feared its destruction.

"This was because these mistaken men thought that religion depended upon the scientific truth of the Mosaic account of Creation, such allegories as the Garden of Eden and the Fall of Man, or upon recorded miracles, while it reposes in imperturbable security upon much deeper foundation, and would exist had Moses never written or had the whole Bible been lost in the Dark Ages. Matthew Arnold's words are conclusive. The case against miracles is closed. 'They do not happen.'

"The religious sentiment is indigenous in every man in every part of the earth and will germinate as he advances; if he exists it must exist. It is only theology—man's dim, distorted, and in some instances, debasing misconceptions—that has to move on as more knowledge comes to us; religion lies under the troubled surface in still water pure and deep . . .

"I knew that the material my teacher supplied destroyed the superstitions of theology and produced in me purer, nobler, more reverent religious feelings than I could ever reach before. Judge of Spencer, gentlemen, by the raw material with which he closes his 'Ecclesiastical Institutions:'

"'One truth must grow ever clearer, the truth that there is an Inscrutable Existence everywhere manifested to which he can neither find nor conceive either beginning or end. Amid the mysteries which become the more mysterious the more they are thought about, this rule remains the one absolute certainty: that he is ever in presence of an Infinite and Eternal Energy from which all things proceed.'

"I believe in the thousands of years to come this passage is to stand as one of the most sublime utterances of men . . .

The Life Beyond

"We have been dealing so far with this life and you are perhaps wondering what of immortality, the life beyond?

"There is a clear answer to the inquiry. We have here an everlasting indestructible universe, not an atom ever destroyed. We have been placed in this world, we know not why or how. There would be no violation of the known law should we be ushered into another world as we have been into this, nor in our being endowed with everlasting existence like the universe of which we are a part.

"No greater wonder that we meet in another world hereafter than that we are met in this world now. The man who proclaims that there is a life beyond, as far as science or the reign of law speaks, has equal warrant for this statement with the man who states there is none.

"Here lies the foundation of everlasting hope, and it is a solid foundation. Neither the one nor the other can prove his contention. It is a matter of faith. To the most devout there come seasons of anxious doubt, not because there is not longing for immortality, but because the hope is so entrancing, we tremble, fearing sometimes that it is too good to be true.

"I have known personally only one great man over whose mind the shadow of doubt never passed, although his theology changed, as those of you know who have read his recent essays on Bishop Butler. This was Mr. Gladstone. How different from another of the great, his friend Tennyson, who, we know, had seasons of deep anxiety, and concluded that 'there lives more faith in honest doubt than in half the creeds.' If there was a man to be envied in the world in this respect it was Mr. Gladstone, in whom the light failed never.

Socrates Quoted

"How beautifully Socrates through Plato places this glorious hope before us after describing the future life: 'To affirm positively indeed that these things are exactly as I have described does not become a man of sense: that something of the kind takes place with respect to our souls and their habitations—since our soul is certainly immortal—this appears to be most fitting to be believed, for the thought is noble, and it is right to allure ourselves with such thoughts as with enchantments.'

"We may in our day be dwelling too much upon the life beyond in the future to the neglect and detriment of life here in the present. I think we are. Here in this life all our duties lie, none has yet been given us pertaining to another for which we hope. Obviously the business in hand is to attend to these duties. Rector Sir Stirling Maxwell quoted part of the noted passage of Confucius in his address: 'To perform the duties of this life well, troubling not about another, is the prime wisdom.'

"You will thank me for recalling to your memory in this connection a few additional lines from Arnold, which are cherished by me as the quintessence of religious wisdom. They are lines of dogmatic assertion and of reply—worth a thousand disputations.

"'Hath man no second life? Pitch this one high.
Sits there no judge in heaven our sin to see?
More strictly, then, the inward judge obey.
Was Christ a man like us: Ah! let us try
If we, then, too, can be such a man as He.'"

The Flapper's Daughter

Sharlie never remembered exactly how she found her way out of the place that night.

But all at once she was in the back yard, with the moonlight all around her, silvering the trash barrels and the empty boxes along the fence. The night air, blowing against her face, was delicious after the musty smell of the room she had left behind her.

"Hey, Sharlie, where are you going?" She had reached the middle of the yard when Eddie's voice stopped her for an instant. "There's nothing for you to get sore about—"

Then she darted into the narrow alley that led to the street. And not until she was standing on the sidewalk in front of the hardware store did she feel really safe.

She stood there for a moment or two, shaking herself all over as if she were trying to shake herself free from some contamination.

A street car was coming along the street, but Sharlie knew without looking that there was no money in the little bag that dangled from her wrist.

The walk home was not a long one.

Half way there, Sharlie stopped on a corner to peer at her reflection in a little round mirror of a gum machine.

Her hair was rumpled and blowing in every direction. Her lower lip was swollen visibly from Eddie's bruising kisses. There was a streak of lipstick on her cheek—full two inches from the corner of her mouth.

Sharlie wiped it off and walked on. And as she went she did some straight, hard thinking.

SHARLIE REPENTS

Every nerve in her body was quivering with self-disgust and shame.

"The whole filthy mess was my own fault," she told herself. "If I hadn't gone to his house this never would have happened . . . And if I hadn't had something to drink first I'd probably never have gone."

Her head was as clear as a crystal now. She could remember just how the thing had happened.

For months she had been joy-riding with Eddie. Taking a little drink every now and then. Letting him kiss her and put his arms around her by the hour as they sat in his car, parked at the side of the road somewhere out in the countryside.

"No wonder he thought he could maul me about all he wanted to tonight!" she went on thinking.

* * *

It was only half past ten when she reached the flat once more. But it seemed to her that she had been gone for hours and hours and hours.

The windows of the second floor sitting room were wide open. Through them floated the sound of radio music.

Sharlie looked up at them for a minute or two. Then she walked around to the back of the building.

AVOIDS FRIENDS

She certainly was not going to let the Hanaberrys and the Schultzes see her, the way she was!

She went slowly up the flight of steps that led to the small back porch that the Barnums and the Dunns shared.

There was a light in the Barnums' kitchen. Through the screen door Sharlie could see Gertrude and Guy King, her beau, standing at the sink.

They were making lemonade and she could hear the cool tinkling sound of ice in the pitcher that Gertrude was filling.

"If the thing that happened to me tonight had happened to Gertrude," Sharlie said to herself, going softly past the open door, "she'd go straight to her mother with the whole story."

Gertrude's mother knew practically everything there was to know about Gertrude.

She knew that as soon as Guy King was making $200 a month he was going to marry Gertrude—and that Gertrude was going to keep on with the career that she had planned for herself . . . Guy called Mrs. Barnum "Mother," and sometimes he kissed Gertrude right in front of her. There were no dark secrets in the Barnum family.

The kitchen of the Dunn's flat was full of light too. The inner door stood open, but the screen was closed and locked.

As Sharlie stood there, wondering how to get into the flat without letting anyone see her, the door from the dining room swung open and her mother stepped into the kitchen.

She had a tray of empty beer glasses in her hands, and behind her came Carl Hanaberry. He had taken off his coat and rolled his shirt sleeves up. His good-looking face was shiny and red with heat. He was laughing.

"Well the Schultzes trimmed us, kid!" he said to Sharlie's mother, taking the glasses from her and beginning to rinse them with cold water.

CALLS MOTHER

He stood close beside her, looking down at her. One hand, dripping wet, set down a glass on the drain-board. Then Sharlie saw it close over her mother's bare shoulder.

But she saw it with only the tail of her eye . . . What she was really looking at was Carl Hanaberry's face. Something in it—something in the slow smile that spread over it—made her suddenly remember Eddie's face a half hour before—Made her remember Eddie's loose-lipped smile.

"Dodie!" she cried out sharply. "Dodie!"

The two figures in the kitchen sprang apart as if some lightening-swift mechanism had pulled them away from each other.

Sharlie's mother turned toward the door, her eyes wide and startled.

"Great heavens! — Sharlie!" she gasped. She came across the kitchen on her high white heels and unlatched the screen door.

"Get in here!" she said. "What were you doing out there? Hiding in the dark—"

"I wasn't hiding." And Sharlie stepped into the kitchen. "I just wanted to come in."

Her mother shrugged her shoulders.

"Well, you're in now. And you'd better hop into bed. It's getting late."

SEEN CRYING

Not a question as to where she had spent her evening! Not a word about her bruised and swollen mouth, her wild hair. Not a question or a scolding of any sort—just a careless "Goodnight" from Dodie.

"Goodnight," the girl answered and went out of the kitchen, through the darkened dining room and into her own small room.

Without turning on the lights she flung herself across the bed, her face buried in the pillows and great noiseless sobs racking her whole slim body at last . . . It was a relief to cry here in the safe concealing darkness—

"Mother," Sharlie sobbed under her breath. "Mother"—

The door of the room was flung open.

"Sharlie, did you take my perfume out of my room today?" It was her mother who stood there, sharply outlined against the light in the hall for a second. Then she snapped on the lights in the room, and Sharlie sat up in bed and blinked.

"Whatever ARE you blubbering about?" Her mother stared at her for an instant with her blue eyes.

And in that instant Sharlie had the impulse to tell her why she was crying. For that second she was moved by the instinct of all bewildered youngsters to ask for an explanation of the things that happen to them for the first time—

DODIE ANGRY

Then all at once Dodie's eyes fell on the tall green glass atomizer that Sharlie had taken from her dressing table that noon when she was dressing for Eddie Wallis.

She caught the bottle up in her hand with a swift, angry movement. "If you don't leave my things alone, Sharlie Dunn! —This perfume costs $5 an ounce, and it's mine, not yours! Understand?"

Sharlie could hear her talking loudly to Maud Hanaberry in the hall a moment later.

"I don't see why I have to have a woman child to grow up and steal my perfume and things!" she complained half-jokingly. "A boy would be bad enough—but a girl is the simple limit! Sharlie just helps herself to my things—" Her voice trailed off into silence.

* * *

Five minutes later Sharlie's door opened again. It opened so softly that she did not hear it until it closed with a click.

"Who shut that door?" she asked, sitting bolt upright on the bed.

Synopsis

Pretty 18-year-old Sharlie Dunn entertains Eddie Wallis, young rounder in her home while her mother is at the beauty parlor. Edna Ballinger, Mrs. Dunn's cousin and boarder, arrives home from work early and sees Eddie. After he leaves, Edna warns Sharlie against him. That night, to prevent Sharlie from meeting Eddie, Edna threatens to tell Mrs. Dunn. Sharlie sneaks out. Eddie takes her to a dance. Sharlie gets sick and he takes her to his home. He makes violent love to her. Frightened, Sharlie rushes out.

KING WILLIAM OF PRUSSIA WAS PROCLAIMED EMPEROR OF GERMANY AT VERSAILLES (1871)

Heretofore the German states were united in a confederation. Under influence of the German victories over the French the opposition of the southern states against an empire was dropped and the German Empire proclaimed. Behind Emperor William I is Crown Prince Frederick William, before the steps Bismarck (white coat) and Moltke (profile). (World's History.)

LORD SAYE IS BROUGHT BEFORE JACK CADE

Cade: "Thou hast most traitorously corrupted the youth of the realm in erecting a grammar school; and, whereas, before, our forefathers had no other books but the score and the tally, thou hast caused printing to be used. . . ." (Shakespeare's King Henry VI., Part II.) (English.)

FLOTATION MACHINE

Flotation—a process of concentration—is the separation of the valuable from the valueless minerals contained in a mixture of broken sulphate ore. It is based on the buoyant effect of air bubbles in bringing the minerals to the surface to permit removal. The broken ore, mixed with water, some oil and sulphuric acid, is churned in the compartment (A) by propeller (C) on shaft (B). The aerated mixture passes through (D) in the flotation compartment (E), where the froth with its burden of minerals is scraped off into launder (G) by a revolving skimmer (S). Through valve (H) the settled material is drawn into the mixing compartment of an adjoining cell of similar design, where the process is repeated. (Simons: Ore Dressing.) (Chemistry.)

FORMING THE CYLINDERS

Through the blowing, the glass becomes cylindrical and at the same time it is lifted from the tanks of fluid batch. When the cylinders have reached a length of about 40 feet, the racks in the foreground will be raised to receive and lower them. (Science.)

MAGNETIC SEPARATOR

The separator is the application of magnetism to the concentration of magnetite iron ores by separating the valuable magnetic from the valueless non-magnetic gangue minerals. (Simons: Ore Dressing.) (Chemistry.)

No More Master Minds

The groucherious years from 1929 to 1933 will scramble south in history as the era of the floppification of the master minds.

One by two, our superb intellects have relinquished their hold on the industrial trellis and joined the drowning party in the red sea of ink.

There was Ezra Karoot, who ran a shoestring into a national chain of volcanic banks. Where is Ezra now? He is in a cool spot waiting for the evening mail and hoping it doesn't arrive.

Can we forget Peterkins Arritts, the boy financier? He operated on the good old optimistic angle that five would get you 10. And the transaction netted 15 for Peterkins.

Peterkins now sleeps in a tent on the desert. And like the Arabs he folds his canvas office and changes the location of his home factory every dawn.

There are a lot of people looking for Peterkins, who leaped his palatial bail. And who, by some energetic and endowed feat of acrobatics, managed to leave his thump prints on the sands of time.

And how about C. Orkus Gsmatt, the wizard of the annexes who turned the waste land into smiling metropolitan networks? C.

Orkus was known as the juvenile wonder and he guaranteed you a happy old age in five minutes.

C. Orkus is also among the missing. But not among the wounded. We're the suckers who are on that portion of the casualty list. Would like to shake C. Orkus by the hand because we have been taking twisting and wrenching lessons from an expert for three years.

Next to breaking a fiddler's wrist there is nothing we would like to do better than to get a good grip on the hand of C. Orkus. However, he is but one of many gigantic cerebrums who flitted and flashed across the 1928 horizon and then fluttered on to join the other master minds in back of the eight ball.

The boys had plenty of power until they developed short circuits and grid leaks. Now, that they are gone, we can return to normal, save a little money and look forward to a future minus master minds and their subsidized caddies.

The Wabash Tunnel Plan

The County Commissioners Should Not Postpone Indefinitely a Decision on the Project.

The County Commissioners have been postponing, over a period of many months, their decision on the proposal that the old Wabash Railroad tunnel and bridge into Pittsburgh be made suitable for vehicular traffic.

Engineers have reported on the project, and public hearings have been held at which lengthy arguments were presented for and against. And still no decision.

Now comes another development which threatens to cause further postponement—the recommendation of a New York consulting engineer that the original plan be amplified to provide for a second tunnel through which four lanes of traffic can be handled.

The public does not ask the Commissioners to give snap judgment, but the decision, already so long delayed, should not be unduly deferred.

Keystone of Recovery

Putting Idle Men Back to Work is the Chief Essential For the Restoration of Prosperity

Reabsorption of idle men and women in productive employment must be the mainspring behind the economics of recovery.

Progress back toward normalcy must be measured in statistics of employment.

The new administration is alive to the truth behind Frank A. Vanderlip's aphorism that prosperity consists of full employment of labor at high wages.

Long before the current depression, Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, was hard at work on legislation to heighten economic stability. He has become the recognized spokesman in Congress of scientific economists and humane social workers.

In introducing a new trio of labor bills, Senator Wagner, with an intuitive grasp of the fundamental realities, said:

"The inescapable fact which I have repeatedly asserted, but which has been in the past neglected, is that the keystone of recovery is the resumption of employment.

"The cost of opening jobs for men out of work is trifling compared to the waste of human life and wealth involved in the present unemployment of over 12,000,000 breadwinners."

One of the bills is designed to eliminate the red tape which delayed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in making loans for job-giving public and semi-public projects. In order to quicken the mobilization of picks and shovels, Mr. Wagner would liberalize the definition of eligible projects.

A second bill provides for nationally co-ordinated employment offices. This eminently desirable measure, universally plauded by experts, was passed by the last Congress, but oed by Mr. Hoover at the ill-advised suggestion of Secrey Doak.

The third would encourage through federal tax preferences the establishment of unemployment insurance by the states.

Of these three measures, the first is intended for immediate relief, and would supplement the new program which President Roosevelt is preparing.

The other two would not only be helpful in the emergency, but would be in the nature of permanent economic remedies.

In its new effort to substitute scientific planning and intelligent leadership for blind and chaotic drifting, Congress should speedily translate into law Senator Wagner's wise and humane proposals.

Make Them Pay

No One Should Be Allowed to Drive a Car Who Cannot Atone for Damage.

A number of bills are under consideration in the Legislature which have for their purpose the protection of the public from financially irresponsible motorists.

Some of the measures make it compulsory for motorists to carry liability insurance. A bill of another type provides that the license of a motorist who inflicts personal injuries or damages property shall be revoked until he pays for the harm he has done.

The motor clubs and individual motorists who believe in a square deal advocate the passage of such protective legislation.

No one should be allowed to drive an automobile unless he is able to pay for any damage for which he may be responsible.

The U. S. Air Forces

Aviation Branches of Both the Army and Navy Require Strengthening

In discharging its imperative duty to modernize our national defense afield and afloat, it is to be hoped that the new Congress, under the wise and vigorous leadership of President Roosevelt, will realize the increasing importance of aircraft.

To build up our Navy to treaty strength we must first replace over-age vessels and obsolete aircraft.

Having done this, we need next to round out our fleet by the construction of aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyer leaders, destroyers and submarines.

In all of these combatant classes our Navy is below treaty strength. As a result, instead of a Navy equal to the strongest, we have sunk to third place among the naval powers of the world.

If our Army is to be relied upon to perform its mission under the National Defense act, its combatant strength must be increased as provided for in that law.

And it is of the utmost urgency that the expansion of the Air Corps, under the five-year program authorized by Congress in 1926, shall go forward without further interruption.

It was the intention of Congress when this program was adopted that it should be completed this year.

Budget restrictions have delayed this program and by so much have delayed the modernizing of our military establishment.

The ultimate aim of our five-year program for our Army Air Corps is two-fold:

First, to add to the Army a definite number of tactical squadrons ready for immediate service should war come.

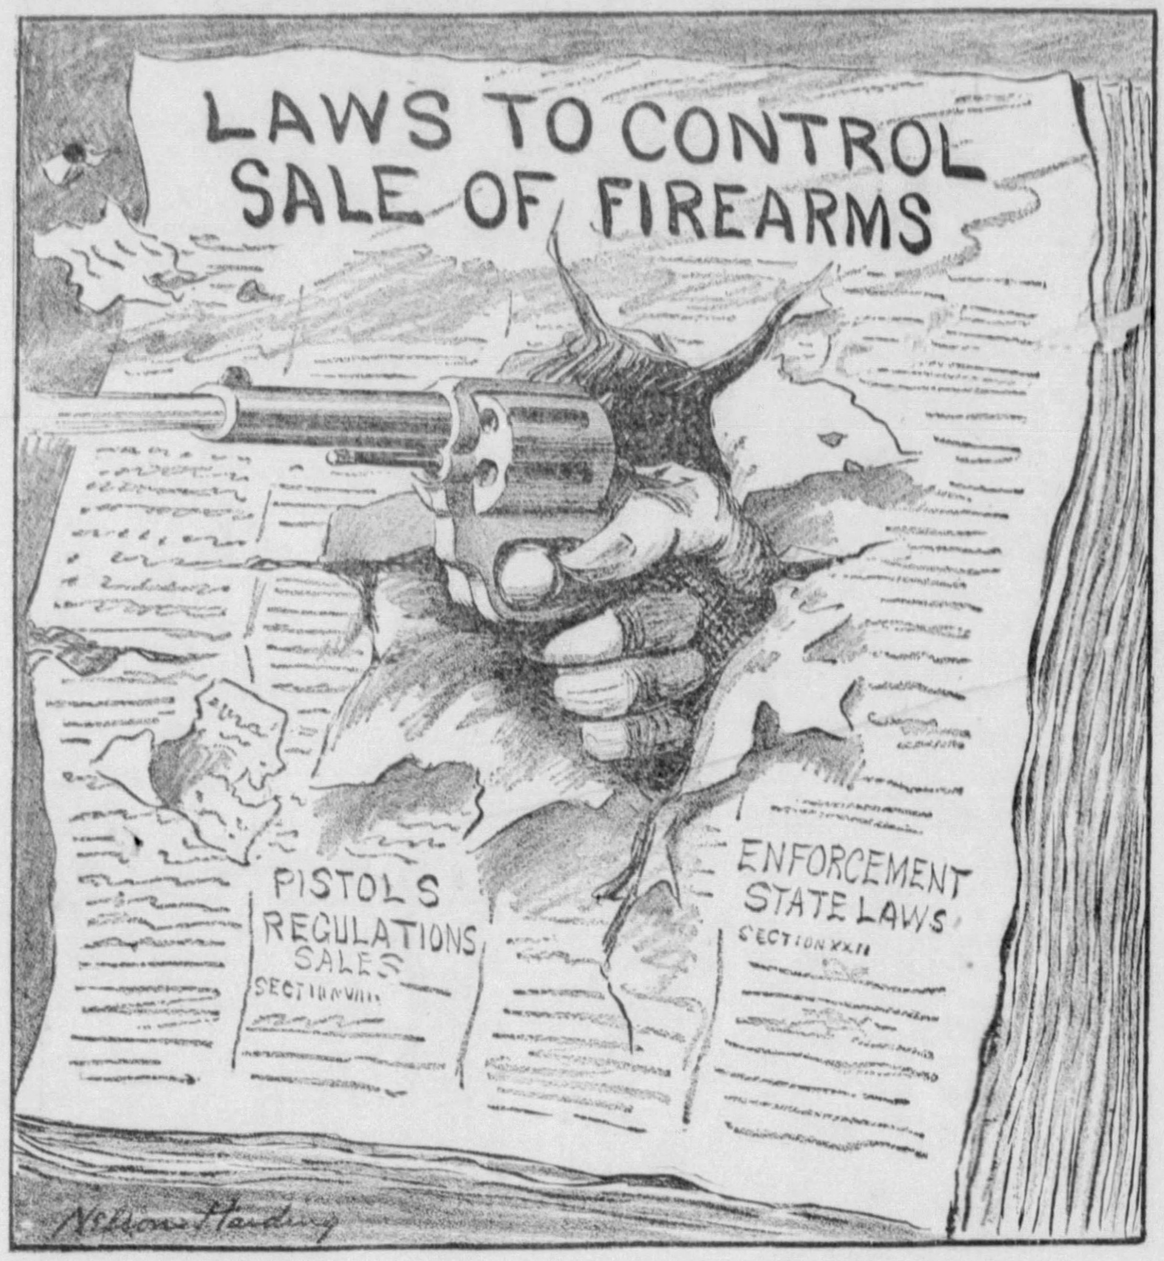
Second, to provide the frame-work for expanding our air forces whenever a national emergency requires.

In the upbuilding of our Navy and the strengthening of our Army, the construction of aircraft carriers and the completion of the five-year program for the Army Air Corps are of paramount importance.

And the country looks to the new President and the new Congress "to put first things first" by the immediate construction of more aircraft carriers for the Navy and the prompt completion of the five-year program of the Army Air Corps.

Shot to Pieces!

By Nelson Harding



Thin and flimsy is the bulwark,
Ineffective the protection
Of the nation's legal safeguards
Against use of deadly weapons.

One strong Federal Law is needed
To replace the many statutes
That are merely scraps of paper
To the merciless assassin.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, March 27.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early in my new paletot, to see Denise Coblentz's new Boston, Skippy. Then breakfasting with Jack Hobby, over from Paris, with news of the scatter of the old crowd around rue Cambon. And young Bob Hunt came, afever over dining with Helen Keller at Forest Hills.

Working, and then to sit awhile with Verne Porter, abed for the day with the vapors. Afterward, to the Clay Morgans, talking to Captain Norman Reilly Raine, the writer, Mrs. Arthur Samuels and others. Later, walking down Riverside Drive in the gathering dusk.

To dinner with Kay Brush and Bob Winans, and the Otis Wieses and Lucius Beebe there. And talking long to Selma Robinson, but did not realize until home that she was the author of as graceful a book of verse as ever I read. So reading Negley Cochran's "E. W. Scripps."

Probably New York's most select luncheon club is The Coffee House. It remains the only semblance of Mme. LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"How do men get that way? Why, it's perfectly shameless the favors they'll accept from a woman!"

No, it wasn't an indignant dowager of the Victorian vintage speaking. It was a Modern Professional Girl, who has just passed her bar exams—a lovely, lively, ash-blonde creature, age 27, and one of our most enthusiastic advocates of "equal rights and liberties for the sexes."

"I'd heard other women complaining," she continued, pausing long enough to light another cigaret from a smoldering stub, "but I didn't realize what it was all about until I left home and took an apartment for myself. And then—"

She laughed a bit ruefully, with an indignant sparkle to her delightfully mascaral eyes.

"And then I began to think I'd started a municipal 'flop house'—for every eligible male of my acquaintance moved right in!

"Honestly, Elsie, you never saw anything like it. By 4:30, before I'd left my office, the phone calls would begin. 'How about a little party? No; none of this night club stuff! Let's go domestic for an evening—stir up a bite for ourselves. You know, one of those grand old-fashioned home meals that us poor devils who have to live in hall bedrooms never get. Got a little sirloin in your frigidaire? I'll be up and broil it for you, youngster.'

"And so, until I got wise to the racket, I'd rush out and pick up a steak, with all the trimmings—and then spend a Perfectly Lovely Evening giving free hand-outs to my men friends.

"Honestly, that's the way it went, night after night. What did they contribute? Well, when they came the first time they might bring a few flowers, or a little candy. But never more than once. After that, they even expected me to supply the gin, and if I didn't—they'd give me the name of their bootlegger!

"Borrowing money from us—that's another one of the things those modern men do without the slightest compunction. Can you imagine your father, or mine, taking money from a woman, or letting a woman pay for his lunch or theater tickets? Yet these fellows do. The best they ever do is to agree to 'go Dutch'; and lots of times they won't even do that, but expect the girl to pay for everything!

"Getting free gas—that's another one of their rackets. Most of them have cars, but will they use them? Not if they can get the girl to use hers. I remember mother telling what a thrill it used to be for a girl to be taken to a party; but now it's the girl who does the taking! Or she goes alone, and meets her young man when and if he happens to drop in.

"Well, though I hate to admit it, the girls themselves are responsible for most of it! They start off all right, with a desire to be 'real fellows'; then they discover, as I did, that we have become so spoiled that you actually have to buy their companionship, or go without.

"Usually the girl, if she has a spark of pride, rebels when she makes this discovery. But you know how it is, Elsie. A working girl's life, unless she is living with her folks and old friends, is so terribly lonely. Sittintg alone, night after night, you get so you'll do almost anything just to hear a human voice. So you 'organize a little party.' Then the racket starts. But wouldn't you think men would be too proud to get that way?"

So there you have it—one of the commonest problems in this topsy-turvey age. And what's the answer?

Did, or didn't, we modern women ask for this when we clamored for Equal Rights—and got 'em? We wanted to be "treated like reglar fellows," didn't we? But don't "reglar fellows" borrow from each other; impose on each other? And when did you or anyone ever hear of one man "being chivalrous" to another man?

Then why should a man "be chivalrous" to a woman who loudly protests she's "as good as a man"—and proves it by competing and often beating him in business life?

Yet grafting on the girl friend's gas; sponging on her scrip—it does seem a bit raw, doesn't it?

But then, what? YOU tell.

Acting on the Jobless: America and Jews

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The farm relief bill is coming in for the usual criticism where farm relief is concerned. Some have discovered that it is not in accord with Democratic principles. The answer to that is that it is an emergency and temporary measure to meet a serious crisis threatening the utter ruin of the nation's basic industry. There is another answer—militarism is not in accord with Democratic principles; but when we are at war, as in 1917-18, it was the Democratic principle to build a powerful army.

Another criticism is that it is intended to increase the price of farm products by governmental action. Well, we of the cities would starve in a month if the farmers ceased to produce the food that feeds us. At present the farmers' products sell for less than the cost of production. Of course we, of the cities, make a habit of working at a loss, and some of us cannot understand why we should pay enough for the food we eat to meet the cost of its production.

For a decade the government has done nothing effective to save agriculture. That is the reason there are 30,000,000 farm people out of the purchasing class. Because of the loss in the trade of these 30,000,000 people, some millions of factory workers are in the street. If these 30,000,000 can be restored to the purchasing class, vast numbers of jobless city workers will go back on wages and return to the purchasing class.

Now an experiment, frankly described as such, is to be made. One thing is certain: if we of the cities imagine the farmers are going on forever working from dawn to dark to feed us at a loss, we must be a bit off in common sense.

* * *

Problem of The Jobless

With that measure pending, and demagogues and partisans busy trying to array the city against the farm when common sense and justice demand that their mutual interest be recognized, President Roosevelt goes to Congress on the problem of the jobless. Another brief, concise, clear message that any child can understand.

He asks authority to proceed at once to the creation of a civilian conservation corps to confine itself to forestry, the prevention of soil erosion, flood control, etc., that can put a quarter of a million of jobless men to work. The work these men do will be in harmony with our national policy and permanently add to the wealth of the nation.

There is a second item in the presidential program: He reports that the money available for grants to states for relief work will be exhausted in May and he asks a further appropriation before the session ends.

And there is a third item—"a broad public works labor-creating program." The President reports that he is now studying "the many projects suggested and the financial questions involved" with the view to making recommendations during this congressional session.

Here again we have decision, determination, courage, and a bold facing of realities. It is the first time since the streets began to fill with men eager to work and denied their right to work, that the head of the nation has acknowledged a duty on the part of government.

And that is making progress.

Mistreatment of Jews In Germany

But in the midst of our own problems the world scene flashes upon us, and America is uneasy because of the threatened persecution of the Jews in Germany under the new Hitler regime. American mass meetings protest; distinguished Americans, not Jews, join in the protest; Rabbi Wise discusses the situation in Washing; and the State Department asks the American Embassy in Berlin for a full and exact report.

One thing is perfectly clear—the mistreatment of an American Jew in Germany becomes the business of the American government.

It is not so clear that the mistreatment of German Jews by the German government is a subject on which our government effectively may protest.

It is a subject on which humanity generally throughout the world can protest, and this protest is being heard. There are great numbers of Americans who respect and admire the German people who regret the scenes in Berlin and Munich as much because of the effect internationally on the German nation as upon the Jews.

* * *

An Interesting Incident

Twenty years ago the United States Senate abrogated a treaty with Russia because of the Jews. The persecution of the Jewish people there had long been proverbial. There was nothing we could do about that; any more than Russia could do anything about occasional lynchings of Americans here.

But American Jews were mistreated in Russia and refused the full status of Americans traveling there, and upon that fact, as we understand, the Senate abrogated the treaty.

It was an interesting incident to me because I was in the Senate and heard Senator Raynor's Ciceronian philippic denouncing abrogation. Most of the time I was looking up at the Diplomatic Gallery at a small man with a beard who was peering through glasses upon the speaker. It was the Russian ambassador who had married the sister of Mrs. John R. McLean. His features denoted no feeling—his face was a mask.

* * *

Protection of Jews In Foreign Country

For many years America has been embarrassed from time to time by the Russian treatment of the Jews and of American Jews in Russia. When Pinkos, an American Jew, was ordered out of the country forthwith because of a crime in which he was not even charged as implicated, William M. Evarts, our Secretary of State, made vigorous protest and solemnly warned that if he was suffering persecuted because of his religion "he would be justly entitled to make reclamation for the damage and loss to which he might thereby be subjected." The result was that Pinkos was not molested. But the best Evarts could do was to get the promise from St. Petersburg of special treatment for Jews of American citizenship.

The same trouble arose some years later when Blaine was at the head of the State Department under Garfield. At that time Blaine went out of the traditional path in seeking better treatment for the Jews in Russia. He proposed that the United States and England make common cause in the protection of their nationals of the Jewish faith and seek a common understanding by all other nations in the hope of ameliorating the persecution of the Jewish people. But this was purely a humanitarian plan resting entirely on the pressure of persuasion.

When the matter of recognizing Rumania was pending in the days of Evarts an attempt was made by him to secure assurances as to the treatment of the Jews and the ruler was informed that "this Government has ever felt a deep interest in the welfare of the Hebrew race in foreign countries, and has viewed with abhorrence the wrongs to which they have at various periods been subjected by the followers of other creeds in the East."

* * *

Pressure of Public Opinion Would Aid

More can be done, perhaps, by the pressure of public opinion to save the Jews in Germany from persecution by government than in any other way.

The reaction of mankind ought to give pause to the persecution threatened. That, and a realization that Germany owes much to the genius of the Jew in business, banking, shipping, literature and art.

The friends of Germany hope to find that the incidents which so have aroused the world have had neither incentive in nor sanction of Hitler and the government, and that they represent nothing more than the unintelligent frenzy of an irresponsible mob which promptly can, and will, be brought within bounds by the strong arm of government. For any government conniving in these precautions will pay the penalty in the loss of the respect of mankind.

Do you know:

1. In what country is Aden?
2. Who was the chaplain of the 69th Regiment in the World War?
3. What form of government has Austria?
4. What is the chief city of Bulgaria?
5. Who was the first President to be inaugurated at Washington,
6. What is the only state now producing sulphur?
7. What was Pierre Loti's real name?
8. What title is used by the wife of an Earl?
9. What is the outflow of the Columbia River?
10. Where over the Hudson River is Bear Mountain Bridge?

Match correctly:

11. John Adams	wrote fairy tales
12. William Wordsworth	the people of Delphi killed him
13. Hans Christian Anderson	lived at Rydal Mount, England
14. Brigham Young	the first U. S. Ambassador to England
15. Aesop	laid out Salt Lake City

Answers to today's tests:

1. Arabia. 2. Rev. F. P. Duffy. 3. Republic. 4. Sofia. 5. Thomas Jefferson. 6. Texas. 7. Julien Viaud. 8. Countess. 9. Pacific Ocean. 10. 3½ miles north of Peekskill. 11. The first Ambassador to England. 12. Lived at Rydal Mount, England. 13. Wrote fairy tales. 14. Laid out Salt Lake City. 15. The people of Delphi killed him.
